Supporters Point Out Perils to Children in Other Ideas

A majority report of the traffic committee of the Common Council favoring the present detour around the Broadway crossing project area was adopted by a party vote last night at a regular council session.

The report rejected a proposal by Tenth Ward Alderman James J. Carroll (D.) that Smith and TenBroeck avenues be made one-way streets. Seventh Ward Alderman J. Richard Smith (D.) was absent and the vote was 8-4 on the majority report.

More intersections would be involved in the one-way street proposal if TenBroeck avenue were included, the report said, and traffic would flow heavier through a residential area "increasing the possibility of a child being hit by a motorist."

Third Ward Alderman Edwin Radel (D.) who co-sponsored the Carroll resolution, said it was the opinion of many, including police officers, that the one-way street proposal would be better and would help relieve what is expected to be a serious bottleneck for the heavy summer flow of traffic.

No Demands Made

Eighth Ward Alderman Joseph N. Bruck (R.) answered that there was nothing demanding that "the people of the city have to use the present detour....they know their way round," but for the general detour, he held "the best thing was to get back to Broadway as quickly as possible."

Second Ward Alderman Benjamin A. Storms, (R), chairman of the traffic committee reminded the aldermen that "when the budget was aired the minority wished to strike out the money to be used for extra police work." Their suggestion now, he held, would mean including more intersections, which would require still more police protection.

Radel, Storms and Bruck differed on the question of bringing extra traffic past the intersection leading into School No. 5 from Foxhall avenue. The latter contended that the one-way proposal leading traffic into Ten Broeck would bring it past the school intersection, and Radel contended that a sign at Broadway and Foxhall avenue was already leading traffic that way.

"Thats' only as far as Prince street," Bruck said, and he contended that Radel's belief in the one-way proposal was a matter "of your personal opinion."

Approved by State

Radel said he had canvassed many and found much in support of his opinion, and Bruck asked: "Has anyone a better opinion than the chief of police." Storms added that the present detour was also recommended by state men, and he held that it has not been given a fair chance.

Carroll also talked in support of his original resolution stressing that he had "received many complaints." He still though, he said, that the plan would relieve congestion on Smith avenue.

Majority Report

The traffic committee's majority report:

At the January meeting of the Common Council a resolution of Alderman Carroll was referred to the Traffic Control Committee to change the existing detours caused by Broadway Crossing Elimination and to make Smith avenue one way east bound and Ten Broeck avenue one way west bound.

The existing detours were heretofore unanimously approved by the Common Council.

It seems to us that no detour system will be perfect since it is necessary to divert a heavy stream of traffic off a main artery of traffic. When four lane traffic is diverted into two lanes, regardless of what route is set up, there has to be inconvenience.

The problem presented is to find the best possible system under existing circumstances.

Rescuers Swarm Over Train Wreckage

This was the scene at Woodbridge, N. J., as rescue workers began to cut through the twisted wreckage of a high speed Pnnsylvania Railroad commuter train which plunged to a street below when an overpass gave way.

Probes Are Ordered to Fix Blame

Trestle Buckled

Woodbridge Mayor Says Trestle Did Not Fall in Collapse

Woodbridge, N. J., Feb. 7 (AP)—A crowded commuter train plunged off a newly-erected trestle last night, killing 82 persons and injuring about 500. It was the nation's worst train wreck in 32 years.

Throughout the night and far into today, rescue workers hacked through the twisted mass of wreckage. They said other bodies still may be found in the crumpled coaches and debris.

The 11-car Pennsylvania Railroad train, "The Broker," swerved wildly and jumped the tracks as it sped onto the midtown overpass. The cars, jackknifing crazily, hurtled down a 20-foot embankment.

The new, temporary overpass had been put in service only a few hours before the crash.

F.B.I. Investigates

In Newark, the F.B.I. said it was investigating to determine "whether sabotage was involved."

The railroad, conducting its own probe, said it could offer no immediate explanation for the cause of the wreck.

The dead included bankers, lawyers and businessmen, prominent in their localities and civic life, most of them home-bound from New York city offices.

In mid-morning, the list of identified dead stood at 77, with four bodies still unidentified.

Worst Since 1918

The rush-hour crackup was the worst in the nation since 1918 when 115 were killed in a Nashville, Tenn., wreck, and more disastrous than a 1943 accident outside Philadelphia that took 80 lives.

It was the third major train wreck in the metropolitan area in less than a year. A total of nearly 200 died in the three crackups.

In Washington, the Interstate Commerce Commission ordered an inquiry into the new disaster, with a public hearing to open tomorrow.

On orders of New Jersey Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll, the state's attorney general, Theodore Parsons, also began an investigation. He reached the scene early today, and sent an assistant to a hospital to question the critically injured engineer of the wrecked train.

Loaded to Aisles

It was loaded to the aisles with homebound commuters — mostly from New York—on their way to Red Bank, Long Beach, Asbury Park and other communities on New Jersey's wealthy north shore.

Engineer Joseph H. Fitzsimmons, a veteran of 33 accident-free years on the road, blamed the overcrowded coaches and the new trestle for the tragedy.

Alive but injured, the 57-year-old Fitzsimmons said from a hospital cot:

"The moment my engine passed over the trestle and lurched sharply I felt the rest of the cars would never make it.

"I hit the trestle at about 25 miles per hour and the speed of the train certainly couldn't be blamed for the crash. When I started to sway, I applied the brakes, but it apparently was too late."

Disagree With Engineer

Passengers and at least one railroad detective—who did not give his name—disagreed with the engineer on the speed of the train. The detective said it was going at top speed when it hit the trestle.

The Pennsylvania, in a statement, said a 25 mile an hour speed

Allies Smash Ahead To Seoul Approaches

3 Tank Columns Aid Troops Who Use Bayonets on Reds

Tokyo, Feb. 7 (AP) — Allied ground forces smashed forward today with three powerful tank columns to the last hills guarding the plains of shattered Seoul.

American doughboys with flashing bayonets drove Reds from vital heights at one point.

The Chinese and Korean Reds were digging in for a new stand on the ridges just south of Seoul. At their backs was the Han river, still an ice-covered way of retreat for the Reds but now on the verge of thawing.

On the central front, United Nations forces with South Koreans in the lead pushed northward toward the old Parallel 38 border.

On the east coast, South Korean forces secured high ground three miles east and west and five miles south of Kangnung, a coastal road town 17 miles south of 38. Allied naval power blasted the Reds in Kangnung.

War Complexion Shifts

The whole complexion of the war had shifted once again. The Allies had regained the initiative in their 14-day-old "limited" offensive and the Reds were giving ground.

Allied artillery was in position to pour shells into the old Korean capital of Seoul, abandoned Jan. 4 for the second time in the Korean war by anti-Communist forces.

Three tank task forces prowled the southern approaches to Seoul again Wednesday for the third straight day, shooting up Red rearguards wherever they chose to make a stand.

One force rolled within four miles of the Han river and was only seven miles southeast of Seoul. Others met heavy Red resistance as they rumbled to points eight to ten miles southwest of Seoul. Late in the day they made

Birds Only Deaths In Atomic Blasts; Last Test Held

Las Vegas, Nev., Feb. 7 (AP)—A handful of birds apparently are the only casualties of five atomic explosions set off on the new government range near here.

Twenty-four hours after the fifth and latest blast—which the Atomic Energy Commission says was the last in its current series of tests—there was no report of injury to humans or livestock.

The report of the dead birds came from Fred Bartley, a uranium prospector. He telephoned the Los Angeles Times yesterday from Indian Springs, a community some 30 miles from the site of the explosion, that he had found "a few dead birds, some of them robins," after the blast.

He said they "appeared to have been killed probably by blast injury rather than by radioactive poisons. These birds presumably were able to fly here from a point much closer to the explosion than we were."

Las Vegans were glad to hear that explosion No. 5 would be the last, at least for a while. Yesterday morning's blast rocked the town and broke two show windows. Residents agreed it was the biggest of the series which began Jan. 27.

There was no indication as to what type of weapon was being tested.

Youngsters Warned Of Treacherous Ice

Police Chief Raymon Van Buren, following reports of local youngsters risking the softening ice on the Rondout Creek for skating, today issued a warning against the practice.

"Skating on the creek is now dangerous," the chief said, "and while we have received no direct complaints at headquarters, I want to warn local youngsters not to take the risk."

Those who have observed conditions in the creek the past two days said there are many soft spots and some would not be observed in time by skaters.

To Hold Convention

DiFore Is Given Term for Escape

Depew Arraigned in Court on Morals Charge; Other Cases

Christino DiFore of Niagara county, who escaped from Wallkill prison on December 26, 1949, entered a plea of guilty to that charge in County Court this morning and County Judge John M. Cashin sentenced DiFore to a term from 1½ to 3 years at hard labor in Clinton State Prison. Thomas Saccoman appeared by assignment for DiFore.

In imposing sentence Judge Cashin told the defendant that a maximum of seven years could be imposed but the court was taking into consideration that DiFore had volunteered for military service and had served nearly four years in the navy aboard the carrier Ranger in both the Pacific and Atlantic.

DiFore said he had become "sick" of staying at Wallkill when his application for a transfer had been turned down. He walked away from the prison and was apprehended nearby when he was discovered walking along the road in light clothing which did not correspond to the temperature on that particular date.

George Depew of Stone Ridge was arraigned by District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn on a charge of impairment of the morals of a minor, alleged to have been committed on November 26, last. Howard C. St. John was assigned and a plea of innocent was entered, bail was continued and the case set down for February 9 at 10 o'clock. There were two counts in the indictment.

Case Is Adjourned

The case of Mabel Carr was adjourned until February 13 at 10 o'clock in order to give Bernard A. Culloton, assigned counsel, further opportunity to consult with his client.

Donald Hendricks, indicted with two others for burglary, third degree, and unlawful entry, was adjudged eligible to be treated under the Youthful Offender law and his case was set down for February 13 at 10 o'clock at chambers. John Larkin appeared for Hendricks. There are three indictments against Hendricks. He entered a plea of not guilty to the charge of being a youthful offender and was remanded to jail until the date for disposition of his case.

Measure Approved

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 7 (AP)—The Legislature approved today a war emergency measure authorizing Governor Dewey to reactivate the state guard immediately to replace national guard units called into federal service. Final action came in the Senate. Under present law, the governor can not reactivate the state guard until at least 75 per cent of the national guard personnel in the state is summoned to federal duty.

Atlantic Nations to Have Unified Navy Under Yank

Washington, Feb. 7 (AP)—The Atlantic Treaty nations have virtually completed plans for setting up a unified sea force, like the combined land and air forces on the continent, with an American admiral as top commander.

Admiral William M. Fechteler, commander-in-chief of the Atlantic fleet, probably will be named to head the supreme allied command organization for the North Atlantic ocean region, it was learned today.

Although the North Atlantic region command is part of the overall pattern of common defense for the North Atlantic Treaty organization (NATO) countries on both sides of the ocean, it apparently is not intended to be subordinate to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's western European forces but to have something like coequal status. A communique issued after last fall's NATO sessions here spoke of a "supreme allied command" for the North Atlantic ocean area.

Upon the command will devolve the task of keeping open the vitally important sea lanes to western Europe in event of war on the continent. The surface ships, submarines and carrier and land-based airplanes of the combined navies of ten of the treaty nations would be responsible for holding in check efforts by enemy submarines, bombers and warships to cut the flow of reinforcements

Common Council Delays Action on Money for B.P.W.

Matter Will Receive Consideration at February 20 Session

The Common Council last night delayed until a recessed meeting Feb. 20, approval of an appropriation of $145,438.10 for public works street improvement and equipment.

Left in committee were proposals for purchasing two new fire engines at an estimated $20,000, a bid for new bus service in the First and Third avenue and Ulster street section, and an offer for a new parking meter advertising contract.

The council adopted, on favorable report of its traffic committee, proposals by Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk for changing traffic lights at intersections along the crossing project detour.

Lights Are Proposed

A letter from the mayor dated Jan. 17 proposed that two overhead four-way, three-phase traffic lights be installed at Grand street and Smith avenue and at Cornell street and Smith avenue, and that the lights at Broadway, Henry and O'Neil streets, be replaced with two double-section, three-phase, overhead, hanging traffic lights, so that traffic can move more orderly and relieve congestion.

The request for the $145,438.10, said $75,000 would be used for highway construction and $70,436.10 for equipment. It listed more than 40 streets, some of which are in each ward.

Most important of the projects were: Wilbur avenue from Abeel street to Greenkill avenue, and Cornell street, from TenBroeck to Foxhall, both listed at an estimated cost of, $18,000 each.

Others listed were: Flatbush avenue from the railroad crossing to East Chester street at an estimated $15,000; Andrew street from Broadway to Mary's avenue, $12,000; Delaware avenue, from Broadway to the railroad crossing, $9,500, and Fair street from St.

Rail Tie-Up Eases As Men Return

Service Is Near Normal on Major Lines, but All Is Not Bright

(By The Associated Press)

The critical and costly tie-up of the nation's railroad transportation appeared easing today as more striking switchmen joined in the back-to-work movements which started yesterday.

However, there was not a full-scale return across the country marking the end of the "sick call" walkout which started on Jan. 30. Indications were that the crippling week-long stoppage was nearing an end in most parts of the country.

Several bright spots appeared on the troubled rail fronts allowing the first major break yesterday when thousands of switchmen returned to work.

Move Spreads

Service was normal on major lines in the New York and New England areas. It was near normal in many other cities. And many carriers expressed hope for normal service soon as the back-to-work movement spread from city to city.

But there were some dark spots, too, in the overall picture.

There were a couple of new, although small, walkouts. And not many trains were moving in some of the key rail centers—notably Chicago, St. Louis, Cleveland and the Twin Cities.

The delay in a full return to work delayed the recall of thousands of workers in rail-related industries. More than 250,000 had been made idle in the last week because of the rail work stoppage.

Despite the apparent growing back-to-work moves, the Defense Transport Administration (DTA) in Washington ordered trucks to give top priority to movement of vital government shipments and to help break the log jam of undelivered mail.

Others Quit

A railroad spokesman in Washington yesterday saaid that "any idea that the show is over is completely erroneous." He said that for every group that goes back to work "there's another bunch that goes out."

The situation in Chicago, where about 95 per cent of the normal

Two Say Board Awarded Contracts For Central School

Bell and Haver Declare Taxpayers' Action May Be Started as Result

Charging that the Onteora School Board secretly awarded contracts yesterday afternoon for the construction of a central school at Boiceville, depite the fast that the Board lacked a sufficient appropriation to do the work, Claude Bell and Robert Haver indicated that a taxpayers' action may be started to restrain what was characterized as "high-handed" action. The joint statement follows:

"Meeting secretly yesterday afternoon in Kingston, the Onteora School Board awarded contracts for the construction of the Boiceville school, even though they do not have the necessary money to do the work in accordance with the bids and ven though the question of an extra $300,000 appropriation is not to be voted upon until February 13.

"The lowest bids received on January 16 for the general construction work was that submitted by I. & O. A. Slutsky of Hunter, N. Y. Their lowest base bid, eliminating the bus garage and the terrazo floor, was $1,350.000. In other words that was their minimum bid eliminating all alternates for which bids were taken. The low bid for the heating, also eliminating all alternates, was that of E. W. Tompkins of Albany in the amount of $154,800. The low bid for plumbing, excluding alternates was submitted by M. Kramer & Sons of Albany in the amount of $115,400. For the electrical work bids were orginally taken on January 16 but they were then rejected. New bids were supposed to be received on January 29, according to the published legal notice. For some reason they were not taken at that time.

"Last Monday night, although no legal notice was given, the board received bids for electrical

Michigan Mother Is Found; Says She Plans Divorce

New York, Feb. 7 (AP)—A socially-prominent Michigan mother, who "disappeared" from a hotel with her four young children Sunday, was located in another hotel today and said she intended to get a divorce.

She declined to comment on what grounds she would base her divorce action.

Mrs. Saunders, wife of a navy officer, was located at the hotel Mansfield in the Times Square area shortly after midinght by detective John Kenny. The children were with her.

Search for her began yesterday when her husband, Lieut. Frank Saunders, asked police help. She had left her maid and luggage at the Biltmore.

The hotel management had refused to awaken Mrs. Saunders until after daybreak.

She spoke with reporters briefly as she left the Mansfield with the children and her sister, Mrs. Patricia Mann of New York, for her sister's home.

At that time, she apparently had not seen her husband.

He said his wife and the children arrived here Jan. 28 from their home in Grosse Pointe. He added that they made the trip

Twenty-four hours after the fifth and latest blast—which the Atomic Energy Commission says was the last in its current series of tests—there was no report of injury to humans or livestock.

The report of the dead birds came from Fred Bartley, a uranium prospector. He telephoned the Los Angeles Times yesterday from Indian Springs, a community some 30 miles from the site of the explosion, that he had found "a few dead birds, some of them robins," after the blast.

He said they "appeared to have been killed probably by blast injury rather than by radioactive poisons. These birds presumably were able to fly here from a point much closer to the explosion than we were."

Las Vegans were glad to hear that explosion No. 5 would be the last, at least for a while. Yesterday morning's blast rocked the town and broke two show windows. Residents agreed it was the biggest of the series which began Jan. 27.

There was no indication as to what type of weapon was being tested.

Youngsters Warned Of Treacherous Ice

Police Chief Raymon Van Buren, following reports of local youngsters risking the softening ice on the Rondout Creek for skating, today issued a warning against the practice.

"Skating on the creek is now dangerous," the chief said, "and while we have received no direct complaints at headquarters, I want to warn local youngsters not to take the risk."

Those who have observed conditions in the creek the past two days said there are many soft spots and some would not be observed in time by skaters.

To Hold Convention

Measure Approved

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 7 (AP)—The Legislature approved today a war emergency measure authorizing Governor Dewey to reactivate the state guard immediately to replace national guard units called into federal service. Final action came in the Senate. Under present law, the governor can not reactivate the state guard until at least 75 per cent of the national guard personnel in the state is summoned to federal duty.

Atlantic Nations to Have Unified Navy Under Yank

Washington, Feb. 7 (AP)—The Atlantic Treaty nations have virtually completed plans for setting up a unified sea force, like the combined land and air forces on the continent, with an American admiral as top commander.

Admiral William M. Fechteler, commander-in-chief of the Atlantic fleet, probably will be named to head the supreme allied command organization for the North Atlantic ocean region, it was learned today.

Although the North Atlantic region command is part of the overall pattern of common defense for the North Atlantic Treaty organization (NATO) countries on both sides of the ocean, it apparently is not intended to be subordinate to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's western European forces but to have something like coequal status. A communique issued after last fall's NATO sessions here spoke of a "supreme allied command" for the North Atlantic ocean area.

Upon the command will devolve the task of keeping open the vitally important sea lanes to western Europe in event of war on the continent. The surface ships, submarines and carrier and land-based airplanes of the combined navies of ten of the treaty nations would be responsible for holding in check efforts by enemy submarines, bombers and warships to cut the flow of reinforcements

Rail Tie-Up Eases As Men Return

Service Is Near Normal on Major Lines, but All Is Not Bright

(By The Associated Press)

The critical and costly tie-up of the nation's railroad transportation appeared easing today as more striking switchmen joined in the back-to-work movements which started yesterday.

However, there was not a full-scale return across the country marking the end of the "sick call" walkout which started on Jan. 30. Indications were that the crippling week-long stoppage was nearing an end in most parts of the country.

Several bright spots appeared on the troubled rail fronts allowing the first major break yesterday when thousands of switchmen returned to work.

Move Spreads

Service was normal on major lines in the New York and New England areas. It was near normal in many other cities. And many carriers expressed hope for normal service soon as the back-to-work movement spread from city to city.

But there were some dark spots, too, in the overall picture.

There were a couple of new, although small, walkouts. And not many trains were moving in some of the key rail centers—notably Chicago, St. Louis, Cleveland and the Twin Cities.

The delay in a full return to work delayed the recall of thousands of workers in rail-related industries. More than 250,000 had been made idle in the last week because of the rail work stoppage.

Despite the apparent growing back-to-work moves, the Defense Transport Administration (DTA) in Washington ordered trucks to give top priority to movement of vital government shipments and to help break the log jam of undelivered mail.

Two Say Board Awarded Contracts For Central School

Bell and Haver Declare Taxpayers' Action May Be Started as Result

Charging that the Onteora School Board secretly awarded contracts yesterday afternoon for the construction of a central school at Boiceville, depite the fast that the Board lacked a sufficient appropriation to do the work, Claude Bell and Robert Haver indicated that a taxpayers' action may be started to restrain what was characterized as "high-handed" action. The joint statement follows:

"Meeting secretly yesterday afternoon in Kingston, the Onteora School Board awarded contracts for the construction of the Boiceville school, even though they do not have the necessary money to do the work in accordance with the bids and ven though the question of an extra $300,000 appropriation is not to be voted upon until February 13.

"The lowest bids received on January 16 for the general construction work was that submitted by I. & O. A. Slutsky of Hunter, N. Y. Their lowest base bid, eliminating the bus garage and the terrazo floor, was $1,350.000. In other words that was their minimum bid eliminating all alternates for which bids were taken. The low bid for the heating, also eliminating all alternates, was that of E. W. Tompkins of Albany in the amount of $154,800. The low bid for plumbing, excluding alternates was submitted by M. Kramer & Sons of Albany in the amount of $115,400. For the electrical work bids were orginally taken on January 16 but they were then rejected. New bids were supposed to be received on January 29, according to the published legal notice. For some reason they were not taken at that time.

Matter Will Receive Consideration at February 20 Session

The Common Council last night delayed until a recessed meeting Feb. 20, approval of an appropriation of $145,438.10 for public works street improvement and equipment.

Left in committee were proposals for purchasing two new fire engines at an estimated $20,000, a bid for new bus service in the First and Third avenue and Ulster street section, and an offer for a new parking meter advertising contract.

The council adopted, on favorable report of its traffic committee, proposals by Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk for changing traffic lights at intersections along the crossing project detour.

Lights Are Proposed

A letter from the mayor dated Jan. 17 proposed that two overhead four-way, three-phase traffic lights be installed at Grand street and Smith avenue and at Cornell street and Smith avenue, and that the lights at Broadway, Henry and O'Neil streets, be replaced with two double-section, three-phase, overhead, hanging traffic lights, so that traffic can move more orderly and relieve congestion.

The request for the $145,438.10, said $75,000 would be used for highway construction and $70,436.10 for equipment. It listed more than 40 streets, some of which are in each ward.

Most important of the projects were: Wilbur avenue from Abeel street to Greenkill avenue, and Cornell street, from TenBroeck to Foxhall, both listed at an estimated cost of $18,000 each.

Others listed were: Flatbush avenue from the railroad crossing to East Chester street at an estimated $15,000; Andrew street from Broadway to Mary's avenue, $12,000; Delaware avenue, from Broadway to the railroad crossing, $9,500, and Fair street from St.

Michigan Mother Is Found; Says She Plans Divorce

New York, Feb. 7 (AP) — A socially-prominent Michigan mother, who "disappeared" from a hotel with her four young children Sunday, was located in another hotel today and said she intended to get a divorce.

She declined to comment on what grounds she would base her divorce action.

Search for her began yesterday when her husband, Lieut. Frank Saunders, asked police help. She had left her maid and luggage at the Biltmore.

The hotel management had refused to awaken Mrs. Saunders until after daybreak.

She spoke with reporters briefly as she left the Mansfield with the children and her sister, Mrs. Patricia Mann of New York, for her sister's home.

At that time, she apparently had not seen her husband.

He said his wife and the children arrived here Jan. 28 from their home in Grosse Pointe. He added that they made the trip

82 Persons Are Dead in New Jersey Wreck, 500 Hurt in Worst Rail Disaster in 32 Years

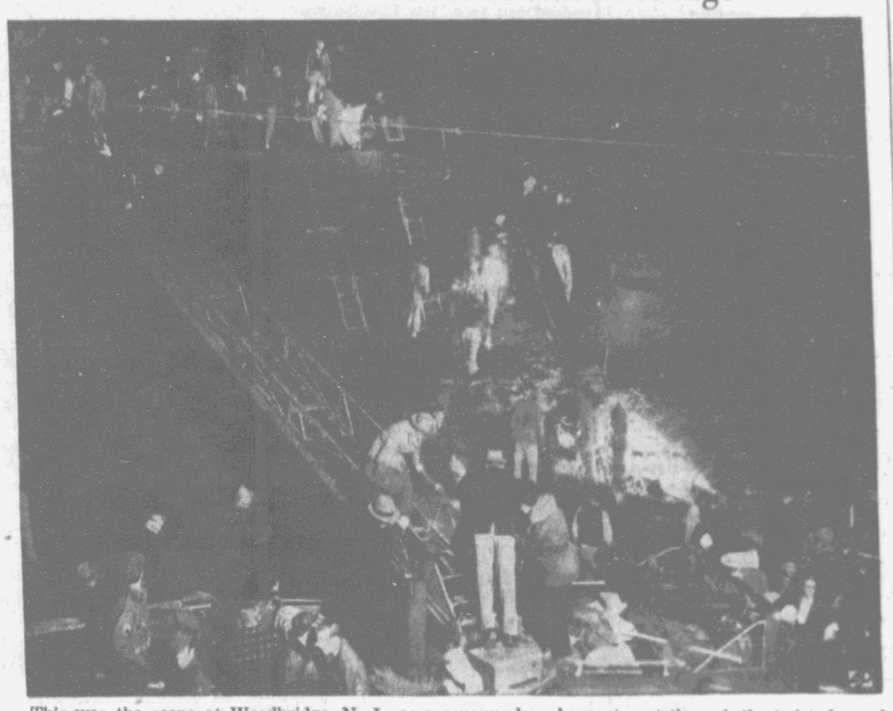
Rescuers Swarm Over Train Wreckage



This was the scene at Woodbridge, N. J., as rescue workers began to cut through the twisted wreckage of a high speed Pnnsylvania Railroad commuter train which plunged to a street below when an overpass gave way.

Probes Are Ordered to Fix Blame

Trestle Buckled

Woodbridge Mayor Says Trestle Did Not Fall in Collapse

Woodbridge, N. J., Feb. 7 (AP)—A crowded commuter train plunged off a newly-erected trestle last night, killing 82 persons and injuring about 500. It was the nation's worst train wreck in 32 years.

Throughout the night and far into today, rescue workers hacked through the twisted mass of wreckage. They said other bodies still may be found in the crumpled coaches and debris.

The 11-car Pennsylvania Railroad train, "The Broker," swerved wildly and jumped the tracks as it sped onto the midtown overpass. The cars, jackknifing crazily, hurtled down a 20-foot embankment.

The new, temporary overpass had been put in service only a few hours before the crash.

F.B.I. Investigates

In Newark, the F.B.I. said it was investigating to determine "whether sabotage was involved."

The railroad, conducting its own probe, said it could offer no immediate explanation for the cause of the wreck.

The dead included bankers, lawyers and businessmen, prominent in their localities and civic life, most of them home-bound from New York city offices.

In mid-morning, the list of identified dead stood at 77, with four bodies still unidentified.

Worst Since 1918

The rush-hour crackup was the worst in the nation since 1918 when 115 were killed in a Nashville, Tenn., wreck, and more disastrous than a 1943 accident outside Philadelphia that took 80 lives.

It was the third major train wreck in the metropolitan area in less than a year. A total of nearly 200 died in the three crackups.

In Washington, the Interstate Commerce Commission ordered an inquiry into the new disaster, with a public hearing to open tomorrow.

On orders of New Jersey Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll, the state's attorney general, Theodore Parsons, also began an investigation. He reached the scene early today, and sent an assistant to a hospital to question the critically injured engineer of the wrecked train.

Loaded to Aisles

It was loaded to the aisles with homebound commuters — mostly from New York—on their way to Red Bank, Long Beach, Asbury Park and other communities on New Jersey's wealthy north shore.

Engineer Joseph H. Fitzsimmons, a veteran of 33 accident-free years on the road, blamed the overcrowded coaches and the new trestle for the tragedy.

Alive but injured, the 57-year-old Fitzsimmons said from a hospital cot:

"The moment my engine passed over the trestle and lurched sharply I felt the rest of the cars would never make it.

"I hit the trestle at about 25 miles per hour and the speed of the train certainly couldn't be blamed for the crash. When I started to sway, I applied the brakes, but it apparently was too late."

Disagree With Engineer

Passengers and at least one railroad detective—who did not give his name—disagreed with the engineer on the speed of the train. The detective said it was going at top speed when it hit the trestle.

The Pennsylvania, in a statement, said a 25 mile an hour speed

Allies Smash Ahead To Seoul Approaches

3 Tank Columns Aid Troops Who Use Bayonets on Reds

Tokyo, Feb. 7 (AP) — Allied ground forces smashed forward today with three powerful tank columns to the last hills guarding the plains of shattered Seoul.

American doughboys with flashing bayonets drove Reds from vital heights at one point.

The Chinese and Korean Reds were digging in for a new stand on the ridges just south of Seoul. At their backs was the Han river, still an ice-covered way of retreat for the Reds but now on the verge of thawing.

On the central front, United Nations forces with South Koreans in the lead pushed northward toward the old Parallel 38 border.

On the east coast, South Korean forces secured high ground three miles east and west and five miles south of Kangnung, a coastal road town 17 miles south of 38. Allied naval power blasted the Reds in Kangnung.

War Complexion Shifts

The whole complexion of the war had shifted once again. The Allies had regained the initiative in their 14-day-old "limited" offensive and the Reds were giving ground.

Allied artillery was in position to pour shells into the old Korean capital of Seoul, abandoned Jan. 4 for the second time in the Korean war by anti-Communist forces.

Three tank task forces prowled the southern approaches to Seoul again Wednesday for the third straight day, shooting up Red rearguards wherever they chose to make a stand.

One force rolled within four miles of the Han river and was only seven miles southeast of Seoul. Others met heavy Red resistance as they rumbled to points eight to ten miles southwest of Seoul. Late in the day they made

Depew Arraigned in Court on Morals Charge; Other Cases

Christino DiFore of Niagara county, who escaped from Wallkill prison on December 26, 1949, entered a plea of guilty to that charge in County Court this morning and County Judge John M. Cashin sentenced DiFore to a term from 1½ to 3 years at hard labor in Clinton State Prison. Thomas Saccoman appeared by assignment for DiFore.

In imposing sentence Judge Cashin told the defendant that a maximum of seven years could be imposed but the court was taking into consideration that DiFore had volunteered for military service and had served nearly four years in the navy aboard the carrier Ranger in both the Pacific and Atlantic.

DiFore said he had become "sick" of staying at Wallkill when his application for a transfer had been turned down. He walked away from the prison and was apprehended nearby when he was discovered walking along the road in light clothing which did not correspond to the temperature on that particular date.

George Depew of Stone Ridge was arraigned by District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn on a charge of impairment of the morals of a minor, alleged to have been committed on November 26, last. Howard C. St. John was assigned and a plea of innocent was entered, bail was continued and the case set down for February 9 at 10 o'clock. There were two counts in the indictment.

Case Is Adjourned

The case of Mabel Carr was adjourned until February 13 at 10 o'clock in order to give Bernard A. Culloton, assigned counsel, further opportunity to consult with his client.

Donald Hendricks, indicted with two others for burglary, third degree, and unlawful entry, was adjudged eligible to be treated under the Youthful Offender law and his case was set down for February 13 at 10 o'clock at chambers. John Larkin appeared for Hendricks. There are three indictments against Hendricks. He entered a plea of not guilty to the charge of being a youthful offender and was remanded to jail until the date for disposition of his case.

Birds Only Deaths In Atomic Blasts; Last Test Held

Las Vegas, Nev., Feb. 7 (AP)—A handful of birds apparently are the only casualties of five atomic explosions set off on the new government range near here.

Twenty-four hours after the fifth and latest blast—which the Atomic Energy Commission says was the last in its current series of tests—there was no report of injury to humans or livestock.

City Detour Given Okay Of Officials

Supporters Point Out Perils to Children in Other Ideas

A majority report of the traffic committee of the Common Council favoring the present detour around the Broadway crossing project area was adopted by a party vote last night at a regular council session.

The report rejected a proposal by Tenth Ward Alderman James J. Carroll (D.) that Smith and TenBroeck avenues be made one-way streets. Seventh Ward Alderman J. Richard Smith (D.) was absent and the vote was 8-4 on the majority report.

More intersections would be involved in the one-way street proposal if TenBroeck avenue were included, the report said, and traffic would flow heavier through a residential area "increasing the possibility of a child being hit by a motorist."

Third Ward Alderman Edwin Radel (D.) who co-sponsored the Carroll resolution, said it was the opinion of many, including police officers, that the one-way street proposal would be better and would help relieve what is expected to be a serious bottleneck for the heavy summer flow of traffic.

No Demands Made

Eighth Ward Alderman Joseph N. Bruck (R.) answered that there was nothing demanding that "the people of the city have to use the present detour....they know their way round," but for the general detour, he held "the best thing was to get back to Broadway as quickly as possible."

Second Ward Alderman Benjamin A. Storms, (R), chairman of the traffic committee reminded the aldermen that "when the budget was aired the minority wished to strike out the money to be used for extra police work." Their suggestion now, he held, would mean including more intersections, which would require still more police protection.

Radel, Storms and Bruck differed on the question of bringing extra traffic past the intersection leading into School No. 5 from Foxhall avenue. The latter contended that the one-way proposal leading traffic into Ten Broeck would bring it past the school intersection, and Radel contended that a sign at Broadway and Foxhall avenue was already leading traffic that way.

"Thats' only as far as Prince street," Bruck said, and he contended that Radel's belief in the one-way proposal was a matter "of your personal opinion."

Approved by State

Radel said he had canvassed many and found much in support of his opinion, and Bruck asked: "Has anyone a better opinion than the chief of police." Storms added that the present detour was also recommended by state men, and he held that it has not been given a fair chance.

Carroll also talked in support of his original resolution stressing that he had "received many complaints." He still though, he said, that the plan would relieve congestion on Smith avenue.

Majority Report

The traffic committee's majority report:

At the January meeting of the Common Council a resolution of Alderman Carroll was referred to the Traffic Control Committee to change the existing detours caused by Broadway Crossing Elimination and to make Smith avenue one way east bound and Ten Broeck avenue one way west bound.

The existing detours were heretofore unanimously approved by the Common Council.

It seems to us that no detour system will be perfect since it is necessary to divert a heavy stream of traffic off a main artery of traffic. When four lane traffic is diverted into two lanes, regardless of what route is set up, there has to be inconvenience.

The problem presented is to find the best possible system under existing circumstances.

The theory of the existing de-

By SAM DAWSON

New York, Feb. 7 (AP)—Americans are on notice today as to what Uncle Sam proposes to take away from them in taxes. Let's look for a moment at what he's going to leave them—in terms of what it'll buy.

How much must the ordinary family man make if he's to pay the proposed new income taxes and feed his kids as well, clothe his wife as well, care for his family as well as he did before the last war? Because the money that Uncle Sam will leave him, thanks to inflation, will buy now only about half what it did before the war.

A man who brought home $60 a week in 1940 to care for his wife and two children had a net income to report of about $3,000 a year and paid no income tax. In other words he had $3,000 left and it bought $3,000 worth of goods and services.

Under the proposed tax, the man if he's still earning $60 a week will pay $144 tax if he reports $3,000 income. He will still have $2,856 left. But when he takes that into the marketplace he will be lucky if he can stretch it out to buy more goods and services than $1,428 would have bought him in 1940.

Some Much Higher

The prices of some things, of course, have gone up very little. But the prices of other things are two or three times higher than they were. The dollar, by and large, buys not much more than 50 cents worth, in terms of 1940 prices.

The standard of living of that man has definitely gone down, even if his income hasn't.

If the married man with two children was in the $90 to $100 a week class in 1940, he'd report net income of around $5,000, pay $75 income tax, and have $4,925 to maintain his family's standard of living. But today under the proposed tax rate, the $5,000-a-year man will pay $624 income tax, have $4,376 left—but that will equal a $2,188 standard of living in terms of 1940.

To equal his 1940 standard of living, the married man with two children would have to report a better than $10,000 annual income in 1951. Under the proposed tax rate, he would have to pay $1,896 on his $10,000 net income, leaving him $8,104—which in terms of 1940 buying power equals $4,052, compared with the $4,925 that the $5,000-a-year man had left after taxes in 1940.

Not Quite So Well Off

So, even if the $5,000 a year man has doubled his income in the last 10 years, he's still not quite so well off when he tries to buy things.

The comparison holds all along the line as you go up the pay scale. The $15,000 a year man now has take-home pay, in terms of the 1940 dollar, of around $8,-296—and that's less than the $7,000-a-year man had 10 years ago.

The lucky $20,000 a year fellow would pay $5,168 under the proposed tax but his remainder, in 1940 purchasing power, would be equal to $7,416—in 1940 the $8,000 a year fellow had more than that left after taxes.

This sounds as if most of us have been on a treadmill in the last decade. We struggled to raise our pay, but unless we advanced much faster than the average fellow, the steady inflation of the currency has left us no better off, possibly worse off as far as our standard of living goes.

And it's at this high inflated level that Washington is trying to freeze everything.

Savings and Loan Groups Show Big Savings Increased

A compilation of year end reports of the 158 insured savings and loan associations of New York State reveals an increase in savings during the year 1950 of $102,942,000 according to a memorandum which David Ford, president, released to the members of the Council of Insured Savings Associations of New York State.

Ford points out that the increase during the year plus the savings of approximately $22,439,000 of savings in the 11 newly insured associations at the time they received their insurance certificates in 1950, brought total savings in both state and federally chartered insurance savings associations in New York state to $1,059,397,000, on December 31, 1950, a new all-time peak.

Total resources of these 158 insured savings associations, observes Mr. Ford, aggregated $1,-254,472,000 at the end of the year, up $207,761,000 during 1950. The consolidated report, says Mr. Ford, shows first mortgage loans of $1,027,737,000 an increase of $193,043,000 since the end of 1949. Cash ($58,936,000) and government obligations ($123,452,000) held by these insured thrift institutions at year end were equal to 17.2 per cent of savings accounts ($1,059,372,000), giving them a liquidity ratio slightly above the figure (17.1 per cent) for December 31, 1949.

Mr. Ford also points out that the $102,942,000 gain during 1950 in insured savings account balances in New York state's insured savings associations is equal to 7.75 per cent of the current estimated additions of $1,-329,000,000 to savings accounts in the 2,860 associations in the nation whose accounts are insured up to $10,000 per person by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation.

Approximately 3,700,000 births were recorded in the United States in 1950.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

New York, Feb. 7 (AP)—Americans are on notice today as to what Uncle Sam proposes to take away from them in taxes. Let's look for a moment at what he's going to leave them—in terms of what it'll buy.

How much must the ordinary family man make if he's to pay the proposed new income taxes and feed his kids as well, clothe his wife as well, care for his family as well as he did before the last war? Because the money that Uncle Sam will leave him, thanks to inflation, will buy now only about half what it did before the war.

A man who brought home $60 a week in 1940 to care for his wife and two children had a net income to report of about $3,000 a year and paid no income tax. In other words he had $3,000 left and it bought $3,000 worth of goods and services.

Under the proposed tax, the man if he's still earning $60 a week will pay $144 tax if he reports $3,000 income. He will still have $2,856 left. But when he takes that into the marketplace he will be lucky if he can stretch it out to buy more goods and services than $1,428 would have bought him in 1940.

But today under the proposed tax rate, the $5,000-a-year man will pay $624 income tax, have $4,376 left—but that will equal a $2,188 standard of living in terms of 1940.

To equal his 1940 standard of living, the married man with two children would have to report a better than $10,000 annual income in 1951. How much must the ordinary family man make if he's to pay the proposed new income taxes and feed his kids as well, clothe his wife as well, care for his family as well as he did before the last war? Because the money that Uncle Sam will leave him, thanks to inflation, will buy now only about half what it did before the war.

A man who brought home $60 a week in 1940 to care for his wife and two children had a net income to report of about $3,000 a year and paid no income tax. In other words he had $3,000 left and it bought $3,000 worth of goods and services.

Under the proposed tax, the man if he's still earning $60 a week will pay $144 tax if he reports $3,000 income. He will still have $2,856 left. But when he takes that into the marketplace he will be lucky if he can stretch it out to buy more goods and services than $1,428 would have bought him in 1940.

Some Much Higher

The prices of some things, of course, have gone up very little. But the prices of other things are two or three times higher than they were. The dollar, by and large, buys not much more than 50 cents worth, in terms of 1940 prices.

The standard of living of that man has definitely gone down, even if his income hasn't.

If the married man with two children was in the $90 to $100 a week class in 1940, he'd report net income of around $5,000, pay $75 income tax, and have $4,925 to maintain his family's standard of living. But today under the proposed tax rate, the $5,000-a-year man will pay $624 income tax, have $4,376 left—but that will equal a $2,188 standard of living in terms of 1940.

To equal his 1940 standard of living, the married man with two children would have to report a better than $10,000 annual income in 1951. Under the proposed tax rate, he would have to pay $1,896 on his $10,000 net income, leaving him $8,104—which in terms of 1940 buying power equals $4,052, compared with the $4,925 that the $5,000-a-year man had left after taxes in 1940.

Not Quite So Well Off

So, even if the $5,000 a year man has doubled his income in the last 10 years, he's still not quite so well off when he tries to buy things.

The comparison holds all along the line as you go up the pay scale. The $15,000 a year man now has take-home pay, in terms of the 1940 dollar, of around $6,298—and that's less than the $7,000-a-year man had 10 years ago.

The lucky $20,000 a year fellow would pay $5,168 under the proposed tax but his remainder, in 1940 purchasing power, would be equal to $7,416—in 1940 the $8,000 a year fellow had more than that left after taxes.

This sounds as if most of us have been on a treadmill in the last decade. We struggled to raise our pay, but unless we advanced much faster than the average fellow, the steady inflation of the currency has left us no better off, possibly worse off as far as our standard of living goes.

And it's at this high inflated level that Washington is trying to freeze everything.

Savings and Loan Groups Show Big Savings Increased

A compilation of year end reports of the 158 insured savings and loan associations of New York State reveals an increase in savings during the year 1950 of $102,942,000 according to a memorandum which David Ford, president, released to the members of the Council of Insured Savings Associations of New York State.

Ford points out that the increase during the year plus the savings of approximately $22,439,000 of savings in the 11 newly insured associations at the time they received their insurance certificates in 1950, brought total savings in both state and federally chartered insurance savings associations in New York state to $1,059,397,000, on December 31, 1950, a new all-time peak.

Total resources of these 158 insured savings associations, observes Mr. Ford, aggregated $1,254,472,000 at the end of the year, up $207,761,000 during 1950. The consolidated report, says Mr. Ford, shows first mortgage loans of $1,027,737,000 an increase of $193,043,000 since the end of 1949. Cash ($58,936,000) and government obligations ($123,452,000) held by these insured thrift institutions at year end were equal to 17.2 per cent of savings accounts ($1,059,372,000), giving them a liquidity ratio slightly above the figure (17.1 per cent) for December 31, 1949.

Mr. Ford also points out that the $102,942,000 gain during 1950 in insured savings account balances in New York state's insured savings associations is equal to 7.75 per cent of the current estimated additions of $1,329,000,000 to savings accounts in the 2,860 associations in the nation whose accounts are insured up to $10,000 per person by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation.

Approximately 3,700,000 births were recorded in the United States in 1950.

Cold Wave Causes Temperature Drop

(By The Associated Press)

A cold wave, swept along by strong northwest winds, covered most of the central part of the country today and headed for southern and eastern states.

Temperatures dropped to as low as 23 degrees below zero in the cold belt which extended from Montana to the Mississippi valley and the Great Lakes region.

The weather bureau in Washington warned the Arctic air had reached Ohio and issued cold wave warnings for Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee, West Virginia and western Pennsylvania today. Much colder weather was forecast for the Atlantic states for tonight and Thursday.

Forecasters said the fresh outbreak of cold air was not as "strong or deep" as last week's severe weather which hit the midwest, sending temperatures to 40 below zero. They said some warming was expected over the midwest after tonight's below zero blasts.

While the midwest shivered in the sub-zero weather today most of the east and south enjoyed comparatively mild temperatures. Not much of the cold air had moved west of the Rockies.

Winds up to 30 to 40 miles an hour brought added discomfort to the north central states and in the northern plains. There were heavy snow squalls along the east shores of Lakes Michigan and Huron and in upper Michigan. Other areas were fair. Some rain fell in the Pacific northwest.

Public Hearings Slated On Phone Rates Increase

New York, Feb. 7 (AP)—Public hearings will be held to decide whether the New York Telephone Company can increase its rates by $44,000,000 a year, the State Public Commission ordered yesterday.

The higher rates have been requested by the company, effective March 1.

The March 1 date was blocked automatically when the commission set public hearings to begin then in Albany.

Commission Chairman Benjamin Feinberg said that "in the ensuing proceeding every item of operating cost claimed by the company will be closely studied."

Applying on Jan. 26 for the rate increase, the company said increased operating costs—including labor, taxes and other items—ran higher than $44,000,000 a year.

Two Plead Guilty

New York, Feb. 7 (AP)—A former internal revenue agent and an accountant pleaded guilty yesterday before Federal Judge Irving R. Kaufman to bribery charges arising out of a plan to reduce a tax which a restaurant owner believed he already had paid. The two men, who will be sentenced Feb. 13, are Jesse Comentez, 39, of 119-10 64th avenue, Flushing, Queens, formerly with the Internal Revenue Department, and Samuel Skoler, 43, of 9 East 96th street, Manhattan. Specifically, Comentez was charged with asking and receiving a $3,500 bribe to reduce an alleged tax claim of $16,000 to $239 and Skoler with aiding and abetting the revenue agent in accepting the bribe from Alexander Carasoulas, operator of the Acropolis Cafe, Inc., 312 West 58th street, Manhattan, where the accountant was employed.

Dairy Leader Opposes Oleo Tax as Aid to Fraud

New York, Feb. 7 (AP)—An Albany proposal to legalize sale of yellow-colored margarine by imposing a tax was denounced by a dairy producer leader yesterday as "a move to legalize deception and fraud."

Leon A. Chapin, president of the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association, said in a statement:

"A limited survey conducted in Georgia, Oklahoma and Kansas, where sale of yellow oleo is permitted, revealed that public eating places served the substitute when patrons requested butter.

"The mere imposition of a tax on the product and upon public eating places serving it would not prevent such fraud."

Quoting from reports from Albany, Chapin challenged claims of proponents of the tax plan that it might be expected to yield $1,000,000 annually, to be used for an inspection staff to enforce the law.

Chapin said that amount of money would not be enough to pay an adequate inspection staff.

The state Legislature's bill hopper has received a number of measures to legalize sale of colored oleo.

Cold Wave Causes Temperature Drop

(By The Associated Press)

A cold wave, swept along by strong northwest winds, covered most of the central part of the country today and headed for southern and eastern states.

Temperatures dropped to as low as 23 degrees below zero in the cold belt which extended from Montana to the Mississippi valley and the Great Lakes region.

The weather bureau in Washington warned the Arctic air had reached Ohio and issued cold wave warnings for Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee, West Virginia and western Pennsylvania today. Much colder weather was forecast for the Atlantic states for tonight and Thursday.

Forecasters said the fresh outbreak of cold air was not as "strong or deep" as last week's severe weather which hit the midwest, sending temperatures to 40 below zero. They said some warming was expected over the midwest after tonight's below zero blasts.

While the midwest shivered in the sub-zero weather today most of the east and south enjoyed comparatively mild temperatures. Not much of the cold air had moved west of the Rockies.

Winds up to 30 to 40 miles an hour brought added discomfort to the north central states and in the northern plains. There were heavy snow squalls along the east shores of Lakes Michigan and Huron and in upper Michigan. Other areas were fair. Some rain fell in the Pacific northwest.

Public Hearings Slated On Phone Rates Increase

New York, Feb. 7 (AP)—Public hearings will be held to decide whether the New York Telephone Company can increase its rates by $44,000,000 a year, the State Public Commission ordered yesterday.

The higher rates have been requested by the company, effective March 1.

The March 1 date was blocked automatically when the commission set public hearings to begin then in Albany.

Commission Chairman Benjamin Feinberg said that "in the ensuing proceeding every item of operating cost claimed by the company will be closely studied."

Applying on Jan. 26 for the rate increase, the company said increased operating costs—including labor, taxes and other items—ran higher than $44,000,000 a year.

Two Plead Guilty

New York, Feb. 7 (AP)—A former internal revenue agent and an accountant pleaded guilty yesterday before Federal Judge Irving R. Kaufman to bribery charges arising out of a plan to reduce a tax which a restaurant owner believed he already had paid. The two men, who will be sentenced Feb. 13, are Jesse Comentez, 39, of 119-10 64th avenue, Flushing, Queens, formerly with the Internal Revenue Department, and Samuel Skoler, 43, of 9 East 96th street, Manhattan. Specifically, Comentez was charged with asking and receiving a $3,500 bribe to reduce an alleged tax claim of $16,000 to $239 and Skoler with aiding and abetting the revenue agent in accepting the bribe from Alexander Carasoulas, operator of the Acropolis Cafe, Inc., 312 West 58th street, Manhattan, where the accountant was employed.

Actress Gets $55,162

Los Angeles, Feb. 7 (AP)—Actress Ann Sheridan has been awarded $55,162.42 of the $350,000 she asked from RKO Studios for alleged breach of contract. "Below Low Cost — Above High Quality"

Dairy Leader Opposes Oleo Tax as Aid to Fraud

New York, Feb. 7 (AP)—An Albany proposal to legalize sale of yellow-colored margarine by imposing a tax was denounced by a dairy producer leader yesterday as "a move to legalize deception and fraud."

Leon A. Chapin, president of the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association, said in a statement:

"A limited survey conducted in Georgia, Oklahoma and Kansas, where sale of yellow oleo is permitted, revealed that public eating places served the substitute when patrons requested butter.

"The mere imposition of a tax on the product and upon public eating places serving it would not prevent such fraud."

Quoting from reports from Albany, Chapin challenged claims of proponents of the tax plan that it might be expected to yield $1,000,000 annually, to be used for an inspection staff to enforce the law.

Chapin said that amount of money would not be enough to pay an adequate inspection staff.

The state Legislature's bill hopper has received a number of measures to legalize sale of colored oleo.

UN FLINCHING ON RED CHINA

To congratulate the United Nations for declaring Red China an aggressor in Korea would hardly be fitting. This indispensable assertion of the UN's moral power is three months overdue.

Yet we must all be thankful that the UN finally did speak. Had it not, its stature as a peace agency, as an organization for collective security, might have been damaged beyond repair. Even as it is, the harm done by endless weeks of vacillating indecision will be hard to overcome.

India led the Arab-Asian bloc which contributed most to the shameful delay in branding Red China. It thus was not surprising to find India, along with Burma, joining the five Soviet-controlled nations in opposing the approved resolution.

Throughout the unhappy interlude that ended with this positive action by the UN, India strove for what it called a "peaceful settlement." But as the arguments unfolded day after day, it became clear that India believed peace should be bought at any price.

The Indians showed callous disregard for the UN'S highest aims and principles. They seemed to ignore the blood sacrifices of Americans and others fighting aggression in Korea under the UN banner. And they displayed practically no concern for the welfare of the unfortunate free Koreans who are the worst victims of this war.

Sir Benegal Rau's final appeal was typical. He informed the UN that if it labeled China an aggressor the last door to peaceful settlement would be barred.

This constitutes a warning that China, already guilty of aggression, would go on committing it if anyone dared call it by its right name. How any self-respecting body of moral nations is supposed to truckle to such threats is a mystery understood only in the inner sanctum of Prime Minister Nehru in New Delhi.

Fortunately, this dismal episode is at last ended. What comes next? The approved resolution provides that UN committees shall study both the problem of possible sanctions against Red China and the question whether any decent peaceful solution may be attained.

There need be no great haste on sanctions. Apparently we are hurting the Communist Chinese severely in Korea, and it may well be enough for a while to go on hitting them hard on the battlefield they themselves have chosen. Certainly their aggression is not paying off easily or quickly.

The notion promoted by India and others that calling China an aggressor means almost automatically a bigger war in the Far East has no basis in reality. If the Reds want a wider war, they'll almost surely get it. If they don't, no labels or other words will push them into it.

If the UN were always to hang back from using its moral force because to do so might enlarge the area of a conflict, it would never act and would cease to exist. A peace agency cannot be governed by fear. It must act with bold confidence, in the sure knowledge that many nations moving together make an indelible impact upon the minds of men everywhere—even among Communist nations.

The UN is either the conscience of the world—or it is nothing. Let us hope it never again waits so long to voice that conscience.

With workers lining up for defense jobs perhaps we don't have to be concerned about peace work, but there is less assurance about peace work.

INTENT NOT ENOUGH

Good intentions, it is well known, are not enough. Dr. Ralph Bunche, former mediator in Palestine for the United Nations, has this to say:

"In this dread atomic age, if we fail to achieve peace, the responsibility must be borne by all of us. The fortunate, or unfortunate survivors of a third world war would gain little solace from being able to point an accusing finger. If the peace is lost through complacency, our lack of awareness and determined effort, the blame would be shared by all of us, by peoples and governments whose intentions were sincerely peaceful as well as by those whose aggressive actions provoked war."

This business of frozen prices isn't going to bother everybody. Many of us have been numb to the things for some time.

'These Days'

THE 22nd AMENDMENT

Remarkable headway has been made for the ratification of the Twenty-second Amendment to the Constitution of the United States. This amendment provides:

"Section 1. No person shall be elected to the office of the President more than twice, and no person who has held the office of President, or acted as President, for more than two years of a term to which some other person was elected President shall be elected to the office of President more than once. But this article shall not apply to any person holding the office of President when this article was proposed by the Congress, and shall not prevent any person who may be holding the office of President, or acting as President, during the term within which this article becomes operative from holding the office of President or acting as President during the remainder of such term.

"Section 2. This article shall be inoperative unless it shall have been ratified as an amendment to the Constitution by the Legislatures of three-fourths of the several states within seven years from the date of its submission to the states by the Congress."

The two-term tradition for the presidency served this country well from George Washington to Franklin D. Roosevelt. The latter managed to violate the tradition, probably as much because the Republican Party deserted its principles and nominated an unacceptable candidate for the 1940 election. Mr. Roosevelt was elected to a third term; thus being enabled to prolong his private bureaucracy and to pursue policies which burdened our land with war, debt, high taxes, traitors and a creeping socialism.

Roosevelt, a dying man, was elected for a fourth term. He went to Yalta and there agreed to arrangements with Stalin which have brought upon this land the Korean war, mobilization for World War III and an isolationism not of our will or making.

It needs to be noted, in justice, that Franklin D. Roosevelt was extraordinarily popular as a person and remains so, after his death and in spite of the evidence. Roosevelt's fourth term also gave us Harry Truman, an inadequately educated and experienced man who was catapulted into the presidency, the functions of which office and its relations to Congress he has never understood.

The Twenty-second Amendment was submitted to the states for ratification on March 26, 1947. By its own terms, it must be ratified by March 26, 1954, by three-quarters of the states.

Already, California, Colorado, Conecticut, Delaware, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Louisiana, Maine, Michigan, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraskka, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Vermont, Virginia, Wisconsin and Wyoming have ratified this amendment.

That means that more than half the states of the Union have ratified this amendment. Should an additional ten states ratify this year, it would make a total of 36 states and the amendment would be binding.

It is astonishing, in view of public opinion, that such states as Oklahoma, Texas, Montana and South Carolina have failed to ratify this amendment. Massachusetts and Maryland are also among the missing. Utah, which defeated Senator Elbert Thomas, ought to go along with a limitation on the presidency.

The amendment has already been passed by the two-thirds of the House of Representatives and the Senate. It comes, in accordance with constitutional provisions, automatically into effect, if ratified by three-quarters of the state legislatures.

The likelihood is that it would have been passed everywhere if pushed by articulate, constructive public opinion. These are the states that have thus far failed to do their duty:

Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Kentucky, Maryland, Massachuetts, Minnesota, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, North Caroline, Oklahoma, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Washington and West Virginia.

Of course, this amendment could not be used to prevent Harry Truman from running for a third term, he being the incumbent on its adoption as a congressional resolution. Nevertheless, he would probably avoid flouting public opinion so pronounced that it becomes an amendment to the Constitution. Surely neither the Democrats nor the Republicans would be distrait over the elimination of Harry Truman as a candidate in 1952.

Only public opinion will force this amendment through and it needs to be vociferous and active in some states.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

EVERYBODY NEEDS TABLE SALT DAILY

Since it is known that all liquids—water, milk, tea, coffee, soft and hard drinks—definitely maintain overweight, because fat tissue holds water, most overweights now take less fluid or liquid daily. In addition, as table salt holds 70 times its own weight of liquids in the tissues, many overweights are cutting down on their table salt in and on foods, or are using salt substitutes.

Besides overweight, there are other diseases in which liquids and table salt must be reduced, because too much liquid in the tissues brings on attacks: such conditions as epilepsy and Meniere's disease. In high blood pressure most physicians advise reduction of liquids and table salt.

Both liquids and table salt are needed foods; everybody requires a certain amount of them every day. However, because too much of them maintains overweight and causes the attacks mentioned above, there are many who do not have these diseases, who are not getting enough liquids and table salt. And just as too much causes symptoms, so also does not enough cause symptoms.

In The Journal of the American Medical Association, Dr. Henry A. Schroeder (Washington University), states that lack of table salt makes the kidneys unable to do their work properly. This causes various symptoms—symptoms that are often not recognized as being caused by inadequate functioning of the kidneys. This inability of the kidneys means less volume of urine to remove body wastes, rapid gain in weight, and sometimes an increase in the heart rate.

The symptoms complained of are: 1. drowsiness, weakness and lethargy (often wrongfully attributed to quieting or pain-killing drugs); 2. loss of appetite, sometimes with thirst. 3. nausea and sometimes vomiting; 4. occasionally abdominal and muscular cramps, and 5. an increase in oedma (swelling with fluid) where oedema is already present.

The treatment in these cases, once the condition is recognized, is the use of more table salt and injection of salt solution into the veins.

Remember, we all need table salt and should use it daily in the usual quantities unless overweight, epilepsy, high blood pressure or symptoms of Meniere's disease are present.

No Red Herring About This, Eh, Harry?

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—Almost as interesting as the military secrets he revealed—which cannot be told—was the human side of Gen. Dwight Eisenhower as he briefed the House Armed Services and Foreign Affairs Committees on his recent trip to Europe.

Ike impressed congressmen with his honesty and humility during the closed-door session. There wasn't a member present—Democrat or Republican— who wasn't solidly in his corner when it was over.

Probably the best compliment was paid by articulate Carl Vinson of Georgia, House Armed Services chairman, who didn't open his mouth once during the entire meeting. As one congressman remarked: "A guy has to be good to make Carl, who dominates all our meetings, take a back seat."

Eisenhower reported that Europeans generally were "determined" to fight communism, with our help, but he added that we should not adopt a "mendicant attitude" toward Germany or any other nation, as though they are doing us a favor by fighting their own battles against Soviet aggression.

"I'm the kind of a guy who would rather go down with my flag nailed to the masthead, fighting for what I believe in," he emphasized. "Those we are helping must show the same spirit."

Ike also told the closed-door meeting that Marshal Zhukov, former Soviet commandant in Berlin, was in bad with the Kremlin, apparently because of a too-friendly attitude toward western powers.

"Back in the days when I knew him, Zhukov was hand-in-glove with Stalin," Eisenhower said. "But the last I heard of him, he was riding around in an old Ford that could use a repair job."

Future of Foot Soldier

While Ike was stressing the importance of sea and air power, GOP Rep. Carroll Reece of Tennessee inquired if he wasn't "minimizing" the importance of the foot soldier.

"I don't want to be understood at any time as minimizing the responsibility and ability of the doughboy," Eisenhower replied quickly. "No fight has ever been won without him. The air force and the navy get the cheers, but the doughboys get the white crosses in the ground."

At one point when he felt that he was growing preachy, Ike grinned: "If I sound philosophical, just remember that I have been a college president."

But he didn't sound like a college president a moment later, when, stressing the importance of unity with our European allies, he said:

"We'd be in a hell of a fix—"

Then he apologized to Congresswomen Frances Bolton of Ohio and Edna Kelly of New York.

One congressman, alluding to Ike's statement that the European people were "determined" to carry on the fight against Communism, asked him the reason. Chief of Staff General Alfred Gruenther broke in to answer the question.

"Ike himself is chiefly responsible," he said. "He sold the Europeans on the idea that we could not help them much unless they had the will to fight for their own salvation."

"That's the first time in my life that a chief of staff has ever embarrassed me," commented Eisenhower.

Capitol Lowdown—House Doorkeeper "Fishbait" Miller, who is also in charge of the House "folding room" has an interesting way of taking care of his stepmother-in-law. He places her on the folding-room payroll and lets Uncle Sam foot the bill. If Fishbait does this for his stepmother-in-law, wonder what he does for his closer relatives? (The "folding room" sends out literature, franked mail, etc., to congressmen's constituents.)...Though H.S.T. has Bernie Baruch on the presidential black list, Baruch still has plenty of power in Washington. Two of his closest friends, Gen. Lucius Clay and Mrs. Anna Rosenberg, have key defense jobs, while Baruch also cracks the whip occasionally over Mobilization Czar Charles E. Wilson....Democratic Chairman Bill Boyle got a bit miffed at first when Price Potentate Mike Di Salle told a congressional committee: "There is such an immediate need for employes that I may even have to hire some Democrats." Boyle didn't realize Di Salle was kidding. (Di Salle claims that the actual ratio of Democrats hired is about 36 per cent against 65 per cent Republicans.)

Along the Potomac — Wartime bureaucrats are flocking back to Washington by the thousands. A quarter of a million civilians have already been added to the federal payroll and another 500,000 may be taken on by 1952....The kicking around given Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine by Jumpin' Joe McCarthy has got a lot of senators sore. Byrd of Virginia gave Mrs. Smith pointed support by publicly praising her views on economy, while Pat McCarran of Nevada told G.O.P. leader Wherry: "I would like very much to have Mrs. Smith as a member of my committee investigating subversives."....Constantine Brown, the Washington Star's foreign editor, has gone in for domestic kingmaking. He has been conferring with Dolores Bridges, wife of the New Hampshire senator, on ways and means of kicking out genial Guy Gabrielson as chairman of the Republican National Committee....Sen. Bob Taft tells friends that McCarthy's Senate speeches are chiefly for the purposes of garnering more lecture engagements. Backstage With the Diplomats — Dean Acheson has been sore as blazes at the British, especially Foreign Minister Bevin, for hanging back on citing Red China for aggression. In one off-record session, Acheson exploded: "How many times do the Chinese have to say no before Bevin believes them!"....The Red Chinese in Peiping have suddenly started courting British and Swedish diplomats. The Chinese invite them to dinners and receptions where the following line is dished out: "There is no reason why China can't be friends with Britain and Sweden if only you will stop being friends with those atrocious Americans."....The Kremlin has refused to accept the appointment of Shenor Zalan Shazar as new ambassador from Israel. The Soviet Foreign Office gave no reason but the American embassy says Shazar is not wanted because he was once a Zionist leader in Russia and is suspected of wanting to return as a spy....Acheson is telling friends that he will never resign under fire—no matter how bitterly Senator McCarthy and other gopsters attack him. Acheson is confident the American people eventually will realize how unfair these attacks are and that his policies will finally be vindicated while men like McCarthy will go down in history as malicious crackpots.

'Voice of America' Should Be Separate From Department of State and a Free Agency

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Feb. 7—Senator Benton of Connecticut, Democrat, is absolutely right in his attempt to bring about the separation of the "Voice of America" from the Department of State, thus making it an independent agency responsible directly to the President.

That was the way the information branch of the government functioned during World War 1 and World War 2, respectively, and the crisis today on the psychological warfare side is no less important than it was during both those war periods.

The significance of the separation which Senator Benton and many others in Congress are advocating is that the "Voice of America" trends to become a subordinate bureau which cannot function in a large sense on policy questions. It has efficient personnel in its management but their freedom to do a good job is impaired.

The conception which Secretary of State Acheson has of the "Voice of America" is rather narrow. He thinks of it as merely the mouthpiece of the Department of State and as an instrument of "support to current foreign policy decisions." Any information agency which has that mission is doomed from the start because of the inhibitions upon its freedom of expression.

In a recent exchange of letters between Secretary Acheson and Senator Benton, the former insisted that "the expanded information program has in fact become the vital part of our national strategy you and others have always believed it should be." Senator Benton, when he was assistant secretary of state, had charge of the "Voice of America" program and spent many a weary hour before Congressional committees trying to get appropriations for it, so he has definite ideas about what ought to be done with the whole operation. In his reply to Secretary Acheson, the Connecticut senator says in part:

"Your letter of January 24th still leaves a chasm between U. S. ...I earnestly hope that you do not mean that we are now meeting fully the challenge and the opportunity in this field. The tragic fact is that our information program hasn't even begun to be 'the vital part of our national strategy' it should be. Evidence for this abounds everywhere."

The evidence, to be sure, comes from many persons who are experts in the field and who shake their heads in discouragement as they think what a whale of a job could be done by a really inspired organization that has as its main task a daily appeal to the peoples behind the "iron curtain."

The hope of preventing war lies not merely in a cautious diplomacy backed by armament, but in bringing persuasively to the attention of peoples everywhere that peace is really attainable if truth is utilized to the maximum in applying moral force.

Secretary Acheson's letter appears to be that of a technician who has examined a blueprint and finds that the functions are properly classified in a government department. If there were no crisis, it wouldn't matter in what department the "Voice of America" was placed. But there is a crisis, it wouldn't matter in what counsel of men who cannot allow themselves to think as bureaucrats if they are really to do an effective piece of psychological warfare.

Senator Benton has this rather significant point in his latest letter to Secretary Acheson, given to the press on February 3rd:

"I hope you will not disapprove of a speech that I am now planning, and may deliver in the next week or two in which I am going to . . . follow a 'counsel of moderation,' and ask for a special investigation by the Senate into this problem."

This can only mean more trouble for Secretary Acheson. One wonders why he stubbornly refuses to take advice on the proper scope of a public relations program and opens the door wide to irrelevant inquiries by the Senate into the functioning of the entire department of state.

The problems of the "Voice of America" are not ones to be determined by a single cabinet officer. They affect the whole government, only by a legalistic twist of thought can it be assumed that the program is merely the voice of the State Department designed to defend or argue the merits of its policies. The real mission of the "Voice of America" is to reflect the spirit and the will of the American people—and such a task should be entrusted to an office that can function independently and report only to the president and, through him, to the Congress of the United States.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Feb. 6—In the vein of the Hollywood genius who said something was colossal in a small way, I advise you that a terrible row has been raging quietly between John Edgar Hoover and his loyal bureaucracy of the FBI and a hitherto inconspicuous lawyer named Max Lowenthal, who seems to have been the first one to pick Harry Truman for president and appears, moreover, to have been responsible for the puzzling sudden transformation of a low-brow county commissioner into a bleeding heart.

Last September, George Dondero, a doughty Republican congressman from Michigan, tore the hide off Lowenthal in a speech on the floor. He said that by pulling strings Lowenthal acquired the title of advisor to General Clay on the disposal of the Jewish wealth which had been confiscated by the Nazis, and soon came to be known as Clay's general counsel. Furthermore, Dondero said, Lowenthal had as an assistant George Shaw Wheeler, "the American traitor, Communist and renegade who shocked all America when he denounced the land of his birth and asked Communist-controlled Czechoslovakia for asylum."

Dondero said: "Within weeks a change occurred in Germany. The usually accurate 'Human Events' reported: 'It may be mere coincidence but since Lowenthal's appointment Clay has permitted leaders of the Soviet-sponsored Socialist Workers' party to address meetings in the American zone.' This was the opening which the Russians were awaiting because it gave them the opportunity to sponsor a Communist party under our protection.

"Lowenthal's influence began to mount in the early thirties. Men he had selected and nursed became powerful. The Russian-American Industrial Corporation was formed in New York to aid in developing the resources of Russia. The head of this Communist subsidiary was Sidney Hillman who became disillusioned but his one-time general counsel, Lowenthal, still follows the party line."

He then recited impressive data in support of his charge that Truman's mentor still followed the line.

Jonathan Daniels' book, "The Man of Independence," a very good biography of the twirp by one of his selfless secretareis, had come and gone, receiving good reviews and much incidental publicity but hardly anyone had given more than passing notice to Daniels' disclosures of Lowenthal's influence on a yokel whom he had latched onto when Truman was running an obscure sub-committee of the Senate, investigating railroad business.

Daniels wrote: "A self-effacing but ubiquitous man named Max Lowenthal had written a book on corporate reorganization methods" and so forth. This caught the interest of Senator Burt Wheeler, an eccentric and erratic son of the wild-jackass from Montana, who set up a special investigation of railroad finances, with Truman for helper.

I don't know where Daniels gets that stuff about Lowenthal's modesty because his recent testimony before the Committee on Un-American Activities depicts him as a gas-bag of colossal pomposity and arrogance. Moreover he got away with evasions and impositions that would have landed you or me in the clink. I will fill you in on that tomorrow.

Lowenthal was counsel to Wheeler's committee and Daniels writes that, "casually, one day,

UN FLINCHING ON RED CHINA

To congratulate the United Nations for declaring Red China an aggressor in Korea would hardly be fitting. This indispensable assertion of the UN's moral power is three months overdue.

Yet we must all be thankful that the UN finally did speak. Had it not, its stature as a peace agency, as an organization for collective security, might have been damaged beyond repair. Even as it is, the harm done by endless weeks of vacillating indecision will be hard to overcome.

India led the Arab-Asian bloc which contributed most to the shameful delay in branding Red China. It thus was not surprising to find India, along with Burma, joining the five Soviet-controlled nations in opposing the approved resolution.

Throughout the unhappy interlude that ended with this positive action by the UN, India strove for what it called a "peaceful settlement." But as the arguments unfolded day after day, it became clear that India believed peace should be bought at any price.

The Indians showed callous disregard for the UN'S highest aims and principles. They seemed to ignore the blood sacrifices of Americans and others fighting aggression in Korea under the UN banner. And they displayed practically no concern for the welfare of the unfortunate free Koreans who are the worst victims of this war.

Sir Benegal Rau's final appeal was typical. He informed the UN that if it labeled China an aggressor the last door to peaceful settlement would be barred.

This constitutes a warning that China, already guilty of aggression, would go on committing it if anyone dared call it by its right name. How any self-respecting body of moral nations is supposed to truckle to such threats is a mystery understood only in the inner sanctum of Prime Minister Nehru in New Delhi.

Fortunately, this dismal episode is at last ended. What comes next? The approved resolution provides that UN committees shall study both the problem of possible sanctions against Red China and the question whether any decent peaceful solution may be attained.

There need be no great haste on sanctions. Apparently we are hurting the Communist Chinese severely in Korea, and it may well be enough for a while to go on hitting them hard on the battlefield they themselves have chosen. Certainly their aggression is not paying off easily or quickly.

The notion promoted by India and others that calling China an aggressor means almost automatically a bigger war in the Far East has no basis in reality. If the Reds want a wider war, they'll almost surely get it. If they don't, no labels or other words will push them into it.

If the UN were always to hang back from using its moral force because to do so might enlarge the area of a conflict, it would never act and would cease to exist. A peace agency cannot be governed by fear. It must act with bold confidence, in the sure knowledge that many nations moving together make an indelible impact upon the minds of men everywhere—even among Communist nations.

The UN is either the conscience of the world—or it is nothing. Let us hope it never again waits so long to voice that conscience.

With workers lining up for defense jobs perhaps we don't have to be concerned about place work, but there is less assurance about peace work.

INTENT NOT ENOUGH

Good intentions, it is well known, are not enough. Dr. Ralph Bunche, former mediator in Palestine for the United Nations, has this to say:

"In this dread atomic age, if we fail to achieve peace, the responsibility must be borne by all of us. The fortunate, or unfortunate survivors of a third world war would gain little solace from being able to point an accusing finger. If the peace is lost through complacency, our lack of awareness and determined effort, the blame would be shared by all of us, by peoples and governments whose intentions were sincerely peaceful as well as by those whose aggressive actions provoked war."

This business of frozen prices isn't going to bother everybody. Many of us have been numb to the things for some time.

'These Days'

THE 22nd AMENDMENT

Remarkable headway has been made for the ratification of the Twenty-second Amendment to the Constitution of the United States. This amendment provides:

"Section 1. No person shall be elected to the office of the President more than twice, and no person who has held the office of President, or acted as President, for more than two years of a term to which some other person was elected President shall be elected to the office of President more than once. But this article shall not apply to any person holding the office of President when this article was proposed by the Congress, and shall not prevent any person who may be holding the office of President, or acting as President, during the term within which this article becomes operative from holding the office of President or acting as President during the remainder of such term.

"Section 2. This article shall be inoperative unless it shall have been ratified as an amendment to the Constitution by the Legislatures of three-fourths of the several states within seven years from the date of its submission to the states by the Congress."

The two-term tradition for the presidency served this country well from George Washington to Franklin D. Roosevelt. The latter managed to violate the tradition, probably as much because the Republican Party deserted its principles and nominated an unacceptable candidate for the 1940 election. Mr. Roosevelt was elected to a third term; thus being enabled to prolong his private bureaucracy and to pursue policies which burdened our land with war, debt, high taxes, traitors and a creeping socialism

Roosevelt, a dying man, was elected for a fourth term. He went to Yalta and there agreed to arrangements with Stalin which have brought upon this land the Korean war, mobilization for World War III and an isolationism not of our will or making.

It needs to be noted, in justice, that Franklin D. Roosevelt was extraordinarily popular as a person and remains so, after his death and in spite of the evidence. Roosevelt's fourth term also gave us Harry Truman, an inadequately educated and experienced man who was catapulted into the presidency, the functions of which office and its relations to Congress he has never understood.

The Twenty-second Amendment was submitted to the states for ratification on March 26, 1947. By its own terms, it must be ratified by March 26, 1954, by three-quarters of the states.

Already, California, Colorado, Conecticut, Delaware, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Louisiana, Maine, Michigan, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraskka, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Vermont, Virginia, Wisconsin and Wyoming have ratified this amendment.

That means that more than half the states of the Union have ratified this amendment. Should an additional ten states ratify this year, it would make a total of 36 states and the amendment would be binding.

It is astonishing, in view of public opinion, that such states as Oklahoma, Texas, Montana and South Carolina have failed to ratify this amendment. Massachusetts and Maryland are also among the missing. Utah, which defeated Senator Elbert Thomas, ought to go along with a limitation on the presidency.

The amendment has already been passed by two-thirds of the House of Representatives and the Senate. It comes, in accordance with constitutional provisions, automatically into effect, if ratified by three-quarters of the state legislatures.

The likelihood is that it would have been passed everywhere if pushed by articulate, constructive public opinion. These are the states that have thus far failed to do their duty:

Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Kentucky, Maryland, Massachuetts, Minnesota, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, North Caroline, Oklahoma, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Washington and West Virginia.

Of course, this amendment could not be used to prevent Harry Truman from running for a third term, he being the incumbent on its adoption as a congressional resolution. Nevertheless, he would probably avoid flouting public opinion so pronounced that it becomes an amendment to the Constitution. Surely neither the Democrats nor the Republicans would be distrait over the elimination of Harry Truman as a candidate in 1952.

Only public opinion will force this amendment through and it needs to be vociferous and active in some states.

That Body of Yours

EVERYBODY NEEDS TABLE SALT DAILY

Since it is known that all liquids—water, milk, tea, coffee, soft and hard drinks—definitely maintain overweight, because fat tissue holds water, most overweights now take less fluid or liquid daily. In addition, as table salt holds 70 times its own weight of liquids in the tissues, many overweights are cutting down on their table salt in and on foods, or are using salt substitutes.

Besides overweight, there are other diseases in which liquids and table salt must be reduced, because too much liquid in the tissues brings on attacks: such conditions as epilepsy and Meniere's disease. In high blood pressure most physicians advise reduction of liquids and table salt.

Both liquids and table salt are needed foods; everybody requires a certain amount of them every day. However, because too much of them maintains overweight and causes the attacks mentioned above, there are many who do not have these diseases, who are not getting enough liquids and table salt. And just as too much causes symptoms, so also does not enough cause symptoms.

In The Journal of the American Medical Association, Dr. Henry A. Schroeder (Washington University), states that lack of table salt makes the kidneys unable to do their work properly. This causes various symptoms—symptoms that are often not recognized as being caused by inadequate functioning of the kidneys. This inability of the kidneys means less volume of urine to remove body wastes, rapid gain in weight, and sometimes an increase in the heart rate.

The symptoms complained of are: 1. drowsiness, weakness and lethargy (often wrongfully attributed to quieting or pain-killing drugs); 2. loss of appetite, sometimes with thirst. 3. nausea and sometimes vomiting; 4. occasionally abdominal and muscular cramps, and 5. an increase in oedma (swelling with fluid) where oedema is already present.

The treatment in these cases, once the condition is recognized, is the use of more table salt and injection of salt solution into the veins.

Remember, we all need table salt and should use it daily in the usual quantities unless overweight, epilepsy, high blood pressure or symptoms of Meniere's disease are present.

No Red Herring About This, Eh, Harry?

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—Almost as interesting as the military secrets he revealed—which cannot be told—was the human side of Gen. Dwight Eisenhower as he briefed the House Armed Services and Foreign Affairs Committees on his recent trip to Europe.

Ike impressed congressmen with his honesty and humility during the closed-door session. There wasn't a member present—Democrat or Republican— who wasn't solidly in his corner when it was over.

Probably the best compliment was paid by articulate Carl Vinson of Georgia, House Armed Services chairman, who didn't open his mouth once during the entire meeting. As one congressman remarked: "A guy has to be good to make Carl, who dominates all our meetings, take a back seat."

Eisenhower reported that Europeans generally were "determined" to fight communism, with our help, but he added that we should not adopt a "mendicant attitude" toward Germany or any other nation, as though they are doing us a favor by fighting their own battles against Soviet aggression.

"I'm the kind of a guy who would rather go down with my flag nailed to the masthead, fighting for what I believe in," he emphasized. "Those we are helping must show the same spirit."

Ike also told the closed-door meeting that Marshal Zhukov, former Soviet commandant in Berlin, was in bad with the Kremlin, apparently because of a too-friendly attitude toward western powers.

"Back in the days when I knew him, Zhukov was hand-in-glove with Stalin," Eisenhower said. "But the last I heard of him, he was riding around in an old Ford that could use a repair job."

Future of Foot Soldier

While Ike was stressing the importance of sea and air power, GOP Rep. Carroll Reece of Tennessee inquired if he wasn't "minimizing" the importance of the foot soldier.

"I don't want to be understood at any time as minimizing the responsibility and ability of the doughboy," Eisenhower replied quickly. "No fight has ever been won without him. The air force and the navy get the cheers, but the doughboys get the white crosses in the ground."

At one point when he felt that he was growing preachy, Ike grinned: "If I sound philosophical, just remember that I have been a college president."

But he didn't sound like a college president a moment later, when, stressing the importance of unity with our European allies, he said:

"We'd be in a hell of a fix—"

Then he apologized to Congresswomen Frances Bolton of Ohio and Edna Kelly of New York.

One congressman, alluding to Ike's statement that the European people were "determined" to carry on the fight against Communism, asked him the reason. Chief of Staff General Alfred Gruenther broke in to answer the question.

"Ike himself is chiefly responsible," he said. "He sold the Europeans on the idea that we could not help them much unless they had the will to fight for their own salvation."

"That's the first time in my life that a chief of staff has ever embarrassed me," commented Eisenhower.

Capitol Lowdown—House Doorkeeper "Fishbait" Miller, who is also in charge of the House "folding room" has an interesting way of taking care of his stepmother-in-law. He places her on the folding-room payroll and lets Uncle Sam foot the bill. If Fishbait does this for his stepmother-in-law, wonder what he does for his closer relatives? (The "folding room" sends out literature, franked mail, etc., to congressmen's constituents.)...Though H.S.T. has Bernie Baruch on the presidential black list, Baruch still has plenty of power in Washington. Two of his closest friends, Gen. Lucius Clay and Mrs. Anna Rosenberg, have key defense jobs, while Baruch also cracks the whip occasionally over Mobilization Czar Charles E. Wilson....Democratic Chairman Bill Boyle got a bit miffed at first when Price Potentate Mike Di Salle told a congressional committee: "There is such an immediate need for employes that I may even have to hire some Democrats." Boyle didn't realize Di Salle was kidding. (Di Salle claims that the actual ratio of Democrats hired is about 36 per cent against 65 per cent Republicans.)

Along the Potomac — Wartime bureaucrats are flocking back to Washington by the thousands. A quarter of a million civilians have already been added to the federal payroll and another 500,000 may be taken on by 1952....The kicking around given Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine by Jumpin' Joe McCarthy has got a lot of senators sore. Byrd of Virginia gave Mrs. Smith pointed support by publicly praising her views on economy, while Pat McCarran of Nevada told G.O.P. leader Wherry: "I would like very much to have Mrs. Smith as a member of my committee investigating subversives."....Constantine Brown, the Washington Star's foreign editor, has gone in for domestic kingmaking. He has been conferring with Dolores Bridges, wife of the New Hampshire senator, on ways and means of kicking out genial Guy Gabrielson as chairman of the Republican National Committee ....Sen. Bob Taft tells friends that McCarthy's Senate speeches are chiefly for the purposes of garnering more lecture engagements, Joe's fee has now gone up to $1,000....The white House picked one of the toughest lawyers in the east to enforce price control—"Jiggs" Donohue, the man who convicted Harry Bridges of perjury. Prediction: There'll be less black marketing this time than last.

Backstage With the Diplomats — Dean Acheson has been sore as blazes at the British, especially Foreign Minister Bevin, for hanging back on citing Red China for aggression. In one off-record session, Acheson exploded: "How many times do the Chinese have to say no before Bevin believes them!"....The Red Chinese in Peiping have suddenly started courting British and Swedish diplomats. The Chinese invite them to dinners and receptions where the following line is dished out: "There is no reason why China can't be friends with Britain and Sweden if only you will stop being friends with those atrocious Americans." ....The Kremlin has refused to accept the appointment of Shenor Zalan Shazar as new ambassador from Israel. The Soviet Foreign Office gave no reason but the American embassy says Shazar is not wanted because he was once a Zionist leader in Russia and is suspected of wanting to return as a spy....Acheson is telling friends that he will never resign under fire—no matter how bitterly Senator McCarthy and other gopsters attack him. Acheson is confident the American people eventually will realize how unfair these attacks are and that his policies will finally be vindicated while men like McCarthy will go down in history as malicious crackpots.

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Feb. 6—In the vein of the Hollywood genius who said something was colossal in a small way, I advise you that a terrible row has been raging quietly between John Edgar Hoover and his loyal bureaucracy of the FBI and a hitherto inconspicuous lawyer named Max Lowenthal, who seems to have been the first one to pick Harry Truman for president and appears, moreover, to have been responsible for the puzzling sudden transformation of a low-brow county commissioner into a bleeding heart.

Last September, George Dondero, a doughty Republican congressman from Michigan, tore the hide off Lowenthal in a speech on the floor. He said that by pulling strings Lowenthal acquired the title of advisor to General Clay on the disposal of the Jewish wealth which had been confiscated by the Nazis, and soon came to be known as Clay's general counsel. Furthermore, Dondero said, Lowenthal had as an assistant George Shaw Wheeler, "the American traitor, Communist and renegade who shocked all America when he denounced the land of his birth and asked Communist-controlled Czechoslovakia for asylum."

Dondero said: "Within weeks a change occurred in Germany. The usually accurate 'Human Events' reported: 'It may be mere coincidence but since Lowenthal's appointment Clay has permitted leaders of the Soviet-sponsored Socialist Workers' party to address meetings in the American zone.' This was the opening which the Russians were awaiting because it gave them the opportunity to sponsor a Communist party under our protection.

"Lowenthal's influence began to mount in the early thirties. Men he had selected and nursed became powerful. The Russian-American Industrial Corporation was formed in New York to aid in developing the resources of Russia. The head of this Communist subsidiary was Sidney Hillman who became disillusioned but his one-time general counsel, Lowenthal, still follows the party line."

He then recited impressive data in support of his charge that Truman's mentor still followed the line.

Jonathan Daniels' book, "The Man of Independence," a very good biography of the twirp by one of his selfless secretareis, had come and gone, receiving good reviews and much incidental publicity but hardly anyone had given more than passing notice to Daniels' disclosures of Lowenthal's influence on a yokel whom he had latched onto when Truman was running an obscure sub-committee of the Senate, investigating railroad business.

Daniels wrote: "A self-effacing but ubiquitous man named Max Lowenthal had written a book on corporate reorganization methods" and so forth. This caught the interest of Senator Burt Wheeler, an eccentric and erratic son of the wild-jackass from Montana, who set up a special investigation of railroad finances, with Truman for helper.

I don't know where Daniels gets that stuff about Lowenthal's modesty because his recent testimony before the Committee on Un-American Activities depicts him as a gas-bag of colossal pomposity and arrogance. Moreover he got away with evasions and impositions that would have landed you or me in the clink. I will fill you in on that tomorrow.

Lowenthal was counsel to Wheeler's committee and Daniels writes that, "casually, one day,

UN FLINCHING ON RED CHINA

To congratulate the United Nations for declaring Red China an aggressor in Korea would hardly be fitting. This indispensable assertion of the UN's moral power is three months overdue.

Yet we must all be thankful that the UN finally did speak. Had it not, its stature as a peace agency, as an organization for collective security, might have been damaged beyond repair. Even as it is, the harm done by endless weeks of vacillating indecision will be hard to overcome.

India led the Arab-Asian bloc which contributed most to the shameful delay in branding Red China. It thus was not surprising to find India, along with Burma, joining the five Soviet-controlled nations in opposing the approved resolution.

Throughout the unhappy interlude that ended with this positive action by the UN, India strove for what it called a "peaceful settlement." But as the arguments unfolded day after day, it became clear that India believed peace should be bought at any price.

The Indians showed callous disregard for the UN'S highest aims and principles. They seemed to ignore the blood sacrifices of Americans and others fighting aggression in Korea under the UN banner. And they displayed practically no concern for the welfare of the unfortunate free Koreans who are the worst victims of this war.

Sir Benegal Rau's final appeal was typical. He informed the UN that if it labeled China an aggressor the last door to peaceful settlement would be barred.

This constitutes a warning that China, already guilty of aggression, would go on committing it if anyone dared call it by its right name. How any self-respecting body of moral nations is supposed to truckle to such threats is a mystery understood only in the inner sanctum of Prime Minister Nehru in New Delhi.

Fortunately, this dismal episode is at last ended. What comes next? The approved resolution provides that UN committees shall study both the problem of possible sanctions against Red China and the question whether any decent peaceful solution may be attained.

There need be no great haste on sanctions. Apparently we are hurting the Communist Chinese severely in Korea, and it may well be enough for a while to go on hitting them hard on the battlefield they themselves have chosen. Certainly their aggression is not paying off easily or quickly.

The notion promoted by India and others that calling China an aggressor means almost automatically a bigger war in the Far East has no basis in reality. If the Reds want a wider war, they'll almost surely get it. If they don't, no labels or other words will push them into it.

If the UN were always to hang back from using its moral force because to do so might enlarge the area of a conflict, it would never act and would cease to exist. A peace agency cannot be governed by fear. It must act with bold confidence, in the sure knowledge that many nations moving together make an indelible impact upon the minds of men everywhere—even among Communist nations.

The UN is either the conscience of the world—or it is nothing. Let us hope it never again waits so long to voice that conscience.

With workers lining up for defense jobs perhaps we don't have to be concerned about place work, but there is less assurance about place work.

INTENT NOT ENOUGH

Good intentions, it is well known, are not enough. Dr. Ralph Bunche, former mediator in Palestine for the United Nations, has this to say:

"In this dread atomic age, if we fail to achieve peace, the responsibility must be borne by all of us. The fortunate, or unfortunate survivors of a third world war would gain little solace from being able to point an accusing finger. If the peace is lost through complacency, our lack of awareness and determined effort, the blame would be shared by all of us, by peoples and governments whose intentions were sincerely peaceful as well as by those whose aggressive actions provoked war."

This business of frozen prices isn't going to bother everybody. Many of us have been numb to the things for some time.

THE 22nd AMENDMENT

Remarkable headway has been made for the ratification of the Twenty-second Amendment to the Constitution of the United States. This amendment provides:

"Section 1. No person shall be elected to the office of the President more than twice, and no person who has held the office of President, or acted as President, for more than two years of a term to which some other person was elected President shall be elected to the office of President more than once. But this article shall not apply to any person holding the office of President when this article was proposed by the Congress, and shall not prevent any person who may be holding the office of President, or acting as President, during the term within which this article becomes operative from holding the office of President or acting as President during the remainder of such term.

"Section 2. This article shall be inoperative unless it shall have been ratified as an amendment to the Constitution by the Legislatures of three-fourths of the several states within seven years from the date of its submission to the states by the Congress."

The two-term tradition for the presidency served this country well from George Washington to Franklin D. Roosevelt. The latter managed to violate the tradition, probably as much because the Republican Party deserted its principles and nominated an unacceptable candidate for the 1940 election. Mr. Roosevelt was elected to a third term; thus being enabled to prolong his private bureaucracy and to pursue policies which burdened our land with war, debt, high taxes, traitors and a creeping socialism

Roosevelt, a dying man, was elected for a fourth term. He went to Yalta and there agreed to arrangements with Stalin which have brought upon this land the Korean war, mobilization for World War III and an isolationism not of our will or making.

It needs to be noted, in justice, that Franklin D. Roosevelt was extraordinarily popular as a person and remains so, after his death and in spite of the evidence. Roosevelt's fourth term also gave us Harry Truman, an inadequately educated and experienced man who was catapulted into the presidency, the functions of which office and its relations to Congress he has never understood.

The Twenty-second Amendment was submitted to the states for ratification on March 26, 1947. By its own terms, it must be ratified by March 26, 1954, by three-quarters of the states.

Already, California, Colorado, Conecticut, Delaware, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Louisiana, Maine, Michigan, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraskka, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Vermont, Virginia, Wisconsin and Wyoming have ratified this amendment.

That means that more than half the states of the Union have ratified this amendment. Should an additional ten states ratify this year, it would make a total of 36 states and the amendment would be binding.

It is astonishing, in view of public opinion, that such states as Oklahoma, Texas, Montana and South Carolina have failed to ratify this amendment. Massachusetts and Maryland are also among the missing. Utah, which defeated Senator Elbert Thomas, ought to go along with a limitation on the presidency.

The amendment has already been passed by two-thirds of the House of Representatives and the Senate. It comes, in accordance with constitutional provisions, automatically into effect, if ratified by three-quarters of the state legislatures.

The likelihood is that it would have been passed everywhere if pushed by articulate, constructive public opinion. These are the states that have thus far failed to do their duty:

Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Kentucky, Maryland, Massachuetts, Minnesota, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, North Caroline, Oklahoma, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Washington and West Virginia.

Of course, this amendment could not be used to prevent Harry Truman from running for a third term, he being the incumbent on its adoption as a congressional resolution. Nevertheless, he would probably avoid flouting public opinion so pronounced that it becomes an amendment to the Constitution. Surely neither the Democrats nor the Republicans would be distrait over the elimination of Harry Truman as a candidate in 1952.

Only public opinion will force this amendment through and it needs to be vociferous and active in some states.

That Body of Yours

EVERYBODY NEEDS TABLE SALT DAILY

Since it is known that all liquids—water, milk, tea, coffee, soft and hard drinks—definitely maintain overweight, because fat tissue holds water, most overweights now take less fluid or liquid daily. In addition, as table salt holds 70 times its own weight of liquids in the tissues, many overweights are cutting down on their table salt in and on foods, or are using salt substitutes.

Besides overweight, there are other diseases in which liquids and table salt must be reduced, because too much liquid in the tissues brings on attacks: such conditions as epilepsy and Meniere's disease. In high blood pressure most physicians advise reduction of liquids and table salt.

Both liquids and table salt are needed foods; everybody requires a certain amount of them every day. However, because too much of them maintains overweight and causes the attacks mentioned above, there are many who do not have these diseases, who are not getting enough liquids and table salt. And just as too much causes symptoms, so also does not enough cause symptoms.

In The Journal of the American Medical Association, Dr. Henry A. Schroeder (Washington University), states that lack of table salt makes the kidneys unable to do their work properly. This causes various symptoms—symptoms that are often not recognized as being caused by inadequate functioning of the kidneys. This inability of the kidneys means less volume of urine to remove body wastes, rapid gain in weight, and sometimes an increase in the heart rate.

The symptoms complained of are: 1. drowsiness, weakness and lethargy (often wrongfully attributed to quieting or pain-killing drugs); 2. loss of appetite, sometimes with thirst. 3. nausea and sometimes vomiting; 4. occasionally abdominal and muscular cramps, and 5. an increase in oedma (swelling with fluid) where oedema is already present.

The treatment in these cases, once the condition is recognized, is the use of more table salt and injection of salt solution into the veins.

Remember, we all need table salt and should use it daily in the usual quantities unless overweight, epilepsy, high blood pressure or symptoms of Meniere's disease are present.

No Red Herring About This, Eh, Harry?

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—Almost as interesting as the military secrets he revealed—which cannot be told—was the human side of Gen. Dwight Eisenhower as he briefed the House Armed Services and Foreign Affairs Committees on his recent trip to Europe.

Ike impressed congressmen with his honesty and humility during the closed-door session. There wasn't a member present—Democrat or Republican— who wasn't solidly in his corner when it was over.

Probably the best compliment was paid by articulate Carl Vinson of Georgia, House Armed Services chairman, who didn't open his mouth once during the entire meeting. As one congressman remarked: "A guy has to be good to make Carl, who dominates all our meetings, take a back seat."

Eisenhower reported that Europeans generally were "determined" to fight communism, with our help, but he added that we should not adopt a "mendicant attitude" toward Germany or any other nation, as though they are doing us a favor by fighting their own battles against Soviet aggression.

"I'm the kind of a guy who would rather go down with my flag nailed to the masthead, fighting for what I believe in," he emphasized. "Those we are helping must show the same spirit."

Ike also told the closed-door meeting that Marshal Zhukov, former Soviet commandant in Berlin, was in bad with the Kremlin, apparently because of a too-friendly attitude toward western powers.

"Back in the days when I knew him, Zhukov was hand-in-glove with Stalin," Eisenhower said. "But the last I heard of him, he was riding around in an old Ford that could use a repair job."

Future of Foot Soldier

While Ike was stressing the importance of sea and air power, GOP Rep. Carroll Reece of Tennessee inquired if he wasn't "minimizing" the importance of the foot soldier.

"I don't want to be understood at any time as minimizing the responsibility and ability of the doughboy," Eisenhower replied quickly. "No fight has ever been won without him. The air force and the navy get the cheers, but the doughboys get the white crosses in the ground."

At one point when he felt that he was growing preachy, Ike grinned: "If I sound philosophical, just remember that I have been a college president."

But he didn't sound like a college president a moment later, when, stressing the importance of unity with our European allies, he said:

"We'd be in a hell of a fix—"

Then he apologized to Congresswomen Frances Bolton of Ohio and Edna Kelly of New York.

One congressman, alluding to Ike's statement that the European people were "determined" to carry on the fight against Communism, asked him the reason. Chief of Staff General Alfred Gruenther broke in to answer the question.

"Ike himself is chiefly responsible," he said. "He sold the Europeans on the idea that we could not help them much unless they had the will to fight for their own salvation."

"That's the first time in my life that a chief of staff has ever embarrassed me," commented Eisenhower.

Capitol Lowdown—House Doorkeeper "Fishbait" Miller, who is also in charge of the House "folding room" has an interesting way of taking care of his stepmother-in-law. He places her on the folding-room payroll and lets Uncle Sam foot the bill. If Fishbait does this for his stepmother-in-law, wonder what he does for his closer relatives? (The "folding room" sends out literature, franked mail, etc., to congressmen's constituents.)...Though H.S.T. has Bernie Baruch on the presidential black list, Baruch still has plenty of power in Washington. Two of his closest friends, Gen. Lucius Clay and Mrs. Anna Rosenberg, have key defense jobs, while Baruch also cracks the whip occasionally over Mobilization Czar Charles E. Wilson....Democratic Chairman Bill Boyle got a bit miffed at first when Price Potentate Mike Di Salle told a congressional committee: "There is such an immediate need for employes that I may even have to hire some Democrats." Boyle didn't realize Di Salle was kidding. (Di Salle claims that the actual ratio of Democrats hired is about 36 per cent against 65 per cent Republicans.)

Along the Potomac — Wartime bureaucrats are flocking back to Washington by the thousands. A quarter of a million civilians have already been added to the federal payroll and another 500,000 may be taken on by 1952....The kicking around given Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine by Jumpin' Joe McCarthy has got a lot of senators sore. Byrd of Virginia gave Mrs. Smith pointed support by publicly praising her views on economy, while Pat McCarran of Nevada told G.O.P. leader Wherry: "I would like very much to have Mrs. Smith as a member of my committee investigating subversives."....Constantine Brown, the Washington Star's foreign editor, has gone in for domestic kingmaking. He has been conferring with Dolores Bridges, wife of the New Hampshire senator, on ways and means of kicking out genial Guy Gabrielson as chairman of the Republican National Committee ....Sen. Bob Taft tells friends that McCarthy's Senate speeches are chiefly for the purposes of garnering more lecture engagements. Joe's fee has now gone up to $1,000....The white House picked one of the toughest lawyers in the east to enforce price control—"Jiggs" Donohue, the man who convicted Harry Bridges of perjury. Prediction: There'll be less black marketing this time than last.

Backstage With the Diplomats — Dean Acheson has been sore as blazes at the British, especially Foreign Minister Bevin, for hanging back on citing Red China for aggression. In one off-record session, Acheson exploded: "How many times do the Chinese have to say no before Bevin believes them!"....The Red Chinese in Peiping have suddenly started courting British and Swedish diplomats. The Chinese invite them to dinners and receptions where the following line is dished out: "There is no reason why China can't be friends with Britain and Sweden if only you will stop being friends with those atrocious Americans."....The Kremlin has refused to accept the appointment of Shenor Zalan Shazar as new ambassador from Israel. The Soviet Foreign Office gave no reason but the American embassy says Shazar is not wanted because he was once a Zionist leader in Russia and is suspected of wanting to return as a spy....Acheson is telling friends that he will never resign under fire—no matter how bitterly Senator McCarthy and other gopsters attack him. Acheson is confident the American people eventually will realize how unfair these attacks are and that his policies will finally be vindicated while men like McCarthy will go down in history as malicious crackpots.

'Voice of America' Should Be Separate From Department of State and a Free Agency

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Feb. 7—Senator Benton of Connecticut, Democrat, is absolutely right in his attempt to bring about the separation of the "Voice of America" from the Department of State, thus making it an independent agency responsible directly to the President.

That was the way the information branch of the government functioned during World War 1 and World War 2, respectively, and the crisis today on the psychological warfare side is no less important than it was during both those war periods.

The significance of the separation which Senator Benton and many others in Congress are advocating is that the "Voice of America" trends to become a subordinate bureau which cannot function in a large sense on policy questions. It has efficient personnel in its management but their freedom to do a good job is impaired.

The conception which Secretary of State Acheson has of the "Voice of America" is rather narrow. He thinks of it as merely the mouthpiece of the Department of State and as an instrument of "support to current foreign policy decisions." Any information agency which has that mission is doomed from the start because of the inhibitions upon its freedom of expression.

In a recent exchange of letters between Secretary Acheson and Senator Benton, the former insisted that "the expanded information program has in fact become the vital part of our national strategy you and others have always believed it should be." Senator Benton, when he was assistant secretary of state, had charge of the "Voice of America" program and spent many a weary hour before Congressional committees trying to get appropriations for it, so he has definite ideas about what ought to be done with the whole operation. In his reply to Secretary Acheson, the Connecticut senator says in part:

"Your letter of January 24th still leaves a chasm between U. S. ...I earnestly hope that you do not mean that we are now meeting fully the challenge and the opportunity in this field. The tragic fact is that our information program hasn't even begun to be 'the vital part of our national strategy' it should be. Evidence for this abounds everywhere."

The evidence, to be sure, comes from many persons who are experts in the field and who shake their heads in discouragement as they think what a whale of a job could be done by a really inspired organization that has as its main task a daily appeal to the peoples behind the "iron curtain."

The hope of preventing war lies not merely in a cautious diplomacy backed by armament, but in bringing persuasively to the attention of peoples everywhere that peace is really attainable if truth is utilized to the maximum in applying moral force.

Secretary Acheson's letter appears to be that of a technician who has examined a blueprint and finds that the functions are properly classified in a government department. If there were no criss, it wouldn't matter in what department the "Voice of America" was placed. But there is a crisis, it wouldn't matter in what counsel of men who cannot allow themselves to think as bureaucrats if they are really to do an effective piece of psychological warfare.

Senator Benton has this rather significant point in his latest letter to Secretary Acheson, given to the press on February 3rd:

"I hope you will not disapprove of a speech that I am now planning, and may deliver in the next week or two in which I am going to . . . follow a 'counsel of moderation,' and ask for a special investigation by the Senate into this problem."

This can only mean more trouble for Secretary Acheson. One wonders why he stubbornly refuses to take advice on the proper scope of a public relations program and opens the door wide to irrelevant inquiries by the Senate into the functioning of the entire department of state.

The problems of the "Voice of America" are not ones to be determined by a single cabinet officer. They affect the whole government. only by a legalistic twist of thought can it be assumed that the program is merely the voice of the State Department designed to defend or argue the merits of its policies. The real mission of the "Voice of America" is to reflect the spirit and the will of the American people—and such a task should be entrusted to an office that can function independently and report only to the president and, through him, to the Congress of the United States.

Milk Producers Desire $6.10 a Hundred Price

Syracuse, N. Y., Feb. 7 (AP)—A milk producer cooperative wants the federal government to peg the farm price of Class 1A (fluid) milk at $6.10 a hundredweight, with a 44-cent seasonal adjustment.

The Eastern Milk Producers Association proposed yesterday that the price be set for the New York milkshed through next December.

In April, May and June, the cooperative said, the seasonal adjustment would cut the price to $5.66 a hundredweight (about 47 quarts). It would be $6.10 for September and increase to $6.54 for October through December.

The farm price for February is $5.48 a hundredweight.

Ross P. Kinney of Amenia, association president, said the proposal was designed to adjust prices to an "increase in general economic conditions since 1946."

Eastern claims 7,000 members in the milkshed, which embraces New York and New Jersey and parts of Pennsylvania, Vermont, Massachusetts and Connecticut.

Humble Start

The tung oil industry in the United States owes its origin to five tung trees, which had stood neglected for years in a cemetery at Tallahassee, Fla. Their offsprings now cover more than 30,000 acres.

Houston Firemen Have Hard Battle

Houston, Feb. 7 (AP)—A spectacular gasoline fire along the Houston ship channel was brought under control at dawn today after an all-night fight by nearly 200 firemen. About 20 firemen were hurt.

Flames rose 300 feet in the air, lighting up the countryside for a mile around, after a creeping grass fire set fire to a 24,500-gallon gasoline tank last night.

The tank was in the middle of an oil storage terminal with 50 huge tanks with a total capacity of 2,750,000 barrels. Only a few yards away was a tank holding 80,000 barrels of aviation gasoline. It got so hot the paint peeled from it.

About 20 firemen were treated for heat exhaustion and minor burns. Their work was dangerous. Shortly before midnight, several firemen and terminal employes waded in foot-deep gasoline while trying to drain the 24,500-gallon tank before it burst into flames.

Plants Threatened

For hours the fire threatened oil and industrial plants which have mushroomed alongside the ship channel connecting Houston with the Gulf of Mexico.

The storage terminal is in Galena Park, incorporated community of 10,000 residents adjoining Houston on the east.

The fire began at 4 p. m. yesterday when heat from a grass fire caused an asbestos gasket on a valve on the tank to explode.

Flames shot 75 feet into the air as gasoline poured from the leak.

At 11:15 a. m. the entire tank was enveloped by flames. Firemen then abandoned this tank and concentrated all efforts on preventing spread of the fire.

Previously, a crew of men had started draining the tank by connecting it with a hose to another tank.

Dewey Names Group On Two Resources

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 7 (AP)—Governor Dewey appointed a six-member committee on water and land resources today to coordinate state resource policies and to work with federal agencies.

Dewey said the state had received repeated requests from Washington for information concerning New York's water and land resource program for inclusion in national and regional surveys.

He designated Conservation Commissioner Perry B. Duryea as chairman of the new committee.

The other appointees: Dr. Herman E. Hilleboe, state health commissioner; Hickman Powell, member of the State Power Authority; Horace S. Evans, executive director, State Flood Control Commission; Commerce Commissioner Harold Keller, and Dr. William I. Myers, dean of the State College of Agriculture.

Dewey also designated John S. Burton, State Power Authority chairman, as his personal representative to work with the New York-New England resources survey now being conducted by a federal inter-agency committee.

Slips Into Lagoon

New York, Feb. 7 (AP)—Eight-year-old John Hillcoat, of 40-11 69th street, Woodside, Queens, slipped into the ooze of the shallow lagoon separating LaGuardia Field from the Grand Central Parkway near 102nd street, Queens, yesterday afternoon and was rescued by friends. They wrapped the chilled boy in their coats until an ambulance arrived, Port Authority police reported. John was treated for exposure at Flushing Hospital and sent home. The youth ws crossing the lagoon on large stones jutting from the bottom when he slipped into the mud above his knees.

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

I think I have already reminded my readers of the old stock market saying: "Sometimes the bears win, and sometimes the bulls win; but the hogs never win." The same thing is true in bridge. Sometimes it is right to be optimistic, and sometimes it is right to be pessimistic. However, it never pays to be a pig.

In the hand shown today, South ran afoul of this principle and wound up nursing his wounds.

West opened the ten of hearts, and South greedily played low in the dummy, hoping to win three heart tricks. Unfortunately for South, East happened to have the king of hearts.

East won the first trick with that card and promptly shifted to a low diamond. West took the ace of diamonds and returned the suit, knocking out South's only diamond stopper.

South entered dummy with a heart to take the club finesse. He felt very unhappy when West won with the king of clubs and led another diamond. The defenders thus took four diamonds, a heart, and a club, setting the contract two tricks.

South should have made his contract by putting up the ace of hearts at the first trick. The club finesse is then taken, and nine tricks are cold even though the club finesse loses. South is sure of five clubs, two spades, and the ace of hearts.

If the opponents hammer away at either red suit, they must establish South's ninth trick. If they switch to spades (or clubs) South has time to set up his ninth trick for himself.

but with the secret feeling of a man offering a well-earned accolade, Lowenthal suggested to Truman that he would like to take him to see his friend Louis D. Brandeis."

Daniels thinks Brandeis, and old Holmes, the brutalitarian materialist, who thought about alike, were "two great judges of the American liberal tradition." Truman was, in the intellectual sense, a one-gallus hick and Daniels says he was bashful in the presence of Brandeis at first but, after his first audience with the Great Brain, went "almost every other week to the open houses which the justice held for his selected friends."

Remember that this Daniels biography is an inside job when you read further that: "With the help of Lowenthal and probably with the influence of Brandeis' talk * * * Truman made a speech which was completely and comfortably forgotten by hopeful conservatives when he succeeded Roosevelt. It was a broadside against concentrated wealth" in which he said a thousand insurance companies with four million each were a thousand times better than the Metropolitan with its assets of four billions.

Over and over we get the message that Lowenthal was needling Truman to go after the nomination for vice-president and the plain implication that both of them thoroughly realized that Roosevelt was dying fast.

The purpose of Lowenthal's book roasting the FBI eludes me. It is terribly dull reading and slanted all the way but Mr. Hoover's men are bursting with indignation. While I am able to control my emotions, I agree that Lowenthal did a job on Hoover and the Bureau. To my thinking, Lowenthal tips his hand when he loftily repeats a warning by Hoover way back in 1919 that "civilization faces its most terrible menace of danger since the barbarian hordes overran west Europe and opened the Dark Ages."

What's wrong with that?

Would Bar Communists

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 7 (AP)—Assemblyman Frank J. McMullen proposes that a special legislative committee be appointed to draft bills that would bar Communists and subversives from public jobs. The Brooklyn Republican introduced a resolution yesterday to establish a seven-member committee and give it $50,000 for the job. The resolution said the Legislature had "from time to time" determined that Communists were "disloyal; that the Communist movement constitutes a threat to the security of the United States and the American way of life." McMullen said the committee should make a thorough study of existing laws and orders "dealing with the elimination of disloyal and subversive persons in public employ."

James vs. James

Seattle, Feb. 7 (AP)—"That's right," said Attorney Robert C. Royce, when questioned about filing of a divorce suit. The filing read: "James M. Martin vs. James M. Martin." "The complaint is correct," the attorney said. "The lady's name is James M. Martin. So is her husband's." Mrs. Martin asks restoration of her maiden name, James M. Peace.

Long-term Investment that pays daily dividends

THESE are days when thoughtful people turn their minds to the durability of things they purchase—and that makes good sense at any time.

But you may have noticed that it's a rare occasion when doing your duty turns out to be the best way to satisfy your heart's desire.

That's what's so marvelous about this '51 Buick.

If you picked a car just for the lift it gives you—your pride in its power and pace—or its generous comfort and room—you couldn't make a better choice.

But make note of this:

That gleaming new push-bar forefront, which greets your eye with flashing beauty, contains 25 grille bars made of stamped steel, individually mounted to "give" and come back unharmed. Combined with a massive, wrap-around bumper, fortressed by two stalwart "bumper bombs" and two added uprights, it gives unsurpassed protection.

The springs of stout spiraled steel on all four wheels let your wheels dip and curtsey over uneven highways, while you ride level as a lance. But these springs also need no servicing, and breakage is virtually unknown.

Buick's great-powered engine is a Fireball, wondrously lively and eager at the mere touch of your toe—but it also wrings extra power from every drop of fuel, and has the mechanical perfection that comes only from years of experience with this basic design.

Dynaflow Drive gives every mile you drive effortless smoothness of control—but it also eliminates clutch repair bills, saves tires, puts less strain on the whole driving mechanism, from engine to differential.

The road-steady gait of a Buick gives you a sense of relaxed security—and is also evidence that you have a durable, deep-silled, X-braced frame beneath you.

However you check it, you'll discover this: The things that make you yearn for a Buick on first acquaintance, are the very same things that make Buick such a smart long-time buy.

Better make it a point to see your Buick dealer—soon.

Standard equipment, accessories and trim illustrated are subject to change without notice.

DYNAFLOW DRIVE*—saves strain on driver and car
FIREBALL POWER—high-compression, valve-in-head engine gets more good from every drop of fuel

I think I have already reminded my readers of the old stock market saying: "Sometimes the bears win, and sometimes the bulls win; but the hogs never win." The same thing is true in bridge. Sometimes it is right to be optimistic, and sometimes it is right to be pessimistic. However, it never pays to be a pig.

In the hand shown today, South ran afoul of this principle and wound up nursing his wounds.

West opened the ten of hearts, and South greedily played low in the dummy, hoping to win three heart tricks. Unfortunately for South, East happened to have the king of hearts.

East won the first trick with that card and promptly shifted to a low diamond. West took the ace of diamonds and returned the suit, knocking out South's only diamond stopper.

South entered dummy with a heart to take the club finesse. He felt very unhappy when West won with the king of clubs and led another diamond. The defenders thus took four diamonds, a heart, and a club, setting the contract two tricks.

South should have made his contract by putting up the ace of hearts at the first trick. The club finesse is then taken, and nine tricks are cold even though the club finesse loses. South is sure of five clubs, two spades, and the ace of hearts.

If the opponents hammer away at either red suit, they must establish South's ninth trick. If they switch to spades (or clubs) South has time to set up his ninth trick for himself.

Would Bar Communists

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 7 (AP)—Assemblyman Frank J. McMullen proposes that a special legislative committee be appointed to draft bills that would bar Communists and subversives from public jobs. The Brooklyn Republican introduced a resolution yesterday to establish a seven-member committee and give it $50,000 for the job. The resolution said the Legislature had "from time to time" determined that Communists were "disloyal; that the Communist movement constitutes a threat to the security of the United States and the American way of life." McMullen said the committee should make a thorough study of existing laws and orders "dealing with the elimination of disloyal and subversive persons in public employ."

James vs. James

Seattle, Feb. 7 (AP)—"That's right," said Attorney Robert C. Royce, when questioned about filing of a divorce suit. The filing read: "James M. Martin vs. James M. Martin." "The complaint is correct," the attorney said. "The lady's name is James M. Martin. So is her husband's." Mrs. Martin asks restoration of her maiden name, James M. Peace.

Long-term Investment that pays daily dividends

THESE are days when thoughtful people turn their minds to the durability of things they purchase—and that makes good sense at any time.

But you may have noticed that it's a rare occasion when doing your duty turns out to be the best way to satisfy your heart's desire.

That's what's so marvelous about this '51 Buick.

If you picked a car just for the lift it gives you—your pride in its power and pace—or its generous comfort and room—you couldn't make a better choice.

But make note of this:

That gleaming new push-bar forefront, which greets your eye with flashing beauty, contains 25 grille bars made of stamped steel, individually mounted to "give" and come back unharmed. Combined with a massive, wrap-around bumper, fortressed by two stalwart "bumper bombs" and two added uprights, it gives unsurpassed protection.

The springs of stout spiraled steel on all four wheels let your wheels dip and curtsey over uneven highways, while you ride level as a lance. But these springs also need no servicing, and breakage is virtually unknown.

Buick's great-powered engine is a Fireball, wondrously lively and eager at the mere touch of your toe—but it also wrings extra power from every drop of fuel, and has the mechanical perfection that comes only from years of experience with this basic design.

Dynaflow Drive gives every mile you drive effortless smoothness of control—but it also eliminates clutch repair bills, saves tires, puts less strain on the whole driving mechanism, from engine to differential.

The road-steady gait of a Buick gives you a sense of relaxed security—and is also evidence that you have a durable, deep-silled, X-braced frame beneath you.

However you check it, you'll discover this: The things that make you yearn for a Buick on first acquaintance, are the very same things that make Buick such a smart long-time buy.

Better make it a point to see your Buick dealer—soon.

Standard equipment, accessories and trim illustrated are subject to change without notice.

No other car provides all this:

DYNAFLOW DRIVE*—saves strain on driver and car
FIREBALL POWER—high-compression, valve-in-head engine gets more good from every drop of fuel
PUSH-BAR FOREFRONT—combines smart style and unsurpassed protection
WHITE-GLOW INSTRUMENTS—greater clarity at night
TORQUE-TUBE DRIVE—steadies ride, improves driving control
4-WHEEL COIL SPRINGING—cushions ride, saves servicing costs
SELF-ENERGIZING BRAKES—hydraulic—multiply pedal-pressure five times at brake drum
DREAMLINE STYLING—tapered, car-length fenders, gleaming sweepspears on most models
Plus: Self-locking luggage lid, StepOn parking brake, two-way ignition lock, Safety-Ride rims, Hi-Poised engine mounting. Body by Fisher

A.P. Employes Get Weekly Increase If Under $145

New York, Feb. 7 (AP)—Editorial and general office employes of the Associated Press who earn less than $145 weekly were awarded wage increases ranging from $3 to $5.50 per week yesterday by an arbitration board.

The award is subject to approval by the Wage Stablization Board, since wire service employes' wages now are frozen.

The A.P. and the American Newspaper Guild (C.I.O.) submitted the issue of wages to arbitration last Nov. 6 after failing to reach agreement in contract negotiations. Other provisions of the new two-year contract, including a wage-opening clause next November had been agreed.

The Arbitration Board, in addition to awarding the increases, raised salary minimums for newsmen, radio newsmen and photographers with six years experience from $110 to $120 in New York, Chicago and Washington.

Other minimums for newsmen and photographers, which had ranged from $45 to $105, were raised to levels from $50 to $115.

The general increase is scaled from $3 weekly for those earning less than $60 to $5.50 for those earning at least $120 but less than $145 weekly.

The board's ruling is retroactive to Nov. 5, 1950, and provides that each employe will receive either the new minimum for his experience classification or the general increase, whichever is higher.

Investor Forum

Harry C. France

Monetizing debt means practically nothing to most people, but its import in our national economic life can be very great. The whole realm of prices can be affected by it.

Let me illustrate. A man in Skohagen is broke. His financial life has been badly ordered. A morning arrives when he summons all his courage and walks boldly into a local bank where he once had credit. He tells his story. The very sound of his voice, the gestures that seem to blend perfectly with his vocal intonation, the plans he has to rehabilitate his economic life—all these have a profound influence on the bank's lending officer.

He gets his loan—a thousand dollars. It is due in a year and he promises to repay part of it during that time. He signs a note. It is just plain paper, but, lodged with the teller, he can draw at will 10 one hundred dollar Federal Reserve Notes or 100 ten dollar bills of the same vintage.

His debt has been monetized. What does he borrow this money for? Why, to set in motion the plans which, if they are successful, will put him on his "financial" feet again. Yes, a piece of penny paper has been turned into a thousand dollars.

A year goes by and he is unsuccessful. His plans to repay part of the loan have gone awry. And, as the maturity date of his $1,000 loan approaches, he wonders if the banker will renew the loan. He hopes so. If the banker doesn't, what will happen? Well, his plans will be shot.

This little loan is infinitesimal when set off against the national economic landscape. In the year ahead, Uncle Sam has debts of $51,763,000,000 maturing. That is an average of about a billion dollars a week. And that is about $142,000,000 daily—Sundays and holidays.

Now, in case Uncle Sam finds it difficult to renew these loans, he has a very efficient banking system to fall back on. Through it he can monetize the debt. If Tom and Dick and Harry, hard-working industrious and thrifty American citizens, who have saved their money for rainy days, will not buy Uncle Sam's bonds, the banks will have to. And why not?

The banks that buy them, when necessary, can sell them or borrow against them at the twelve big Federal Reserve Banks across the country. In the last analysis, then, it is possible to pump Uncle Sam's debts into the very banking structure where money is created!

And that would be debt monetization. And oh, what a terrific pressure on prices all along the line would result if only part of this 51 billion maturing debt were to be turned into money (monetized) in the year ahead!

The money, potential and real, in the United States, has incalculable potentialities. With wage and price controls enveloping the economy, it can break out in dozens of other places.

In the stock market, for instance. Thus far in the new year, I have met and talked with a score of people whose liquid dollar assets total several millions. And these assets are piling up all the time. Several of them have Series "D" and "E" bonds and notes maturing in the immediate months ahead.

Should they take cash for them? One day they get one idea, the next day another. What would happen in the stock market if 10% of this 51 billion of maturing debt should go into prime equities?

Why, there would be no stopping the stock market. Margins might be increased to 100% (when cash would have to be paid for stocks) but this would not stop rising prices. So, maturing debt with its possibilities of being monetized is a great danger in America.

Cricket Business

Simpsonville, S. C. (AP)—A cricket on the hearth symbolizes good luck to some people, but to Ted Green the crickets in his breeding box are just like money in the bank. Green raises the yellow, wingless variety to retail for $1.50 per hundred as fish bait. Principal expense in cricket culture is heating the box to 80 or 90 degrees all the time. This is accomplished by a continuously-burning electric light. If the temperature drops, the crickets start looking for a place to hibernate. As long as they're warm, they keep turning out offspring in two-week cycles.

A.P. Employes Get Weekly Increase If Under $145

New York, Feb. 7 (AP)—Editorial and general office employes of the Associated Press who earn less than $145 weekly were awarded wage increases ranging from $3 to $5.50 per week yesterday by an arbitration board.

The award is subject to approval by the Wage Stablization Board, since wire service employes' wages now are frozen.

The A.P. and the American Newspaper Guild (C.I.O.) submitted the issue of wages to arbitration last Nov. 6 after failing to reach agreement in contract negotiations. Other provisions of the new two-year contract, including a wage-opening clause next November had been agreed.

The Arbitration Board, in addition to awarding the increases, raised salary minimums for newsmen, radio newsmen and photographers with six years experience from $110 to $120 in New York, Chicago and Washington.

Other minimums for newsmen and photographers, which had ranged from $45 to $105, were raised to levels from $50 to $115.

The general increase is scaled from $3 weekly for those earning less than $60 to $5.50 for those earning at least $120 but less than $145 weekly.

The board's ruling is retroactive to Nov. 5, 1950, and provides that each employe will receive either the new minimum for his experience classification or the general increase, whichever is higher.

"Fiasco" originally meant a flask or bottle and came to mean a spectacular failure by derivation, presumably in the sense of breaking, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Monetizing debt means practically nothing to most people, but its import in our national economic life can be very great. The whole realm of prices can be affected by it.

Let me illustrate. A man in Skohagen is broke. His financial life has been badly ordered. A morning arrives when he summons all his courage and walks boldly into a local bank where he once had credit. He tells his story. The very sound of his voice, the gestures that seem to blend perfectly with his vocal intonation, the plans he has to rehabilitate his economic life—all these have a profound influence on the bank's lending officer.

He gets his loan—a thousand dollars. It is due in a year and he promises to repay part of it during that time. He signs a note. It is just plain paper, but, lodged with the teller, he can draw at will 10 one hundred dollar Federal Reserve Notes or 100 ten dollar bills of the same vintage.

His debt has been monetized. What does he borrow this money for? Why, to set in motion the plans which, if they are successful, will put him on his "financial" feet again. Yes, a piece of penny paper has been turned into a thousand dollars.

A year goes by and he is unsuccessful. His plans to repay part of the loan have gone awry. And, as the maturity date of his $1,000 loan approaches, he wonders if the banker will renew the loan. He hopes so. If the banker doesn't, what will happen? Well, his plans will be shot.

This little loan is infinitesimal when set off against the national economic landscape. In the year ahead, Uncle Sam has debts of $51,763,000,000 maturing. That is an average of about a billion dollars a week. And that is about $142,000,000 daily—Sundays and holidays.

Now, in case Uncle Sam finds it difficult to renew these loans, he has a very efficient banking system to fall back on. Through it he can monetize the debt. If Tom and Dick and Harry, hard-working industrious and thrifty American citizens, who have saved their money for rainy days, will not buy Uncle Sam's bonds, the banks will have to. And why not?

The banks that buy them, when necessary, can sell them or borrow against them at the twelve big Federal Reserve Banks across the country. In the last analysis, then, it is possible to pump Uncle Sam's debts into the very banking structure where money is created!

And that would be debt monetization. And oh, what a terrific pressure on prices all along the line would result if only part of this 51 billion maturing debt were to be turned into money (monetized) in the year ahead!

The money, potential and real, in the United States, has incalculable potentialities. With wage and price controls enveloping the economy, it can break out in dozens of other places.

In the stock market, for instance. Thus far in the new year, I have met and talked with a score of people whose liquid dollar assets total several millions. And these assets are piling up all the time. Several of them have Series "D" and "E" bonds and notes maturing in the immediate months ahead.

Should they take cash for them? One day they get one idea, the next day another. What would happen in the stock market if 10% of this 51 billion of maturing debt should go into prime equities?

Why, there would be no stopping the stock market. Margins might be increased to 100% (when cash would have to be paid for stocks) but this would not stop rising prices. So, maturing debt with its possibilities of being monetized is a great danger in America.

Cricket Business

Simpsonville, S. C. (AP)—A cricket on the hearth symbolizes good luck to some people, but to Ted Green the crickets in his breeding box are just like money in the bank. Green raises the yellow, wingless variety to retail for $1.50 per hundred as fish bait. Principal expense in cricket culture is heating the box to 80 or 90 degrees all the time. This is accomplished by a continuously-burning electric light. If the temperature drops, the crickets start looking for a place to hibernate. As long as they're warm, they keep turning out offspring in two-week cycles.

Truck Driver Is Killed in Crash Near Red Hook

Rhinebeck, Feb. 7—A driver was killed in the head-on collision of two transport trucks on Route 9 near Red Hook early today.

State police here listed Edgar R. Butler, of Massachusetts, as the one fatally injured when the truck he drove, owned by the Rita Nihill Corp., of Fairfield, Conn., and one owned by the Middle Atlantic Transportation Co., of New York city came together at 5:30 a. m.

The other driver, P. Mitchell, whose address was not given, was taken to the Rhinebeck Hospital for treatment of cuts and bruises and police said his condition was not serious.

Both trucks caught fire immediately after the accident and the raging flames burned off wires of a telephone line disrupting service in the area. The Red Hook fire department was called to quench the blaze.

State police said it was not determined how the accident happened, but it was believed possible that one or both of the trucks might have skidded.

Jasper Martalto Dies Suddenly on Tuesday Afternoon

Jasper Martalto of 87 Wilson avenue, one of the most prominent members of the Ulster County Hotel, Restaurant and Liquor Dealers' Association, died suddenly Tuesday afternoon.

He was proprietor of Jasper's Restaurant, 8 Van Buren street.

His death was a shock to his many friends in Kingston and vicinity, although he had been under the care of a physician for a heart ailment with which he was stricken early in January.

An ardent sports enthusiast, he was especially interested in bowling and was among the leading sponsors of teams in local leagues.

Martalto was one of the committee that arranged the clambake last summer for the Hotel, Restaurant and Liquor Dealers' Association proceeds of which went to the Ulster County Tumor Clinic.

As a dog fancier he was proud of a cocker spaniel, Duchess, which he trained to collect coins and drop them in a piggy bank, which he opened at Christmas and sent the coins to the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital. Martalto and his pet were featured in a story published by The Freeman in connection with TB Seals sales.

He was a member of Kingston Lodge, 550, B.P.O. Elks, which will conduct ritualistic services at his home Friday at 8 p. m.

Surviving are his wife, Virginia Mae Martalto, nee Benson; one sister, Mrs. Rosario Ferraro and a niece, Miss Mary C. Ferraro. His parents were the late Sebastian and Carmello Orlando Martalto.

Funeral from his home, 87 Wilson avenue, Saturday at 9:15 a. m., thence to St. Mary's Church, where at 10 o'clock a solemn Mass of requiem will be offered for the repose of his soul. Burial in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Allies Smash . . .

their customary nightly withdrawal to bivouac positions.

Hill Is Stormed

An American infantry company stormed a hill three miles west of Anyang with cold steel when small arms fire and grenades failed to drive off 100 well-dug-in Reds.

The Reds crumbled. Forty fell under bayonet thrusts. Another 50 were shot in the back as they fled down the slope.

The drive straight up the center of Korea was pushed by five columns. It threw off balance the North Korean Fifth Corps which had massed along the Hongchong-Hoengsong highway for a possible renewal of the Red drive down the spiny center of South Korea.

Maj. Gen. Edward M. Almond, 10th Corps commander, ordered the five columns to sweep the ridges and clean out the Reds.

The five striking forces fanned out from Hoengsong, about 50 miles east of Seoul. Forward South Korean and American patrols ranged within five miles of Hongchong, a junction 20 miles east of 38.

One reached Pungsuwong, 10 miles northwest of Hoengsong; a second drove three miles northeast of the highway center; a third was six miles from Saemal; a fourth was 12 miles northeast of Hoengsong near Yudong; the fifth was moving up in reserve.

Minefields Sown

The Reds were sowing minefields. Engineers cleared paths through them and the tank columns killed hundreds of Reds.

Allied warplanes roared down low and artillery thundered, piling up the toll of Red casualties which has passed the 50,000 mark in the 14-day action.

The Chinese, building their new defense line just south of the Han, were rushing reinforcements across the frozen river on plank bridging. All the steel bridges spanning the river that runs through Seoul's southern outskirts were down.

The British cruiser Belfast and the American heavy cruiser St. Paul and the destroyer Hank poured shells at Reds in the Inchon-Seoul sector.

Marine Corsairs from the light carrier Bataan destroyed 10 buildings and an ammunition dump and hit seven troop concentrations in the Inchon-Seoul area.

Three Children Die

Emmitsburg, Md. Feb. 7 (AP)—Three young children died last night after a can of kerosene blew up in the kitchen of their home near here. The mother and three other children were burned and one of them was in critical condition today. Six-year-old Alice Louise Springer died at Annie Warner Hospital in Gettysburg, Pa., soon after the blast. Donald, 10, and John, 7, died at the hospital during the night. Gary Springer, 3, was in critical condition. Mrs. Charles Springer and two other children were treated and released.

Robbins Goes to Prison

Indianapolis, Feb. 7 (AP)—Kenneth L. Robbins is going to federal prison for a year and a day for writing phoney love letters that his friend thought were coming from "a nice girl in Terre Haute, Ind." "It was only make believe," the 30-year-old Frankfort, Ind., man told Federal Judge William E. Steckler yesterday. The judge found the letters to Charles Wallace, Frankfort cigar store employe, were so full of promises of marriage and appeals for money that Wallace sent $300 to the imaginary girl.

House Destroyed At Kripplebush

The two-story frame house of John Tillson at Kripplebush was destroyed by fire early today.

Fire Chief William Quick of the High Falls fire department, which responded to a call at 1:55 a. m. said the blaze was far beyond control when the firemen arrived and they were able to save only 200 pounds of beef in a deep freeze unit.

The fire started in the kitchen near a refrigerator, the chief said, and it raged quickly through the building. Its owner held no insurance, he said. Firemen remained at the scene for two hours.

The chief said he had been told that a child suffered burns in the fire, but he was unable to verify the report. The dairy farm is operated by Tillson's two sons, he said.

Quick reported "plenty of water" available near the house, but its only use was to save the deep freeze unit.

Dunham Gives His Views Opposing Onteora School

Clarence Dunham, Jr., an active participant in the civic and political affairs of the Town of Shandaken, announced today that he too joined with the group in the Town of Olive opposed to the extra $300,000 appropriation that is to be sought by the Onteora Central School District Board at a special meeting of the voters of the school district to be held in Phoenicia on the night of February 13. Dunham's announcement is as follows:

"The rising tide of opposition by residents of the Onteora School District to the requested extra appropriation of $300,000, in addition to the $1,850,000 previously voted, is completely understandable. I, too, as well as many other residents of the Town of Shandaken, am opposed to this unnecessary additional appropriation. How in God's name can the taxpayers be expected to stand such a heavy tax burden as would result to the people of the Town of Shandaken if this additional money were authorized?

"Due to the recent floods in our town, the town board just voted a $30,000 bond issue to repair bridges and highways damaged in the flood. This, of course, will result in quite an increase in our local town taxes. The last budget adopted by the county board of supervisors is, because of the same floods, substantially higher than any previous county budget so that our county tax bill is going to be higher this year than ever before. Now it is proposed that in addition to the $1,850,000 which was voted last April to build a school at Boiceville, $300,000 be authorized for that purpose. The combined tax increase which would necessarily result from all these expenditures would make the tax rate so high in the Town of Shandaken that many people could not continue to own their properties.

"A new school is, of course necessary. But the school board seems to think that there is no limit to the financial resources of the taxpayers in the district. It is about time we called a halt.

"Every voter in the Onteora School District should go to the Parish Hall at Phoenicia on the evening of February 13th and vote "no" on the proposition for an extra $300,000. If they do, we will still be able to have a good school without being extravagant."

Rail Tie-Up Eases

freight movements were paralyzed, remained serious. Only one of 24 carriers—the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy—reported a near normal number of workers, 68, on the job early today. The number of switchmen back to work on the Milwaukee, the Elgin, Joliet and Eastern and Chicago and Eastern Illinois, was far below normal, the army's railroad control office said.

The back-to-work movement appeared not developing in some parts of the west. But there were signs of the walkout ending on the Union Pacific line in San Francisco, Los Angeles and other far west cities.

Carriers Insist on Terms

The National Mediation Board met with rail union leaders in Washington yesterday and obtained written demands from the four brotherhoods involved in the negotiations with the carriers in the long-standing wage-hours dispute.

The carriers are insisting on terms of an agreement signed last Dec. 21, calling for a 25-cent hourly wage hike for yard service employes and a 10-cent raise for road service workers.

Both the unions and the carriers remained "on call" from the board today.

The contempt case continued in Chicago Federal Court where the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and its officials are on trial in connection with the "sick call" walkout of last December. They are charged with ignoring a court end-strike injunction and face a similar charge in the current walkout.

Passed by Senate

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 7 (AP)—Legislation to require county boards of supervisors to designate official newspapers annually was passed by the Senate today. Present law does not specify how often a board must designate the newspapers to carry legal matter of concurrent resolutions of the Legislature and local laws. The bill also specifies that one newspaper shall be designated for each of the two predominant parties in the county.

2 Local Hercules Employes Are Now At Kansas Plant

Richard C. Tucker, formerly assistant works manager of the Port Ewen, plant of Hercules Powder Company, has been named assistant manager of Sunflower Ordnance Works in Lawrence, Kansas. Bevier H. Sleight, Jr., former cost analyst for the Port Ewen Plant, also has been transferred to the Sunflower Ordnance Works to serve as smokeless powder superintendent, Hercules announced today. Operated by Hercules for the government during World War 2, the ordnance plant is being re-activated as part of the country's mobilization program. Hercules signed a contract this week with the United States Ornance Department to produce smokeless powder at the Kansas plant.

Edward K. Lefren is the new assistant works manager at Port Ewen. He has been with the plant engineering department since 1941. A graduate of Stevens Institute of Technology, Lefren joined Hercules in 1940 as a chemist at the Port Ewen plant.

Tucker, a graduate of the chemical engineering school of North Carolina State College, became associated with Hurcules Powder Company in 1933 as a chemist at the company's experiment station in Washington, Del. He served at the Port Ewen plant as chemist, and then assistant chief supervisor, from 1933 to 1937, transferring in 1937 to the company plant at Kenvil, N. J., as smokeless powder supervisor. The following year he returned to Wilmington to engage in work with the patent division. He was smokeless powder production supervisor at Radford Ordnance Works in Virginia during 1942; and transferred in 1943 to Sunflower Ordnance Works as assistant smokeless superintendent. During the next five years he was successively; smokeless superintendent, operating manager, and assistant manager of Sunflower Ordnance Works. He became assistant works manager of the Port Ewen plant in 1948.

Approve Using One License Next Year

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 7 (AP)—Legislation permitting the state motor vehicle commissioner to issue one license plate next year, instead of two, was approved Tuesday by the Assembly and sent to the Senate.

Pending federal priorities are expected to curtail the amount of steel available for most non-defense items, including license plates.

Only one plate was issued for each motor vehicle in 1950, but the two-plate system was returned for 1951 registrations.

The Assembly also approved and sent to the Senate a bill to extend without fee drivers' licenses of New York state servicemen.

The bill would continue such registrations automatically until the expiration date following a 60-day period after the serviceman's release from active duty.

Woman Is Injured As Truck Upsets

Sarah Sheppard, 38, of Bridgeton, N. J., received a compound fracture of the leg and was admitted to the Kingston Hospital early this morning following an accident at Glenerie when a motor truck in which she was riding overturned, state police said.

A tractor trailer owned by the Deschler Motor Freight of Bridgewater, N. J., being operated north on Route 9-W by Warren C. Wood, 33, of Vineland, N. J., struck an icy spot on the highway about 5 a. m. and overturned. The truck blocked the highway holding up traffic until about 7 o'clock when the truck was unloaded and hauled from the road. A cargo of glass bottles was removed from the vehicle before it could be moved.

Troopers Royal and Nichodemus made an investigation and directed traffic until the roadway was cleared.

Syracuse Is Flooded

Syracuse, N. Y., Feb. 7 (AP)—Rain and melting snow flooded Syracuse streets this morning to depths ranging up to 14 inches. About a half inch of rain fell between midnight and 10 a. m. when it turned to snow. Streams six feet wide and a half foot deep roared down the middle of streets leading from Syracuse University Hill, and the water collected in downtown intersections.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Feb. 7 (AP)—Selling in the rails unsettled the result of the stock market today and pulled prices down.

Losses ran better than $1 a share. At the same time there was some independent strength pushing beyond $2 a share.

The decline followed early rising tendencies. As prices were marked down the pace of business slowed appreciably.

Steels and motors readily absorbed a fair amount of selling and gave ground grudgingly. Air lines and aircrafts were mostly higher by fractions.

Up a point or more at times were Hiram Walker, Minneapolis Moline, Philip Morris, and Nickel Plate preferred (which gained more than 2).

Commissioner Louis F. Costuma, of New York city, suffered head lacerations, and Commissioner Reginald B. Taylor, of Buffalo, was bruised. They were treated at Hamilton Avenue Hospital, Monticello.

John C. Karl, the driver, was bruised slightly. State police quoted him as saying the car skidded into a guard rail, and then veered into a second guard rail.

The commissioners were en route to a hearing at Woodbourne Correctional Institution, near here.

3 Cars Damaged In Port Ewen Crash

Three cars were involved in an accident at Port Ewen at 9 o'clock this morning, two of the cars being parked and unoccupied at the time, according to the sheriff's department. No one was injured.

Chester Davis, 24, of Albany avenue extension, Kingston, was driving on Route 9W when his car struck an icy spot on the pavement near the junction of Salem street. His car skidded and struck the parked car of Benjamin Coniglio, Port Ewen. The Coniglio car then struck the parked car of Postmaster Robert J. Henry, and the Henry car was driven ahead and struck a telephone pole. The Davis car was damaged about the front end and the other two cars were damaged both front and rear. The accident was reported to the sheriff's office.

It is alleged he entered a store in Kingston and also threatened a cab driver with a gun. His case was set down for February 19 at 10 o'clock.

Wale Is Arraigned

Thomas Wale, 17, Wawarsing, was arraigned under two bills charging burglary, third degree, and unlawful entry, one on May 13 and one on June 15, last. The grand jury recommended he be tried as a youthful offender and Howard C. St. John was assigned as counsel. He waived his right to a jury trial and agreed to be treated as a youthful offender. A plea of innocent to being a youthful offender was accepted and the original indictment was sealed.

One civil case, No. 64, Joseph J. Wolfeil against John Glowinski, negligence, was announced settled. William A. Kaercher for plaintiff and Roy L. Featherstone for defendant.

There being no civil cases ready for trial the jurors were excused until 10 o'clock Thursday and court recessed to chambers to dispose of cases under the Youthful Offender statute.

work. The lowest bid, eliminating all eleven alternates, was that of Hewitt & Warden in the amount of $185,383. The total of all the base bids for general construction, heating, plumbing and electrical work amounts to $1,755,583. On top of this must be added 6 per cent for architects' fees amounting to $105,334.98. Thus, if we merely consider the base bids and architects' fees alone we have a total of $1,860,917.98. The authorized appropriation is only $1,850,000.

"Of course, we cannot merely consider the base bids. Many of the alternates will have to be added—so that the costs, based on the bids, will far exceed the appropriation.

"The high-handed action of the board in awarding contracts before they had the requisite appropriation is typical of the way the district affairs have been handled. The only remedy that a taxpayer has against that sort of dealing, is to bring a taxpayers' action to restrain it.

"If the board has revamped the plans and eliminated furniture and other items included in the original bids, then they should have advertised for new bids before awarding contracts. The law requires them to do so. They cannot negotiate privately with contractors to change their bids. Otherwise, there would be no point in the law's requirement of competitive bidding.

"The action of the board, however, shows not merely an indifference to the rights of taxpayers; it displays an utter contempt for those rights. On January 18 they published a legal notice of a taxpayers' meeting to be held on February 13 for the purpose of authorizing an extra $300,000 appropriation. Now, one week before the scheduled meeting, they secretly award the contracts.

"Yesterday's action, if nothing else, should persuade the voters of the district to vote "no" on February 13 on the request for the extra $300,000."

Truck Driver Is Killed in Crash Near Red Hook

Rhinebeck, Feb. 7 — A driver was killed in the head-on collision of two transport trucks on Route 9 near Red Hook early today.

State police here listed Edgar R. Butler, of Massachusetts, as the one fatally injured when the truck he drove, owned by the Rita Nihill Corp., of Fairfield, Conn., and one owned by the Middle Atlantic Transportation Co., of New York city came together at 5:30 a. m.

The other driver, P. Mitchell, whose address was not given, was taken to the Rhinebeck Hospital for treatment of cuts and bruises and police said his condition was not serious.

Both trucks caught fire immediately after the accident and the raging flames burned off wires of a telephone line disrupting service in the area. The Red Hook fire department was called to quench the blaze.

State police said it was not determined how the accident happened, but it was believed possible that one or both of the trucks might have skidded.

Jasper Martalto Dies Suddenly on Tuesday Afternoon

Jasper Martalto of 87 Wilson avenue, one of the most prominent members of the Ulster County Hotel, Restaurant and Liquor Dealers' Association, died suddenly Tuesday afternoon.

He was proprietor of Jasper's Restaurant, 8 Van Buren street.

His death was a shock to his many friends in Kingston and vicinity, although he had been under the care of a physician for a heart ailment with which he was stricken early in January.

An ardent sports enthusiast, he was especially interested in bowling and was among the leading sponsors of teams in local leagues.

Martalto was one of the committee that arranged the clambake last summer for the Hotel, Restaurant and Liquor Dealers' Association proceeds of which went to the Ulster County Tumor Clinic.

As a dog fancier he was proud of a cocker spaniel, Duchess, which he trained to collect coins and drop them in a piggy bank, which he opened at Christmas and sent the coins to the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital. Martalto and his pet were featured in a story published by The Freeman in connection with TB Seals sales.

He was a member of Kingston Lodge, 550, B.P.O. Elks, which will conduct ritualistic services at his home Friday at 8 p. m.

Surviving are his wife, Virginia Mae Martalto, nee Benson; one sister, Mrs. Rosario Ferraro and a niece, Miss Mary C. Ferraro. His parents were the late Sebastian and Carmello Orlando Martalto.

Funeral from his home, 87 Wilson avenue, Saturday at 9:15 a. m., thence to St. Mary's Church, where at 10 o'clock a solemn Mass of requiem will be offered for the repose of his soul. Burial in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Allies Smash . . .

their customary nightly withdrawal to bivouac positions.

Hill Is Stormed

An American infantry company stormed a hill three miles west of Anyang with cold steel when small arms fire and grenades failed to drive off 100 well-dug-in Reds.

The Reds crumbled. Forty fell under bayonet thrusts. Another 50 were shot in the back as they fled down the slope.

The drive straight up the center of Korea was pushed by five columns. It threw off balance the North Korean Fifth Corps which had massed along the Hongchong-Hoengsong highway for a possible renewal of the Red drive down the spiny center of South Korea.

Maj. Gen. Edward M. Almond, 10th Corps commander, ordered the five columns to sweep the ridges and clean out the Reds.

The five striking forces fanned out from Hoengsong, about 50 miles east of Seoul. Forward South Korean and American patrols ranged within five miles of Hongchong, a junction 20 miles east of 38.

One reached Pungsuwong, 10 miles northwest of Hoengsong; a second drove three miles northeast of the highway center; a third was six miles from Saemal; a fourth was 12 miles northeast of Hoengsong near Yudong; the fifth was moving up in reserve.

Minefields Sown

The Reds were sowing minefields. Engineers cleared paths through them and the tank columns killed hundreds of Reds.

Allied warplanes roared down low and artillery thundered, piling up the toll of Red casualties which has passed the 50,000 mark in the 14-day action.

The Chinese, building their new defense line just south of the Han, were rushing reinforcements across the frozen river on plank bridging. All the steel bridges spanning the river that runs through Seoul's southern outskirts were down.

The British cruiser Belfast and the American heavy cruiser St. Paul and the destroyer Hank poured shells at Reds in the Inchon-Seoul sector.

Marine Corsairs from the light carrier Bataan destroyed 10 buildings and an ammunition dump and hit seven troop concentrations in the Inchon-Seoul area.

Three Children Die

Emmitsburg, Md. Feb. 7 (AP)—Three young children died last night after a can of kerosene blew up in the kitchen of their home near here. The mother and three other children were burned and one of them was in critical condition today. Six-year-old Alice Louise Springer died at Annie Warner Hospital in Gettysburg, Pa., soon after the blast. Donald, 10, and John, 7, died at the hospital during the night. Gary Springer, 3, was in critical condition. Mrs. Charles Springer and two other children were treated and released.

Robbins Goes to Prison

Indianapolis, Feb. 7 (AP)—Kenneth L. Robbins is going to federal prison for a year and a day for writing phoney love letters that his friend thought were coming from "a nice girl in Terre Haute, Ind." "It was only make believe," the 30-year-old Frankfort, Ind., man told Federal Judge William E. Steckler yesterday. The judge found the letters to Charles Wallace, Frankfort cigar store employe, were so full of promises of marriage and appeals for money that Wallace sent $300 to the imaginary girl.

House Destroyed At Kripplebush

The two-story frame house of John Tillson at Kripplebush was destroyed by fire early today.

Fire Chief William Quick of the High Falls fire department, which responded to a call at 1:55 a. m. said the blaze was far beyond control when the firemen arrived and they were able to save only 200 pounds of beef in a deep freeze unit.

The fire started in the kitchen near a refrigerator, the chief said, and it raged quickly through the building. Its owner held no insurance, he said. Firemen remained at the scene for two hours.

The chief said he had been told that a child suffered burns in the fire, but he was unable to verify the report. The dairy farm is operated by Tillson's two sons, he said.

Quick reported "plenty of water" available near the house, but its only use was to save the deep freeze unit.

Dunham Gives His Views Opposing Onteora School

Clarence Dunham, Jr., an active participant in the civic and political affairs of the Town of Shandaken, announced today that he too joined with the group in the Town of Olive opposed to the extra $300,000 appropriation that is to be sought by the Onteora Central School District Board at a special meeting of the voters of the school district to be held in Phoenicia on the night of February 13. Dunham's announcement is as follows:

"The rising tide of opposition by residents of the Onteora School District to the requested extra appropriation of $300,000, in addition to the $1,850,000 previously voted, is completely understandable. I, too, as well as many other residents of the Town of Shandaken, am opposed to this unnecessary additional appropriation. How in God's name can the taxpayers be expected to stand such a heavy tax burden as would result to the people of the Town of Shandaken if this additional money were authorized?

"Due to the recent floods in our town, the town board just voted a $30,000 bond issue to repair bridges and highways damaged in the flood. This, of course, will result in quite an increase in our local town taxes. The last budget adopted by the county board of supervisors is, because of the same floods, substantially higher than any previous county budget so that our county tax bill is going to be higher this year than ever before. Now it is proposed that in addition to the $1,850,000 which was voted last April to build a school at Boiceville, $300,000 be authorized for that purpose. The combined tax increase which would necessarily result from all these expenditures would make the tax rate so high in the Town of Shandaken that many people could not continue to own their properties.

"A new school is, of course necessary. But the school board seems to think that there is no limit to the financial resources of the taxpayers in the district. It is about time we called a halt.

"Every voter in the Onteora School District should go to the Parish Hall at Phoenicia on the evening of February 13th and vote "no" on the proposition for an extra $300,000. If they do, we will still be able to have a good school without being extravagant."

Rail Tie-Up Eases

freight movements were paralyzed, remained serious. Only one of 24 carriers—the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy—reported a near normal number of workers, 68, on the job early today. The number of switchmen back to work on the Milwaukee, the Elgin, Joliet and Eastern and Chicago and Eastern Illinois, was far below normal, the army's railroad control office said.

The back-to-work movement appeared not developing in some parts of the west. But there were signs of the walkout ending on the Union Pacific line in San Francisco, Los Angeles and other far west cities.

Carriers Insist on Terms

The National Mediation Board met with rail union leaders in Washington yesterday and obtained written demands from the four brotherhoods involved in the negotiations with the carriers in the long-standing wage-hours dispute.

The carriers are insisting on terms of an agreement signed last Dec. 21, calling for a 25-cent hourly wage hike for yard service employes and a 10-cent raise for road service workers.

Both the unions and the carriers remained "on call" from the board today.

The contempt case continued in Chicago Federal Court where the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and its officials are on trial in connection with the "sick call" walkout of last December. They are charged with ignoring a court end-strike injunction and face a similar charge in the current walkout.

Passed by Senate

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 7 (AP)—Legislation to require county boards of supervisors to designate official newspapers annually was passed by the Senate today. Present law does not specify how often a board must designate the newspapers to carry legal matter of concurrent resolutions of the Legislature and local laws. The bill also specifies that one newspaper shall be designated for each of the two predominant parties in the county.

Sleight, Jr., former cost analyst for the Port Ewen Plant, also has been transferred to the Sunflower Ordnance Works to serve as smokeless powder superintendent, Hercules announced today. Approve Using One License Next Year

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 7 (AP)—Legislation permitting the state motor vehicle commissioner to issue one license plate next year, instead of two, was approved Tuesday by the Assembly and sent to the Senate.

Pending federal priorities are expected to curtail the amount of steel available for most non-defense items, including license plates.

Only one plate was issued for each motor vehicle in 1950, but the two-plate system was returned for 1951 registrations.

The Assembly also approved and sent to the Senate a bill to extend without fee drivers' licenses of New York state servicemen.

The bill would continue such registrations automatically until the expiration date following a 60-day period after the serviceman's release from active duty.

Woman Is Injured As Truck Upsets

Sarah Sheppard, 38, of Bridgeton, N. J., received a compound fracture of the leg and was admitted to the Kingston Hospital early this morning following an accident at Glenerie when a motor truck in which she was riding overturned, state police said.

A tractor trailer owned by the Deschler Motor Freight of Bridgewater, N. J., being operated north on Route 9-W by Warren C. Wood, 33, of Vineland, N. J., struck an icy spot on the highway about 5 a. m. and overturned. The truck blocked the highway holding up traffic until about 7 o'clock when the truck was unloaded and hauled from the road. A cargo of glass bottles was removed from the vehicle before it could be moved.

Troopers Royal and Nichodemus made an investigation and directed traffic until the roadway was cleared.

Syracuse Is Flooded

Syracuse, N. Y., Feb. 7 (AP)—Rain and melting snow flooded Syracuse streets this morning to depths ranging up to 14 inches. About a half inch of rain fell between midnight and 10 a. m. when it turned to snow. Streams six feet wide and a half foot deep roared down the middle of streets leading from Syracuse University Hill, and the water collected in downtown intersections.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Feb. 7 (AP)—Selling in the rails unsettled the result of the stock market today and pulled prices down.

Losses ran better than $1 a share. At the same time there was some independent strength pushing beyond $2 a share.

The decline followed early rising tendencies. As prices were marked down the pace of business slowed appreciably.

Steels and motors readily absorbed a fair amount of selling and gave ground grudgingly. Air lines and aircrafts were mostly higher by fractions.

Up a point or more at times were Hiram Walker, Minneapolis Moline, Philip Morris, and Nickel Plate preferred (which gained more than 2).

Five Persons Killed

New Delhi, India, Feb. 7 (AP)—The top of a 70-year-old clock tower split in half here today, fell with a crash into a teeming bazaar street, and killed four men and one woman. Eleven others were injured. The clock, which remained intact, stopped when the upper part of the tower fell—at 10:15 a. m. Authorities were unable to immediately explain the cause.

Monticello, N. Y., Feb. 7 (AP)—Two parole commissioners were injured when their automobile skidded on an icy road near Thompsonville today.

Commissioner Louis F. Costuma, of New York city, suffered head lacerations, and Commissioner Reginald B. Taylor, of Buffalo, was bruised. They were treated at Hamilton Avenue Hospital, Monticello.

John C. Karl, the driver, was bruised slightly. State police quoted him as saying the car skidded into a guard rail, and then veered into a second guard rail.

The commissioners were en route to a hearing at Woodbourne Correctional Institution, near here.

3 Cars Damaged In Port Ewen Crash

Three cars were involved in an accident at Port Ewen at 9 o'clock this morning, two of the cars being parked and unoccupied at the time, according to the sheriff's department. No one was injured.

Chester Davis, 24, of Albany avenue extension, Kingston, was driving on Route 9W when his car struck an icy spot on the pavement near the junction of Salem street. His car skidded and struck the parked car of Benjamin Coniglio, Port Ewen. The Coniglio car then struck the parked car of Postmaster Robert J. Henry, and the Henry car was driven ahead and struck a telephone pole. The Davis car was damaged about the front end and the other two cars were damaged both front and rear. The accident was reported to the sheriff's office.

work. The lowest bid, eliminating all eleven alternates, was that of Hewitt & Warden in the amount of $185,383. The total of all the base bids for general construction, heating, plumbing and electrical work amounts to $1,755,583. On top of this must be added 6 per cent for architects' fees amounting to $105,334.98. Thus, if we merely consider the base bids and architects' fees alone we have a total of $1,860,917.98. The authorized appropriation is only $1,850,000.

"Of course, we cannot merely consider the base bids. Many of the alternates will have to be added—so that the costs, based on the bids, will far exceed the appropriation.

"The high-handed action of the board in awarding contracts before they had the requisite appropriation is typical of the way the district affairs have been handled. The only remedy that a taxpayer has against that sort of dealing, is to bring a taxpayers' action to restrain it.

"If the board has revamped the plans and eliminated furniture and other items included in the original bids, then they should have advertised for new bids before awarding contracts. The law requires them to do so. They cannot negotiate privately with contractors to change their bids. Otherwise, there would be no point in the law's requirement of competitive bidding.

"The action of the board, however, shows not merely an indifference to the rights of taxpayers: it displays an utter contempt for those rights. On January 18 they published a legal notice of a taxpayers' meeting to be held on February 13 for the purpose of authorizing an extra $300,000 appropriation. Now, one week before the scheduled meeting, they secretly award the contracts.

"Yesterday's action, if nothing else, should persuade the voters of the district to vote "no" on February 13 on the request for the extra $300,000."

Truck Driver Is Killed in Crash Near Red Hook

Rhinebeck, Feb. 7—A driver was killed in the head-on collision of two transport trucks on Route 9 near Red Hook early today.

State police here listed Edgar R. Butler, of Massachusetts, as the one fatally injured when the truck he drove, owned by the Rita Nihill Corp., of Fairfield, Conn., and one owned by the Middle Atlantic Transportation Co., of New York city came together at 5:30 a. m.

The other driver, P. Mitchell, whose address was not given, was taken to the Rhinebeck Hospital for treatment of cuts and bruises and police said his condition was not serious.

Both trucks caught fire immediately after the accident and the raging flames burned off wires of a telephone line disrupting service in the area. The Red Hook fire department was called to quench the blaze.

State police said it was not determined how the accident happened, but it was believed possible that one or both of the trucks might have skidded.

Jasper Martalto Dies Suddenly on Tuesday Afternoon

Jasper Martalto of 87 Wilson avenue, one of the most prominent members of the Ulster County Hotel, Restaurant and Liquor Dealers' Association, died suddenly Tuesday afternoon.

He was proprietor of Jasper's Restaurant, 8 Van Buren street.

His death was a shock to his many friends in Kingston and vicinity, although he had been under the care of a physician for a heart ailment with which he was stricken early in January.

An ardent sports enthusiast, he was especially interested in bowling and was among the leading sponsors of teams in local leagues.

Martalto was one of the committee that arranged the clambake last summer for the Hotel, Restaurant and Liquor Dealers' Association proceeds of which went to the Ulster County Tumor Clinic.

As a dog fancier he was proud of a cocker spaniel, Duchess, which he trained to collect coins and drop them in a piggy bank, which he opened at Christmas and sent the coins to the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital. Martalto and his pet were featured in a story published by The Freeman in connection with TB Seals sales.

He was a member of Kingston Lodge, 550, B.P.O. Elks, which will conduct ritualistic services at his home Friday at 8 p. m.

Surviving are his wife, Virginia Mae Martalto, nee Benson; one sister, Mrs. Rosario Ferraro and a niece, Miss Mary C. Ferraro. His parents were the late Sebastian and Carmello Orlando Martalto.

Funeral from his home, 87 Wilson avenue, Saturday at 9:15 a. m., thence to St. Mary's Church, where at 10 o'clock a solemn Mass of requiem will be offered for the repose of his soul. Burial in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Allies Smash . . .

their customary nightly withdrawal to bivouac positions.

Hill Is Stormed

An American infantry company stormed a hill three miles west of Anyang with cold steel when small arms fire and grenades failed to drive off 100 well-dug-in Reds.

The Reds crumbled. Forty fell under bayonet thrusts. Another 50 were shot in the back as they fled down the slope.

The drive straight up the center of Korea was pushed by five columns. It threw off balance the North Korean Fifth Corps which had massed along the Hongchong-Hoengsong highway for a possible renewal of the Red drive down the spiny center of South Korea.

Maj. Gen. Edward M. Almond, 10th Corps commander, ordered the five columns to sweep the ridges and clean out the Reds.

The five striking forces fanned out from Hoengsong, about 50 miles east of Seoul. Forward South Korean and American patrols ranged within five miles of Hongchong, a junction 20 miles east of 38.

One reached Pungsuwong, 10 miles northwest of Hoengsong; a second drove three miles northeast of the highway center; a third was six miles from Saemal; a fourth was 12 miles northeast of Hoengsong near Yudong; the fifth was moving up in reserve.

Minefields Sown

The Reds were sowing minefields. Engineers cleared paths through them and the tank columns killed hundreds of Reds.

Allied warplanes roared down low and artillery thundered, piling up the toll of Red casualties which has passed the 50,000 mark in the 14-day action.

The Chinese, building their new defense line just south of the Han, were rushing reinforcements across the frozen river on plank bridging. All the steel bridges spanning the river that runs through Seoul's southern outskirts were down.

The British cruiser Belfast and the American heavy cruiser St. Paul and the destroyer Hank poured shells at Reds in the Inchon-Seoul sector.

Marine Corsairs from the light carrier Bataan destroyed 10 buildings and an ammunition dump and hit seven troop concentrations in the Inchon-Seoul area.

Three Children Die

Emmitsburg, Md. Feb. 7 (AP)—Three young children died last night after a can of kerosene blew up in the kitchen of their home near here. The mother and three other children were burned and one of them was in critical condition today. Six-year-old Alice Louise Springer died at Annie Warner Hospital in Gettysburg, Pa., soon after the blast. Donald, 10, and John, 7, died at the hospital during the night. Gary Springer, 3, was in critical condition. Mrs. Charles Springer and two other children were treated and released.

Robbins Goes to Prison

Indianapolis, Feb. 7 (AP)—Kenneth L. Robbins is going to federal prison for a year and a day for writing phoney love letters that his friend thought were coming from "a nice girl in Terre Haute, Ind." "It was only make believe," the 30-year-old Frankfort, Ind., man told Federal Judge William E. Steckler yesterday. The judge found the letters to Charles Wallace, Frankfort cigar store employe, were so full of promises of marriage and appeals for money that Wallace sent $300 to the imaginary girl.

House Destroyed At Kripplebush

The two-story frame house of John Tillson at Kripplebush was destroyed by fire early today.

Fire Chief William Quick of the High Falls fire department, which responded to a call at 1:55 a. m. said the blaze was far beyond control when the firemen arrived and they were able to save only 200 pounds of beef in a deep freeze unit.

The fire started in the kitchen near a refrigerator, the chief said, and it raged quickly through the building. Its owner held no insurance, he said. Firemen remained at the scene for two hours.

The chief said he had been told that a child suffered burns in the fire, but he was unable to verify the report. The dairy farm is operated by Tillson's two sons, he said.

Quick reported "plenty of water" available near the house, but its only use was to save the deep freeze unit.

Dunham Gives His Views Opposing Onteora School

Clarence Dunham, Jr., an active participant in the civic and political affairs of the Town of Shandaken, announced today that he too joined with the group in the Town of Olive opposed to the extra $300,000 appropriation that is to be sought by the Onteora Central School District Board at a special meeting of the voters of the school district to be held in Phoenicia on the night of February 13. Dunham's announcement is as follows:

"The rising tide of opposition by residents of the Onteora School District to the requested extra appropriation of $300,000, in addition to the $1,850,000 previously voted, is completely understandable. I, too, as well as many other residents of the Town of Shandaken, am opposed to this unnecessary additional appropriation. How in God's name can the taxpayers be expected to stand such a heavy tax burden as would result to the people of the Town of Shandaken if this additional money were authorized?

"Due to the recent floods in our town, the town board just voted a $30,000 bond issue to repair bridges and highways damaged in the flood. This, of course, will result in quite an increase in our local town taxes. The last budget adopted by the county board of supervisors is, because of the same floods, substantially higher than any previous county budget so that our county tax bill is going to be higher this year than ever before. Now it is proposed that in addition to the $1,850,000 which was voted last April to build a school at Boiceville, $300,000 be authorized for that purpose. The combined tax increase which would necessarily result from all these expenditures would make the tax rate so high in the Town of Shandaken that many people could not continue to own their properties.

"A new school is, of course necessary. But the school board seems to think that there is no limit to the financial resources of the taxpayers in the district. It is about time we called a halt.

"Every voter in the Onteora School District should go to the Parish Hall at Phoenicia on the evening of February 13th and vote "no" on the proposition for an extra $300,000. If they do, we will still be able to have a good school without being extravagant."

Rail Tie-Up Eases

freight movements were paralyzed, remained serious. Only one of 24 carriers—the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy—reported a near normal number of workers, 68, on the job early today. The number of switchmen back to work on the Milwaukee, the Elgin, Joliet and Eastern and Chicago and Eastern Illinois, was far below normal, the army's railroad control office said.

The back-to-work movement appeared not developing in some parts of the west. But there were signs of the walkout ending on the Union Pacific line in San Francisco, Los Angeles and other far west cities.

Carriers Insist on Terms

The National Mediation Board met with rail union leaders in Washington yesterday and obtained written demands from the four brotherhoods involved in the negotiations with the carriers in the long-standing wage-hours dispute.

The carriers are insisting on terms of an agreement signed last Dec. 21, calling for a 25-cent hourly wage hike for yard service employes and a 10-cent raise for road service workers.

Both the unions and the carriers remained "on call" from the board today.

The contempt case continued in Chicago Federal Court where the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and its officials are on trial in connection with the "sick call" walkout of last December. They are charged with ignoring a court end-strike injunction and face a similar charge in the current walkout.

Passed by Senate

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 7 (AP)—Legislation to require county boards of supervisors to designate official newspapers annually was passed by the Senate today. Present law does not specify how often a board must designate the newspapers to carry legal matter of concurrent resolutions of the Legislature and local laws. The bill also specifies that one newspaper shall be designated for each of the two predominant parties in the county.

2 Local Hercules Employes Are Now At Kansas Plant

Richard C. Tucker, formerly assistant works manager of the Port Ewen, plant of Hercules Powder Company, has been named assistant manager of Sunflower Ordnance Works in Lawrence, Kansas, Bevier H. Sleight, Jr., former cost analyst for the Port Ewen Plant, also has been transferred to the Sunflower Ordnance Works to serve as smokeless powder superintendent, Hercules announced today. Operated by Hercules for the government during World War 2, the ordnance plant is being re-activated as part of the country's mobilization program. Hercules signed a contract this week with the United States Ornance Department to produce smokeless powder at the Kansas plant.

Edward K. Lefren is the new assistant works manager at Port Ewen. He has been with the plant engineering department since 1941. A graduate of Stevens Institute of Technology, Lefren joined Hercules in 1940 as a chemist at the Port Ewen plant.

Tucker, a graduate of the chemical engineering school of North Carolina State College, became associated with Hurcules Powder Company in 1933 as a chemist at the company's experiment station in Washington, Del. He served at the Port Ewen plant as chemist, and then assistant chief supervisor, from 1933 to 1937, transferring in 1937 to the company plant at Kenvil, N. J., as smokeless powder supervisor. The following year he returned to Wilmington to engage in work with the patent division. He was smokeless powder production supervisor at Radford Ordnance Works in Virginia during 1942; and transferred in 1943 to Sunflower Ordnance Works as assistant smokeless superintendent. During the next five years he was successively; smokeless superintendent, operating manager, and assistant manager of Sunflower Ordnance Works. He became assistant works manager of the Port Ewen plant in 1948.

Approve Using One License Next Year

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 7 (AP)—Legislation permitting the state motor vehicle commissioner to issue one license plate next year, instead of two, was approved Tuesday by the Assembly and sent to the Senate.

Pending federal priorities are expected to curtail the amount of steel available for most non-defense items, including license plates.

Only one plate was issued for each motor vehicle in 1950, but the two-plate system was returned for 1951 registrations.

The Assembly also approved and sent to the Senate a bill to extend without fee drivers' licenses of New York state servicemen.

The bill would continue such registrations automatically until the expiration date following a 60-day period after the serviceman's release from active duty.

Woman Is Injured As Truck Upsets

Sarah Sheppard, 38, of Bridgeton, N. J., received a compound fracture of the leg and was admitted to the Kingston Hospital early this morning following an accident at Glenerie when a motor truck in which she was riding overturned, state police said.

A tractor trailer owned by the Deschler Motor Freight of Bridgewater, N. J., being operated north on Route 9-W by Warren C. Wood, 33, of Vineland, N. J., struck an icy spot on the highway about 5 a. m. and overturned. The truck blocked the highway holding up traffic until about 7 o'clock when the truck was unloaded and hauled from the road. A cargo of glass bottles was removed from the vehicle before it could be moved.

Troopers Royal and Nichodemus made an investigation and directed traffic until the roadway was cleared.

Washington, Feb. 7 (AP)—Announced U. S. combat casualties reached 47,388 today, an increase of 574 in a week. Today's total, based on notifications of families through Friday, February 2, included 7,014 killed in action, 30,941 wounded and 9,433 missing in action. The wounded total includes 811 who died of their wounds and 80 of those reported missing in action are now known dead, making total combat deaths 7,905.

Syracuse Is Flooded

Syracuse, N. Y., Feb. 7 (AP)—Rain and melting snow flooded Syracuse streets this morning to depths ranging up to 14 inches. About a half inch of rain fell between midnight and 10 a. m. when it turned to snow. Streams six feet wide and a half foot deep roared down the middle of streets leading from Syracuse University Hill, and the water collected in downtown intersections.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Feb. 7 (AP)—Selling in the rails unsettled the result of the stock market today and pulled prices down.

Losses ran better than $1 a share. At the same time there was some independent strength pushing beyond $2 a share.

The decline followed early rising tendencies. As prices were marked down the pace of business slowed appreciably.

Steels and motors readily absorbed a fair amount of selling and gave ground grudgingly. Air lines and aircrafts were mostly higher by fractions.

Up a point or more at times were Hiram Walker, Minneapolis Moline, Philip Morris, and Nickel Plate preferred (which gained more than 2).

Five Persons Killed

New Delhi, India, Feb. 7 (AP)—The top of a 70-year-old clock tower split in half here today, fell with a crash into a teeming bazaar street, and killed four men and one woman. Eleven others were injured. The clock, which remained intact, stopped when the upper part of the tower fell—at 10:15 a. m. Authorities were unable to immediately explain the cause.

Firemen Called

Firemen were called at 6:40 p. m. Tuesday to the home of Charles David, 165 Abeel street, where an oil stove was reported out of adjustment. There was no damage reported.

Two Parole Board Officials Injured

Monticello, N. Y., Feb. 7 (AP)—Two parole commissioners were injured when their automobile skidded on an icy road near Thompsonville today.

Commissioner Louis F. Costuma, of New York city, suffered head lacerations, and Commissioner Reginald B. Taylor, of Buffalo, was bruised. They were treated at Hamilton Avenue Hospital, Monticello.

John C. Karl, the driver, was bruised slightly. State police quoted him as saying the car skidded into a guard rail, and then veered into a second guard rail.

The commissioners were en route to a hearing at Woodbourne Correctional Institution, near here.

3 Cars Damaged In Port Ewen Crash

Three cars were involved in an accident at Port Ewen at 9 o'clock this morning, two of the cars being parked and unoccupied at the time, according to the sheriff's department. No one was injured.

Chester Davis, 24, of Albany avenue extension, Kingston, was driving on Route 9W when his car struck an icy spot on the pavement near the junction of Salem street. His car skidded and struck the parked car of Benjamin Coniglio, Port Ewen. The Coniglio car then struck the parked car of Postmaster Robert J. Henry, and the Henry car was driven ahead and struck a telephone pole. The Davis car was damaged about the front end and the other two cars were damaged both front and rear. The accident was reported to the sheriff's office.

It is alleged he entered a store in Kingston and also threatened a cab driver with a gun. His case was set down for February 19 at 10 o'clock.

Wale Is Arraigned

Thomas Wale, 17, Wawarsing, was arraigned under two bills charging burglary, third degree, and unlawful entry, one on May 13 and one on June 15, last. The grand jury recommended he be tried as a youthful offender and Howard C. St. John was assigned as counsel. He waived his right to a jury trial and agreed to be treated as a youthful offender. A plea of innocent to being a youthful offender was accepted and the original indictment was sealed.

One civil case, No. 64, Joseph J. Wolfeil against John Glowinski, negligence, was announced settled. William A. Kaercher for plaintiff and Roy L. Featherstone for defendant.

There being no civil cases ready for trial the jurors were excused until 10 o'clock Thursday and court recessed to chambers to dispose of cases under the Youthful Offender statute.

work. The lowest bid, eliminating all eleven alternates, was that of Hewitt & Warden in the amount of $185,383. The total of all the base bids for general construction, heating, plumbing and electrical work amounts to $1,755,583. On top of this must be added 6 per cent for architects' fees amounting to $105,334.98. Thus, if we merely consider the base bids and architects' fees alone we have a total of $1,860,917.98. The authorized appropriation is only $1,850,000.

"Of course, we cannot merely consider the base bids. Many of the alternates will have to be added—so that the costs, based on the bids, will far exceed the appropriation.

"The high-handed action of the board in awarding contracts before they had the requisite appropriation is typical of the way the district affairs have been handled. The only remedy that a taxpayer has against that sort of dealing, is to bring a taxpayers' action to restrain it.

"If the board has revamped the plans and eliminated furniture and other items included in the original bids, then they should have advertised for new bids before awarding contracts. The law requires them to do so. They cannot negotiate privately with contractors to change their bids. Otherwise, there would be no point in the law's requirement of competitive bidding.

"The action of the board, however, shows not merely an indifference to the rights of taxpayers; it displays an utter contempt for those rights. On January 18 they published a legal notice of a taxpayers' meeting to be held on February 13 for the purpose of authorizing an extra $300,000 appropriation. Now, one week before the scheduled meeting, they secretly award the contracts.

"Yesterday's action, if nothing else, should persuade the voters of the district to vote "no" on February 13 on the request for the extra $300,000."

Ash Wednesday Observed

Holy Week begins with Palm Sunday on March 18, commemorating Christ's triumphal entry into Jerusalem, passes through the crucifixion on Good Friday, and reaches the joyful climax of his resurrection on Easter, March 25. Five masses were offered at St. Patrick's Cathedral, and ashes were distributed after each Mass and throughout the day. Services of holy communion were celebrated at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine. Neighborhood union services were scheduled for tonight in many charges of the metropolitan area.

Fete Brings 31 Deaths

Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, Feb. 7 (AP)—This capital's three days of carnival merrymaking in advance of the Lenten season has resulted in the deaths of 31 persons and injury to more than 4,500, a Meridional news agency survey reported today. The agency said most of the deaths were from traffic mishaps.

Britons Remember Meat as Ham Gets In From Kingston

"We have almost forgotten what meat tastes like," writes a Briton in appreciation for a ham sent from Kinkston.

And, she added, "our ration is only five ounces a week for each person, cheese two ounces and one egg each."

The letter was written by Mrs. J. B. Boothroyd of Sussex to John L. MacKinnon of 181 North Manor avenue, thanking him for one of Forst's Formost.

In the same letter, she chided the local resident for sending a postcard depicting one of the meat packing concern's smoked turkey's. "We just can't bear it," she wrote.

The letter reflects the hardships in England—a shortage of coal, an outbreak of smallpox and "the terrible threat of atomic war," that makes it difficult to find an incentive for people to carry on.

A Great Thrill

Excerpts from the letter expressing the great joy over receiving the ham and giving first hand information on living conditions follow:

"I am thrilled beyond words to tell you that your magnificent ham arrived this morning. It has been something over six weeks on its journey, so it's looking—well, tired, shall we say? So we shall tonight set about the delectable task of putting it out of its misery! When we received Forst's postcard telling us it was coming, the news spread round the village like wildfire that the Boothroyds were expecting a ham—and ever since we've been inundated with enquiries from our ravenous friends saying, 'Has the ham come yet?' and we've been saying 'No, not yet.' But of course, today the word went round that it had come, so this week-end we are having open house for everyone to come in and have some.

Almost Forget Taste

"We have almost forgotten what meat tastes like, as our ration is now only five ounces a week for each person, cheese two ounces and one egg each. So we live mostly on bread, vegetables and fish (when we can afford it). So you can perhaps imagine the terrible anxiety we have suffered during the past six weeks in case someone had stolen our precious ham in transit! Also, the picture on Forst's postcard nearly drove us crazy. It was a most marvelous smoked turkey with a slice of the breast removed just showing the succulent white flesh beneath. Please tell them not to send those postcards to England—we just can't bear it! Toby wanted to eat the postcard too.

"We've had a rotten winter here one way or another—it's very very cold and as usual we have a fuel crisis on. Coal, of course, is rationed when we can get it. And here, or rather, at Brighton, 11 miles south, we are in the middle of a very nasty outbreak of smallpox, so people have been rushing to the already overworked doctors, by the thousands, for vaccination. Our poor doctors certainly do earn their keep what with one thing or another.

Difficult to Keep Going

"The terrible threat of atomic war looms so largely in everyone's mind that it is difficult sometimes to find an incentive to keep going on. I think we could all take what's coming if we had to once more, but it's the thought of seeing terror in a child's eyes that makes me such a coward."

Come and Get It

Singapore (AP) — More than 200 bars of gold valued at $40,000 are waiting to be claimed at police headquarters here. Police said claimants must establish their claims within six months or the gold would be sold and the proceeds passed on to the Crown. The gold, believed to have been confiscated during smuggling attempts, was handed to police by a court order.

Rice Purchases Arranged

Bangkok (AP)—The Philippines and India have both completed arrangements for purchase of their rice requirements in 1951. The Thai Cabinet Council has approved a quota of 300,000 tons of rice for India. The Philippines have made arrangements for the import of 150,000 tons of Thailand rice, four times the quantity imported in 1950. A Philippines government representative said the rice will be paid for in dollars, the total cargo costing $30,000,000.

Britons Remember Meat as Ham Gets In From Kingston

"We have almost forgotten what meat tastes like," writes a Briton in appreciation for a ham sent from Kinkston.

And, she added, "our ration is only five ounces a week for each person, cheese two ounces and one egg each."

The letter was written by Mrs. J. B. Boothroyd of Sussex to John L. MacKinnon of 181 North Manor avenue, thanking him for one of Forst's Formost.

In the same letter, she chided the local resident for sending a postcard depicting one of the meat packing concern's smoked turkey's. "We just can't bear it," she wrote.

The letter reflects the hardships in England—a shortage of coal, an outbreak of smallpox and "the terrible threat of atomic war," that makes it difficult to find an incentive for people to carry on.

A Great Thrill

Excerpts from the letter expressing the great joy over receiving the ham and giving first hand information on living conditions follow:

"I am thrilled beyond words to tell you that your magnificent ham arrived this morning. It has been something over six weeks on its journey, so it's looking—well, tired, shall we say? So we shall tonight set about the delectable task of putting it out of its misery! When we received Forst's postcard telling us it was coming, the news spread round the village like wildfire that the Boothroyds were expecting a ham—and ever since we've been inundated with enquiries from our ravenous friends saying, 'Has the ham come yet?' and we've been saying 'No, not yet.' But of course, today the word went round that it had come, so this week-end we are having open house for everyone to come in and have some.

Almost Forget Taste

"We have almost forgotten what meat tastes like, as our ration is now only five ounces a week for each person, cheese two ounces and one egg each. So we live mostly on bread, vegetables and fish (when we can afford it). So you can perhaps imagine the terrible anxiety we have suffered during the past six weeks in case someone had stolen our precious ham in transit! Also, the picture on Forst's postcard nearly drove us crazy. It was a most marvelous smoked turkey with a slice of the breast removed just showing the succulent white flesh beneath. Please tell them not to send those postcards to England—we just can't bear it! Toby wanted to eat the postcard too.

"We've had a rotten winter here one way or another—it's very very cold and as usual we have a fuel crisis on. Coal, of course, is rationed when we can get it. And here, or rather, at Brighton, 11 miles south, we are in the middle of a very nasty outbreak of smallpox, so people have been rushing to the already overworked doctors, by the thousands, for vaccination. Our poor doctors certainly do earn their keep what with one thing or another.

Difficult to Keep Going

"The terrible threat of atomic war looms so largely in everyone's mind that it is difficult sometimes to find an incentive to keep going on. I think we could all take what's coming if we had to once more, but it's the thought of seeing terror in a child's eyes that makes me such a coward."

Come and Get It

Singapore (AP) — More than 200 bars of gold valued at $40,000 are waiting to be claimed at police headquarters here. Police said claimants must establish their claims within six months or the gold would be sold and the proceeds passed on to the Crown. The gold, believed to have been confiscated during smuggling attempts, was handed to police by a court order.

Rice Purchases Arranged

Bangkok (AP)—The Philippines and India have both completed arrangements for purchase of their rice requirements in 1951. The Thai Cabinet Council has approved a quota of 300,000 tons of rice for India. The Philippines have made arrangements for the import of 150,000 tons of Thailand rice, four times the quantity imported in 1950. A Philippines government representative said the rice will be paid for in dollars, the total cargo costing $30,000,000.

RECEIVING GUESTS IN RESTAURANT

A hostess writes: "I'm rather confused about receiving my guests in a restaurant. Lately you said that a hostess received outside the door to the dining room and after all her guests have arrived they all go to the table together. It seems unfair to me to expect early comers to stand around waiting for all the guests as well as obstructing the passageway into the dining room. Couldn't they be sent in to the table as they arrive, the hostess alone waiting outside?"

To send the guests into the dining room a few at a time would be very strange. Correctly they have to wait until all have arrived. If, however, a single guest is very late, it is quite proper that the hostess lead the way to the table and let the late one join them when she comes!

Announcing an Engagement

Dear Mrs. Post: Must an announcement be made of an engagement when the man gives the girl an engagement ring? I'd like to wear my ring but my parents don't want to announce the engagement until nearer the time of our wedding.

Answer: Although there is no rule about when you may or may not wear your ring, it is hard to imagine that you can wear it without having it noticed by most of your friends, which means that your secret will be out.

Brothers Give Wedding

Dear Mrs. Post: I've two brothers but no parents. One brother is giving me away at my wedding but both are paying for everything. How should the invitations be worded?

Answer: The only possible wording would be:

The Messrs. John and Thomas Green request the honour of your presence at the marriage of their sister, Alice Mary, to Mr. John Black, etc.

Using Nails to Stop Red Supply Trucks

U. S. Fifth Air Force Headquarters, Korea, Feb. 7 (AP)—The Fifth Air Force unveiled "Operations Tack" today. Pretty sharp idea, too.

Planes range along the roads behind Communist lines and drop nails. Millions of nails—stubby, flat-headed, one and one-half inches long. The kind you use to lay asphalt roofing.

The purpose is to flatten Communist tires, especially the tires of supply trucks that move in the night. Says Col. Stanton P. Smith, director of Fifth Air Force combat operations:

"If we can stop those trucks moving at night, we can stop the war. That sounds like a sweeping statement but it's true.

"When they move during the day our fighters can strafe them to a standstill. With 'Operation Tack' we hope to stop them at night and disrupt their supply lines."

Destroy 65 Trucks

The other night 3,776,000 roofing nails were dropped on roads used by the Chinese Reds. Next day the air force claimed 65 trucks destroyed and 19 damaged.

That's a bigger bag than usual. The nails apparently stopped some trucks until strafing fighters got a daylight crack at them.

Cargo planes fly low over enemy supply roads and drop the nails.

"It's simple but effective," says Smith. "The trucks run over the nails and the nails puncture their tires. That halts the convoy. The only way they can keep going is to get out and pick up all those nails.

"And if they get nails in their feet that's all right too.

"We've got more stinkeroo ideas on how to use this idea," he grinned.

Although sharp as a tack, the idea is not new. It was used in World War 2. Tetrahedrons (jack-shaped objects with sharp prongs) were dropped on Nazi airdromes in Germany to puncture the tires of warplanes.

No Wisdom in Letting U. S. Slacken Support

New York, Feb. 7 (AP)—Sen. John J. Sparkman (D-Al.) said last night that United States withdrawal from "collective security" would lead to "almost certain destruction of * * * our way of life."

Sparkman, a delegate to the United Nations, added that "isolationism and defeatism have again been thwarted in their fight to determine the nation's policies."

The Senator was the principal speaker at a $100-a-plate New York State Democratic Committee dinner to honor Senator Herbert H. Lehman of New York and to raise party funds.

"Valuable time has been lost" in the debate over American aid to Europe, Sparkman said. But he asserted that the discussion was essential for national unity on "common goals."

Sparkman said "there is neither wisdom nor justice nor safety" in permitting America to slacken its support of the free world.

The best course, he said, "is a policy of mutual defense, of collective security to the greatest degree possible."

"It is a policy of economic, political and military participation in the defense of Europe," Sparkman said. "It is a policy of unwavering faith in the United Nations, and persistent, and patient efforts to bring its security functions to maturity."

Six More Lives Claimed

Rome, Feb. 7 (AP)—A new wave of floods and avalanches has taken six lives and caused widespread damage in northern Italy. Railway lines and highways were cut in several places by overflowing rivers and avalanches. Two workers died in the collapse of a bridge near Prato, Tuscany. Another drowned in a tributary of the Arno. An avalanche fell on a village near Vicenza, killing three persons and injured several others trapped in a house.

Cub Pack 15 Gets Charter

Investiture Held Tuesday Night at Comforter Church

An investiture service for Pack 15 Club Scouts of America, consisting of two dens, was held Tuesday night at the Comforter Hall, Wynkoop Place. George B. Matthews, president of the Rip Van Winkle Council Boy Scouts of America, presented the charter to the recently organized Cub Scout Pack.

The two dens of Pack 15, with Mrs. David Gibbs and Mrs. Richard Kalish as den mothers, received their patches, pins, and certificates, in addition to the charter. Clarence Dumm, past president of the Rip Van Winkle Council, and Frank Bourke, district commissioner of the Boy Scouts, spoke briefly concerning scouting matters.

Cub Master for Pack 15 is Arthur Souers, with a committee from the Reformed Church of The Comforter consisting of Howard DeWitt, Donald Wood, Howard Nickerson, and the Rev. Raymond Pontier, in charge of activities.

Two skits, "Daniel Boone," and "John Smith and Pocohontas," were presented by the two dens, and games, a display of handiwork, and refreshments completed the evening's activities.

The new Pack 15 will participate in the Boy Scout rally scheduled for Saturday, February 10, at the municipal auditorium, and also in the parade which will begin at Academy Green at 6:45 p. m. Saturday and proceed to the auditorium. The skits, handiwork, and contests featured in Tuesday nights event will be presented at the Saturday rally.

Boat Builders Choose Hiltebrant as Director

At the recent meeting to elect officers and other officials of the Atlantic Coast Boat Builders and Repairers Association, Major O. R. Hiltebrant of the C. Hiltebrant Dry Dock Company, this city, was chosen as a director.

The annual session was held in New York city and during it President William Edgar John of Milton Point, Rye, said that with the present world situation, the organization and its members will be an important factor in the construction of vessels for the armed forces as it was in World War 2.

82 Persons Are Dead in Wreck . . .

limit was in effect on the new track, opened to traffic less than five hours before "The Broker" cracked up at 5:43 p. m. (E.S.T.).

The new track was swung about 50 feet from the old one to clear the way for the Jersey Turnpike, big cross-state highway now under construction.

The Pennsyvania said six trains passed over the new trestle safely before "The Broker."

The railroad said the trestle itself was not a factor in the accident—despite the engineer's statement.

Thought Trestle Buckled

Mayor August Grenier of Woodbridge said he though the trestle buckled beneath the train's weight. But the trestle did not collapse.

Attorney General Theodore Parsons asked for a signed statement from one passenger, Robert Thaler of Fair Haven. Thaler said he saw a burning journal box on the fourth car of the train before it left Newark—its last stop before the wreck.

The train pulled out of Jersey City at 5:10 p. m. (EST). Commuters from New York board it there after coming under the Hudson river by tube train.

It was more crowded than usual because another commuter line, the Jersey Central, was knocked out by the switchmen's "sick call" strike. Many Central commuters elbowed in with the estimated 900 passengers who daily ride "The Broker."

The big steam engine left the tracks and plunged in an arc to the pavement of a street below, in this city of 27,000 persons 30 miles south of New York.

Jumble of Steel

Behind it, the first five cars of the train went this way and that in a jumble of jagged steel. Some of them turned over in the thick mud of the embankment. Others stayed upright, grotesquely twisted across the rails or along the embankment.

Passengers were tossed about inside the coaches like dice in a cup. Many were mangled to bits under the grinding weight of sharp, broken metal.

Others survived or died in tomblike crevasses of steel, as some of the cars were bent into a U-shape by the terrible force of the crash. It took about seven hours—until after midnight—to dig and saw the last one clear.

The moans of trapped men and women rose on the night air. One man pinned under a heavy coach wheel begged feebly:

"Help, help me."

Garage Becomes Morgue

A morgue was set up in a garage. Blood-spattered rescue workers tenderly placed the dead in long rows, then pulled brown sheets of paper over their still forms. The feet of the dead sprawled limp and lifeless, uncovered by the paper shrouds.

Acetylene torches sputtered beneath the eerie rays of big spotlights, the torches biting around trapped passengers.

Small ladders were laid against the slime of the embankment. And other big fire department ladders also were moved up to get at the coaches. The dead and injured, pulled free, were placed on stretchers and handed down the ladders.

There was panic in some of the coaches, calm heroism in others.

A vast crowd of thousands quickly pressed on the scene, getting in the way of rescue workers. Finally, National Guardsmen joined state police to push the crowd back from streets beneath the trestle.

Ashen-pale relatives of passengers kept a pitiful, grim vigil around buildings used as morgues. It took hours to identify some of the badly torn bodies.

The last big rail disaster in the metropolitan New York area occurred Thanksgiving Eve at Kew Gardens, N. Y., when 79 persons died in a Long Island railroad train wreck. Thirty-two Long Island passengers were killed at Rockville Centre last Feb. 17.

The Pennsylvania once owned and operated the Long Island. However, the Long Island went into bankruptcy before the wrecks and since has been operated under the supervision of a New York Federal Court.

Several Accidents

Deputy Sheriff Carl Cline was assigned to investigate an accident at Glenford this morning where it was reported a car was in a ditch. On arrival the officer found the car had been removed and it was reported there had been no serious injuries. Several minor accidents were reported early today from skidding on icy pavements. Early this morning before the rain started the highways were very icy in spots. Later in the day state police reported roads wet but icy only in spots.

Rescue Mission

Rescue workers extricate injured woman from the twisted wreckage of a commuter packed Pennsylvania Railroad train that left the tracks and plunged down a 26 feet embankment into the street at Woodbridge, New Jersey. First reports indicate that the death toll may run higher than 80. The train which had left Pennsylvania Station in New York just a short while before, was packed with extra passengers who normally commuted on the strikebound New Jersey Central. (NEA Telephoto).

Man Held in Death Of Stepdaughter

New York, Feb. 7 (AP)—A Negro apartment building superintendent was arrested on a homicide charge today after authorities said he admitted slaying his 11-year-old stepdaughter and cramming her body into a furnace.

The child, Fannie Shirley Carroll, had been the object of an intensive hunt since her mother reported her missing Saturday.

Chief Assistant District Attorney Edward F. Breslin said the stepfather, James Goode, 35, the Bronx, escaped from a Raleigh, N. C., road gang three years ago. He said Goode had served 13 years of a 30-year second degree murder sentence.

Breslin said Goode told this story:

He attempted to assault the child last Saturday morning in the cellar of the apartment building, but she fought and screamed. To stifle her screams, he twisted his stepdaughter's neck until she lay limp on the floor.

Hid Body Temporarily

Temporarily he hid the body under a pile of coal. About an hour later he returned to the coal pile, unearthed the body and "I threw her into the furnace, I think head first."

More than a score of detectives pressed a round-the-clock search for the child since the mother, a domestic, reported her daughter missing.

The hunt was fruitless. But early today, Breslin said, the stepfather broke under questioning and admitted he killed the child and cremated the body.

Fannie Shirley was the only child of Mrs. Goode, a widow when she married Goode. The Goodes moved to the 46-family apartment building about two weeks ago.

Police began sifting unemptied ash barrels in the basement for bones and possible unburned remnants of the girl's clothing.

Using Nails to Stop Red Supply Trucks

U. S. Fifth Air Force Headquarters, Korea, Feb. 7 (AP)—The Fifth Air Force unveiled "Operations Tack" today. Pretty sharp idea, too.

Planes range along the roads behind Communist lines and drop nails. Millions of nails—stubby, flat-headed, one and one-half inches long. The kind you use to lay asphalt roofing.

The purpose is to flatten Communist tires, especially the tires of supply trucks that move in the night. Says Col. Stanton P. Smith, director of Fifth Air Force combat operations:

"If we can stop those trucks moving at night, we can stop the war. That sounds like a sweeping statement but it's true.

"When they move during the day our fighters can strafe them to a standstill. With 'Operation Tack' we hope to stop them at night and disrupt their supply lines."

Destroy 65 Trucks

The other night 3,776,000 roofing nails were dropped on roads used by the Chinese Reds. Next day the air force claimed 65 trucks destroyed and 19 damaged.

That's a bigger bag than usual. The nails apparently stopped some trucks until strafing fighters got a daylight crack at them.

Cargo planes fly low over enemy supply roads and drop the nails.

"It's simple but effective," says Smith. "The trucks run over the nails and the nails puncture their tires. That halts the convoy. The only way they can keep going is to get out and pick up all those nails.

"And if they get nails in their feet that's all right too.

"We've got more stinkeroo ideas on how to use this idea," he grinned.

Although sharp as a tack, the idea is not new. It was used in World War 2. Tetrahedrons (jack-shaped objects with sharp prongs) were dropped on Nazi airdromes in Germany to puncture the tires of warplanes.

No Wisdom in Letting U. S. Slacken Support

New York, Feb. 7 (AP)—Sen. John J. Sparkman (D-Al.) said last night that United States withdrawal from "collective security" would lead to "almost certain destruction of * * * our way of life."

Sparkman, a delegate to the United Nations, added that "isolationism and defeatism have again been thwarted in their fight to determine the nation's policies."

The Senator was the principal speaker at a $100-a-plate New York State Democratic Committee dinner to honor Senator Herbert H. Lehman of New York and to raise party funds.

"Valuable time has been lost" in the debate over American aid to Europe, Sparkman said. But he asserted that the discussion was essential for national unity on "common goals."

Sparkman said "there is neither wisdom nor justice nor safety" in permitting America to slacken its support of the free world.

The best course, he said, "is a policy of mutual defense, of collective security to the greatest degree possible."

"It is a policy of economic, political and military participation in the defense of Europe," Sparkman said. "It is a policy of unwavering faith in the United Nations, and persistent and patient efforts to bring its security functions to maturity."

Six More Lives Claimed

Rome, Feb. 7 (AP)—A new wave of floods and avalanches has taken six lives and caused widespread damage in northern Italy. Railway lines and highways were cut in several places by overflowing rivers and avalanches. Two workers died in the collapse of a bridge near Prato, Tuscany. Another drowned in a tributary of the Arno. An avalanche fell on a village near Vicenza, killing three persons and injured several others trapped in a house.

An investiture service for Pack 15 Club Scouts of America, consisting of two dens, was held Tuesday night at the Comforter Hall, Wynkoop Place. George B. Matthews, president of the Rip Van Winkle Council Boy Scouts of America, presented the charter to the recently organized Cub Scout Pack.

The two dens of Pack 15, with Mrs. David Gibbs and Mrs. Richard Kalish as den mothers, received their patches, pins, and certificates, in addition to the charter. Clarence Dumm, past president of the Rip Van Winkle Council, and Frank Bourke, district commissioner of the Boy Scouts, spoke briefly concerning scouting matters.

Cub Master for Pack 15 is Arthur Souers, with a committee from the Reformed Church of The Comforter consisting of Howard DeWitt, Donald Wood, Howard Nickerson, and the Rev. Raymond Pontier, in charge of activities.

Two skits, "Daniel Boone," and "John Smith and Pocohontas," were presented by the two dens, and games, a display of handiwork, and refreshments completed the evening's activities.

Investiture Held Tuesday Night at Comforter Church

An investiture service for Pack 15 Club Scouts of America, consisting of two dens, was held Tuesday night at the Comforter Hall, Wynkoop Place. George B. Matthews, president of the Rip Van Winkle Council Boy Scouts of America, presented the charter to the recently organized Cub Scout Pack.

The two dens of Pack 15, with Mrs. David Gibbs and Mrs. Richard Kalish as den mothers, received their patches, pins, and certificates, in addition to the charter. Clarence Dumm, past president of the Rip Van Winkle Council, and Frank Bourke, district commissioner of the Boy Scouts, spoke briefly concerning scouting matters.

Cub Master for Pack 15 is Arthur Souers, with a committee from the Reformed Church of The Comforter consisting of Howard DeWitt, Donald Wood, Howard Nickerson, and the Rev. Raymond Pontier, in charge of activities.

Two skits, "Daniel Boone," and "John Smith and Pocohontas," were presented by the two dens, and games, a display of handiwork, and refreshments completed the evening's activities.

The new Pack 15 will participate in the Boy Scout rally scheduled for Saturday, February 10, at the municipal auditorium, and also in the parade which will begin at Academy Green at 6:45 p. m. Saturday and proceed to the auditorium. The skits, handiwork, and contests featured in Tuesday nights event will be presented at the Saturday rally.

Boat Builders Choose Hiltebrant as Director

At the recent meeting to elect officers and other officials of the Atlantic Coast Boat Builders and Repairers Association, Major O. R. Hiltebrant of the C. Hiltebrant Dry Dock Company, this city, was chosen as a director.

The annual session was held in New York city and during it President William Edgar John of Milton Point, Rye, said that with the present world situation, the organization and its members will be an important factor in the construction of vessels for the armed forces as it was in World War 2.

82 Persons Are Dead in Wreck . . .

limit was in effect on the new track, opened to traffic less than five hours before "The Broker" cracked up at 5:43 p. m. (E.S.T.).

The new track was swung about 50 feet from the old one to clear the way for the Jersey Turnpike, big cross-state highway now under construction.

The Pennsyvania said six trains passed over the new trestle safely before "The Broker."

The railroad said the trestle itself was not a factor in the accident—despite the engineer's statement.

Thought Trestle Buckled

Mayor August Grenier of Woodbridge said he though the trestle buckled beneath the train's weight. But the trestle did not collapse.

Attorney General Theodore Parsons asked for a signed statement from one passenger, Robert Thaler of Fair Haven. Thaler said he saw a burning journal box on the fourth car of the train before it left Newark—its last stop before the wreck.

The train pulled out of Jersey City at 5:10 p. m. (EST). Commuters from New York board it there after coming under the Hudson river by tube train.

It was more crowded than usual because another commuter line, the Jersey Central, was knocked out by the switchmen's "sick call" strike. Many Central commuters elbowed in with the estimated 900 passengers who daily ride "The Broker."

The big steam engine left the tracks and plunged in an arc to the pavement of a street below, in this city of 27,000 persons 30 miles south of New York.

Jumble of Steel

Behind it, the first five cars of the train went this way and that in a jumble of jagged steel. Some of them turned over in the thick mud of the embankment. Others stayed upright, grotesquely twisted across the rails or along the embankment.

Passengers were tossed about inside the coaches like dice in a cup. Many were mangled to bits under the grinding weight of sharp, broken metal.

Others survived or died in tomblike crevasses of steel, as some of the cars were bent into a U-shape by the terrible force of the crash. It took about seven hours—until after midnight—to dig and saw the last one clear.

The moans of trapped men and women rose on the night air. One man pinned under a heavy coach wheel begged feebly:

"Help, help me."

Garage Becomes Morgue

A morgue was set up in a garage. Blood-spattered rescue workers tenderly placed the dead in long rows, then pulled brown sheets of paper over their still forms. The feet of the dead sprawled limp and lifeless, uncovered by the paper shrouds.

Acetylene torches sputtered beneath the eerie rays of big spotlights, the torches biting around trapped passengers.

Small ladders were laid against the slime of the embankment. And other big fire department ladders also were moved up to get at the coaches. The dead and injured, pulled free, were placed on stretchers and handed down the ladders.

There was panic in some of the coaches, calm heroism in others.

A vast crowd of thousands quickly pressed on the scene, getting in the way of rescue workers. Finally, National Guardsmen joined state police to push the crowd back from streets beneath the trestle.

Ashen-pale relatives of passengers kept a pitiful, grim vigil around buildings used as morgues. It took hours to identify some of the badly torn bodies.

The last big rail disaster in the metropolitan New York area occurred Thanksgiving Eve at Kew Gardens, N. Y., when 79 persons died in a Long Island railroad train wreck. Thirty-two Long Island passengers were killed at Rockville Centre last Feb. 17.

The Pennsylvania once owned and operated the Long Island. However, the Long Island went into bankruptcy before the wrecks and since has been operated under the supervision of a New York Federal Court.

Several Accidents

Deputy Sheriff Carl Cline was assigned to investigate an accident at Glenford this morning where it was reported a car was in a ditch. On arrival the officer found the car had been removed and it was reported there had been no serious injuries. Several minor accidents were reported early today from skidding on icy pavements. Early this morning before the rain started the highways were very icy in spots. Later in the day state police reported roads wet but icy only in spots.

Rescue Mission

Rescue workers extricate injured woman from the twisted wreckage of a commuter packed Pennsylvania Railroad train that left the tracks and plunged down a 26 feet embankment into the street at Woodbridge, New Jersey. First reports indicate that the death toll may run higher than 80. The train which had left Pennsylvania Station in New York just a short while before, was packed with extra passengers who normally commuted on the strikebound New Jersey Central. (NEA Telephoto).

Man Held in Death Of Stepdaughter

New York, Feb. 7 (AP)—A Negro apartment building superintendent was arrested on a homicide charge today after authorities said he admitted slaying his 11-year-old stepdaughter and cramming her body into a furnace.

The child, Fannie Shirley Carroll, had been the object of an intensive hunt since her mother reported her missing Saturday.

Chief Assistant District Attorney Edward F. Breslin said the stepfather, James Goode, 35, the Bronx, escaped from a Raleigh, N. C., road gang three years ago. He said Goode had served 13 years of a 30-year second degree murder sentence.

Breslin said Goode told this story:

He attempted to assault the child last Saturday morning in the cellar of the apartment building, but she fought and screamed. To stifle her screams, he twisted his stepdaughter's neck until she lay limp on the floor.

Hid Body Temporarily

Temporarily he hid the body under a pile of coal. About an hour later he returned to the coal pile, unearthed the body and "I threw her into the furnace, I think head first."

More than a score of detectives pressed a round-the-clock search for the child since the mother, a domestic, reported her daughter missing.

The hunt was fruitless. But early today, Breslin said, the stepfather broke under questioning and admitted he killed the child and cremated the body.

Fannie Shirley was the only child of Mrs. Goode, a widow when she married Goode. The Goodes moved to the 46-family apartment building about two weeks ago.

Police began sifting unemptied ash barrels in the basement for bones and possible unburned remnants of the girl's clothing.

The following schedule of individual Lenten lectures will be given this year:

Feb. 8—"And Take the True Measure of Yourself;" Feb. 15—"And See a Modern Miracle;" Feb. 21—"And Have Your Heart's Desire;" March 1—"And Enjoy Perfect Health;" March 8—"And Receive Your Inheritance;" March 15—"And Know Peace and Gladness;" March 22—"And Enter Your Promised Land."

These meetings, all scheduled for Thursday evenings except the February 21 service, are undenominational, inter-racial and free to all.

16 Persons Arrested

New York, Feb. 7 (AP)—Sixteen persons, including two women, were arrested last night by narcotics police in the Bronx in their latest crack at local dope peddlers, District Attorney George D. DeLuca announced. He said at least 30 detectives participated in the roundup that followed a month-long investigation by underground undercover police. Charges of selling heroin were placed against 15. The sixteenth was booked for possession of the drug. Following the pattern in similar raids in Brooklyn and Manhattan last month, police made arrests at a given signal on street corners, in homes and tavern haunts.

Attending Art Workshop

Up to Investigators

Perry, N. Y., Feb. 7 (AP)—U. S. Senate investigators have questioned former Lt. Gov. Joe R. Hanley again about his personal finances, which figured in the famed "Hanley Letter." Two representatives of the Senate Elections Sub-committee interviewed the 74-year-old Republican yesterday. They could not be reached for comment. One of them was Edward A. McDermott, the subcommittee's special counsel who talked to Hanley about his finances last fall after the "Hanley Letter" was made public. Hanley's son, Julian, said the probers came here yesterday "at our request." He would not comment on the discussion and said his father would have nothing to say. Any announcement, he added, must come from the committee.

Would Make it Libel

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 7 (AP)—A bill in the Legislature would make it libelous for a newspaper to report that a person had been indicted if the indictment were dismissed or the person's conviction reversed on appeal. The measure was introduced yesterday by Democratic Senator Fred G. Moritt of Manhattan. A similar Moritt bill died in committee last year.

Dental Health For Children

(Proper brushing of the teeth is discussed in this third article of a series published by the Kingston Daily Freeman, in cooperation with the Ulster-Greene Dental Society, in observance of National Children's Dental Health Week.)

Children should be taught to brush their teeth as soon as they can learn to do a good job of it.

Before then, parents should supervise the brushing until they are certain the children will brush efficiently without their help. Parents should also be sure children have brushes small enough to reach all areas of the mouth. The brush should have a flat brushing surface and a straight handle. It is also a good idea to have the family dentist explain to children the best way to brush their teeth.

The best time to brush the teeth is right after every meal. It is important to brush away food debris which may form acids that bring about tooth decay. Bacteria in the mouth start acting on sugars within a few minutes. To prevent acids from doing harm, the particles of food should be brushed away as soon as possible.

It is especially important that children brush their teeth after eating candy or other sweets because it is sugar which creates decay-causing acids.

For the upper teeth, a downward stroke should be used, brushing the surfaces next to the cheeks and those next to the tongue. On the lower teeth, an upward stroke should be used. In other words, the teeth should be brushed in such a manner as to cause the brush to move away from the gums.

After the surfaces next to the cheek and tongue are properly brushed, the chewing surfaces should be thoroughly brushed. Every tooth surface should receive at least seven or eight strokes. After the teeth have been brushed, the mouth should be rinsed with warm water to remove any loose particles of food left in the mouth.

A dentifrice, whether it be paste or powder, is merely an aid to the brush in cleaning the teeth, but it makes the task more pleasant.

Holding some promise for the future are some special dentifrices now being tested. Some of these contain quantities of a chemical salt of ammonia known as dibasic ammonium phosphate. Others contain penicillin. The real value of these will not be known until research studies now under way are completed.

A dentifrice should never be counted on to cure any dental ills. A satisfactory and inexpensive dentifrice can be made by mixing three parts of baking soda with one part of powdered salt. If preferred, either baking soda or powdered salt may be used alone.

Some person like to use a diluted solution of common salt or baking soda in water for a mouthwash. Medicated mouthwashes should not be used except when prescribed by a dentist.

The sun's temperature at the surface is estimated at about 9000 degrees Fahrenheit.

First Reformed Church Plans Lenten Series

"Live the Lenten Life" is the leading theme of a special series of lectures on practical Christianity to be given by the Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool, pastor of the Old First Reformed Church, corner of Wall and Main streets, beginning Thursday at 7:30 p. m.

The following schedule of individual Lenten lectures will be given this year:

Feb. 8—"And Take the True Measure of Yourself;" Feb. 15—"And See a Modern Miracle;" Feb. 21—"And Have Your Heart's Desire;" March 1—"And Enjoy Perfect Health;" March 8—"And Receive Your Inheritance;" March 15—"And Know Peace and Gladness;" March 22—"And Enter Your Promised Land."

These meetings, all scheduled for Thursday evenings except the February 21 service, are undenominational, inter-racial and free to all.

16 Persons Arrested

New York, Feb. 7 (AP)—Sixteen persons, including two women, were arrested last night by narcotics police in the Bronx in their latest crack at local dope peddlers, District Attorney George D. DeLuca announced. He said at least 30 detectives participated in the roundup that followed a month-long investigation by underground undercover police. Charges of selling heroin were placed against 15. The sixteenth was booked for possession of the drug. Following the pattern in similar raids in Brooklyn and Manhattan last month, police made arrests at a given signal on street corners, in homes and tavern haunts.

Attending Art Workshop

Up to Investigators

Perry, N. Y., Feb. 7 (AP)—U. S. Senate investigators have questioned former Lt. Gov. Joe R. Hanley again about his personal finances, which figured in the famed "Hanley Letter." Two representatives of the Senate Elections Sub-committee interviewed the 74-year-old Republican yesterday. They could not be reached for comment. One of them was Edward A. McDermott, the subcommittee's special counsel who talked to Hanley about his finances last fall after the "Hanley Letter" was made public. Hanley's son, Julian, said the probers came here yesterday "at our request." He would not comment on the discussion and said his father would have nothing to say. Any announcement, he added, must come from the committee.

Would Make it Libel

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 7 (AP)—A bill in the Legislature would make it libelous for a newspaper to report that a person had been indicted if the indictment were dismissed or the person's conviction reversed on appeal. The measure was introduced yesterday by Democratic Senator Fred G. Moritt of Manhattan. A similar Moritt bill died in committee last year.

Dental Health For Children

(Proper brushing of the teeth is discussed in this third article of a series published by the Kingston Daily Freeman, in cooperation with the Ulster-Greene Dental Society, in observance of National Children's Dental Health Week.)

Children should be taught to brush their teeth as soon as they can learn to do a good job of it.

Before then, parents should supervise the brushing until they are certain the children will brush efficiently without their help. Parents should also be sure children have brushes small enough to reach all areas of the mouth. The brush should have a flat brushing surface and a straight handle. It is also a good idea to have the family dentist explain to children the best way to brush their teeth.

The best time to brush the teeth is right after every meal. It is important to brush away food debris which may form acids that bring about tooth decay. Bacteria in the mouth start acting on sugars within a few minutes. To prevent acids from doing harm, the particles of food should be brushed away as soon as possible.

It is especially important that children brush their teeth after eating candy or other sweets because it is sugar which creates decay-causing acids.

For the upper teeth, a downward stroke should be used, brushing the surfaces next to the cheeks and those next to the tongue. On the lower teeth, an upward stroke should be used. In other words, the teeth should be brushed in such a manner as to cause the brush to move away from the gums.

After the surfaces next to the cheek and tongue are properly brushed, the chewing surfaces should be thoroughly brushed. Every tooth surface should receive at least seven or eight strokes. After the teeth have been brushed, the mouth should be rinsed with warm water to remove any loose particles of food left in the mouth.

A dentifrice, whether it be paste or powder, is merely an aid to the brush in cleaning the teeth, but it makes the task more pleasant.

Holding some promise for the future are some special dentifrices now being tested. Some of these contain quantities of a chemical salt of ammonia known as dibasic ammonium phosphate. Others contain penicillin. The real value of these will not be known until research studies now under way are completed.

A dentifrice should never be counted on to cure any dental ills. A satisfactory and inexpensive dentifrice can be made by mixing three parts of baking soda with one part of powdered salt. If preferred, either baking soda or powdered salt may be used alone.

Some person like to use a diluted solution of common salt or baking soda in water for a mouthwash. Medicated mouthwashes should not be used except when prescribed by a dentist.

The sun's temperature at the surface is estimated at about 9000 degrees Fahrenheit.

Early Returns Stamp Polio Drive Success

Woodstock, Feb. 7—Incomplete figures in the hands of Woodstock's March of Dimes committee indicate that the drive which recently closed has produced a fund of record size for the township, according to E. A. Jurist, chairman.

The success of the drive was assured from its inception by the eagerness with which private individual and organizations offered their cooperation, and by the swift and generous response of Woodstock residents to the appeal. This response came not only from those in Woodstock, but from residents vacationing as far distant as Florida and California.

The March of Dimes committee expresses thanks to those whose assistance made the campaign a huge success: Mrs. Warren Hutty, who instituted and sustained the campaign; George Hard, publicity; Mrs. Joseph Holdridge, Jr., Mrs. Bert Winie, Jr., Miss Eleanor Carl, Mrs. Robert Rifenburg and Mrs. Charles Bailey, paper work; the Woodstock Business Association, which sponsored the motion picture show; Sam Davis, who authorized the use of the Town Hall Theatre, its staff, David Myer and Martin Blazy, and equipment for the showing of the picture; Mrs. Marie Kleine, whose King's Daughters of Shady led the field in the advance sale of benefit tickets. Others who gave generously of their time for the drive were Winifred Davis, Mrs. Stuart Chase, Lake Hill; Walter Van Wagenen, Mrs. Theodore Lee, Mrs. Irving Ostrander, Mrs. Walter Van Wagenen, Mrs. Albert Montgomery and Mrs. Austin Mecklem.

A substantial addition to the fund was made by the Wittenberg Sportsmen's Club when the group sent in $75 which was realized from the dance held Saturday.

Above all, the committee thanks all whose donations helped to put the drive over the top.

Reports Feature Recent Legion Auxiliary Session

Woodstock, Feb. 7—The American Legion Auxiliary recently held its first post-holiday meeting with many members present in spite of the severe storm. Reports of activities since the November meeting were given by committee chairmen, the most outstanding of which was that of Mrs. Erwin Holumzer, in charge of the unit's rehabilitation program.

On December 3, Mrs. Holumzer delivered to the Castle Point Hospital gift shop 68 gifts valued at $96.48. The gift shop is made up entirely of articles contributed by Auxiliary units and the veteran patients may select, free of charge, anything they desire to send home to their families at holiday time.

Sixteen Legion and auxiliary members and friends made the annual Christmas visit to the patients Sunday, Dec. 17, taking with them 126 gaily wrapped packages, four bushels of polished apples and three boxes of cigars. Each gift package contained the following 16 items: Stationery folders, note books, pencils, three cent stamps, ball point pens, razor blades, tooth paste, shaving cream, soap, nail clips, sponge moisteners, cigarettes, boxes of matches with Christmas pictures on each side, government postal cards, Christmas cards and candy canes. These were given to the men patients in three wards. Also remembered with suitable gifts were nine men in the surgical ward and the four women patients at the hospital. The latter were given most of the above articles plus toilet water and hand cream. The total of the unit's Christmas rehabilitation work was $463.76. The auxiliary is grateful to all those who in any way contributed to the gift shop and to the veteran's own Christmas.

Children of veterans and non-veterans were also remembered at Christmas time. Mrs. Robert Buley, child welfare chairman, reported food, clothes and toys were given to many children in the amount of over $100. A $5 Christmas tuberculosis bond was purchased by the unit and at the meeting Wednesday night it was voted to give $5 to the March of Dimes fund.

One of Woodstock's well-known Legionnaires is a patient in a veterans' hospital and the auxiliary is remembering him from time to time in its usual cheery way.

Head Man Is Wrong

Stonington, Conn., Feb. 7 (AP)—Burgesses may make 'em, but they can't break 'em, laws, that is, and red-faced Stonington Borough Burgess Manuel Roderick, Jr., is the man to confirm that statement. A one-way traffic system, ordered by the warden and burgesses went into effect yesterday on Water street, the borough's main thoroughfare. Patrolman Walter Main stopped the first wrong-way driver. It was Burgess Roderick.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, JR.

Early Returns Stamp Polio Drive Success

Woodstock, Feb. 7—Incomplete figures in the hands of Woodstock's March of Dimes committee indicate that the drive which recently closed has produced a fund of record size for the township, according to E. A. Jurist, chairman.

The success of the drive was assured from its inception by the eagerness with which private individual and organizations offered their cooperation, and by the swift and generous response of Woodstock residents to the appeal. This response came not only from those in Woodstock, but from residents vacationing as far distant as Florida and California.

The March of Dimes committee expresses thanks to those whose assistance made the campaign a huge success: Mrs. Warren Hutty, who instituted and sustained the campaign; George Hard, publicity; Mrs. Joseph Holdridge, Jr., Mrs. Bert Winie, Jr., Miss Eleanor Carl, Mrs. Robert Rifenburg and Mrs. Charles Bailey, paper work; the Woodstock Business Association, which sponsored the motion picture show; Sam Davis, who authorized the use of the Town Hall Theatre, its staff, David Myer and Martin Blazy, and equipment for the showing of the picture; Mrs. Marie Kleine, whose King's Daughters of Shady led the field in the advance sale of benefit tickets. Others who gave generously of their time for the drive were Winifred Davis, Mrs. Stuart Chase, Lake Hill; Walter Van Wagenen, Mrs. Theodore Lee, Mrs. Irving Ostrander, Mrs. Walter Van Wagenen, Mrs. Albert Montgomery and Mrs. Austin Mecklem.

A substantial addition to the fund was made by the Wittenberg Sportsmen's Club when the group sent in $75 which was realized from the dance held Saturday.

Above all, the committee thanks all whose donations helped to put the drive over the top.

Reports Feature Recent Legion Auxiliary Session

Woodstock, Feb. 7—The American Legion Auxiliary recently held its first post-holiday meeting with many members present in spite of the severe storm. Reports of activities since the November meeting were given by committee chairmen, the most outstanding of which was that of Mrs. Erwin Holumzer, in charge of the unit's rehabilitation program.

On December 3, Mrs. Holumzer delivered to the Castle Point Hospital gift shop 68 gifts valued at $96.48. The gift shop is made up entirely of articles contributed by Auxiliary units and the veteran patients may select, free of charge, anything they desire to send home to their families at holiday time.

Sixteen Legion and auxiliary members and friends made the annual Christmas visit to the patients Sunday, Dec. 17, taking with them 126 gaily wrapped packages, four bushels of polished apples and three boxes of cigars. Each gift package contained the following 16 items: Stationery folders, note books, pencils, three cent stamps, ball point pens, razor blades, tooth paste, shaving cream, soap, nail clips, sponge moisteners, cigarettes, boxes of matches with Christmas pictures on each side, government postal cards, Christmas cards and candy canes. These were given to the men patients in three wards. Also remembered with suitable gifts were nine men in the surgical ward and the four women patients at the hospital. The latter were given most of the above articles plus toilet water and hand cream. The total of the unit's Christmas rehabilitation work was $463.76. The auxiliary is grateful to all those who in any way contributed to the gift shop and to the veteran's own Christmas.

Children of veterans and non-veterans were also remembered at Christmas time. Mrs. Robert Buley, child welfare chairman, reported food, clothes and toys were given to many children in the amount of over $100. A $5 Christmas tuberculosis bond was purchased by the unit and at the meeting Wednesday night it was voted to give $5 to the March of Dimes fund.

One of Woodstock's well-known Legionnaires is a patient in a veterans' hospital and the auxiliary is remembering him from time to time in its usual cheery way.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Albert J. Ashdown, wore a white satin basque gown with a sheer nude nylon yoke, embroidered with white bugle beads and pearls. The skirt fell to a full cathedral train. Her veil was of white silk bridal illusion, cut on rectangular lines, and fell from a small modeaty shirred skull cap. She carried a white prayer book with an orchid marker.

Mrs. Donald Koeppen of 154 Foxhall avenue, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a Nile green net gown with off-shoulder lines, with a deep Bertha cape collar covered with Nile green silk fringe. Bridesmaids were Miss Anne Perry, sister of the groom, Mrs. Albert Ashdown, sister-in-law of the bride, Miss Frances Perry, cousin of the groom, and Miss Yolanda Turck, niece of the groom. The bridesmaids were dressed in yellow net gowns with off-shoulder lines made in the same style as the matron of honor's. They wore small, pill-box headpieces, with matching nose veils, and carried yellow muffs covered with blue anemones.

Jo Ann Augustine, niece of the groom, was flower girl. She was dressed in a yellow net gown with off-shoulder lines, with a cape collar covered with yellow shirred net. She wore a matching poke bonnet trimmed with shirred net, and carried a basket of pink anemones.

Andrew Perry of 43 Gill street, cousin of the groom, was best man. Ushers were David Ashdown, brother of the bride, Harry Kaprelian, Frank Mitchell, and Charles Pavlidis, Jr. Ronald Ashdown, nephew of the bride, was child ringbearer.

Over 400 guests attended a reception at the Penguin. Music for dancing was played by Louis Perry and his orchestra.

On their wedding trip the couple will travel to California. While there they will visit the bride's sister who lives in Los Angeles. The bride wore a Tuscany toast gabardine suit for traveling, with a sunset faille blouse, with a white straw hat trimmed with toast velvet. Upon their return the couple will make their temporary home with the bride's mother.

Perfume That Clings

Q.—Dear Penny: I adore perfume, but for some reason or other its fragrance just does not last on me. I have told several of my friends that I want a new perfume, but first I must find out about a lasting one.—Mrs. A. W.

A.—A particularly good idea for women who claim that perfume does not "stay with them" is a Liquid Skin Sachet. It smooths on the skin very easily, and lingers longer because of its sachet base. It has a slower rate of diffusion and evaporation than any other type of fragrance. Try this Houbigant Chantilly Liquid Skin Sachet. Austerity Really Pinches

Budapest (AP)—In line with the government's advocated policy of economy here, "austerity controllers" have been appointed in thousands of Budapest industrial plants, offices and institutions. Their function is to persuade employes not to keep money in their pockets but to deposit it on "transfer-deposit books." As for housewives, they are urged to compete for the title: "Most thrifty housewife."

'Collectors' Choice' Is Subject Matter Of Sorosis Meeting

At the meeting of Sorosis Monday at the home of Mrs. Herbert Van Wyck Darrow, the hostess, a connoisseur herself, unfolded a subject with many facts, "Collectors' Choice."

Belonging to that great fellowship known as "Collectors" brings continual joy and satisfaction to the individual, declared Mrs. Darrow and it is coupled with the thrill and challenge of the distinguished company in which the collector moves.

She illustrated her statement by citing, among others, Faith Baldwin's collection of hundreds of boxes. Starting with a hat box which was delivered to her one day, Miss Baldwin built up her treasures over a period of 30 years, it was revealed, and probably the smallest piece in the collection is a box less than one eighth of an inch square.

Vanderlyn Paintings

Mrs. Emily Crane Chadbourne of Stone Ridge has made a hobby of collecting photographs of the original Vanderlyn paintings, some of which are in the Senate House Museum, while others are all over the country, Mrs. Darrow noted, where the collector sought them out, and photographed them.

Mrs. Delta Boice Fromer, a Kingstonian, has a priceless collection of dolls from the 17th and 18th centuries, the speaker continued. She also told of a relative who owns 49 pieces of silver luster and mercury glass, which is displayed in special cabinets and niches.

The speaker felt that Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt collects people and countries when traveling, filing away data and impressions in her orderly mind.

China and Glass

"Collector's Choice" for Mrs. Darrow and her husband proved to be china and glass. The Darrows have notable examples on display, which the owner explained both from an artistic, and historical viewpoint. The club members were also privileged to drink tea from Chinese medallion and rose porcelain ware.

Mrs. William Ochs, program chairman, announced that the next meeting of the group would be held at the home of Mrs. A. Noble Graham February 19, instead of with Mrs. William McVey. Mrs. Graham will have the paper on "The Bible in Today's World."

Sorosis voted to buy a medical book for India through the General Foundation of Women's Clubs, with the recommendation that an American founded college be the recipient.

An urgent request from Mrs. Norman Vincent Peale was also read to the group, exhorting women to attend the World Day of Prayer services at 3 p. m. Friday.

Austerity Really Pinches

Budapest (AP)—In line with the government's advocated policy of economy here, "austerity controllers" have been appointed in thousands of Budapest industrial plants, offices and institutions. Their function is to persuade employes not to keep money in their pockets but to deposit it on "transfer-deposit books." As for housewives, they are urged to compete for the title: "Most thrifty housewife."

'Collectors' Choice' Is Subject Matter Of Sorosis Meeting

At the meeting of Sorosis Monday at the home of Mrs. Herbert Van Wyck Darrow, the hostess, a connoisseur herself, unfolded a subject with many facts, "Collectors' Choice."

Belonging to that great fellowship known as "Collectors" brings continual joy and satisfaction to the individual, declared Mrs. Darrow and it is coupled with the thrill and challenge of the distinguished company in which the collector moves.

She illustrated her statement by citing, among others, Faith Baldwin's collection of hundreds of boxes. Starting with a hat box which was delivered to her one day, Miss Baldwin built up her treasures over a period of 30 years, it was revealed, and probably the smallest piece in the collection is a box less than one eighth of an inch square.

Vanderlyn Paintings

Mrs. Emily Crane Chadbourne of Stone Ridge has made a hobby of collecting photographs of the original Vanderlyn paintings, some of which are in the Senate House Museum, while others are all over the country, Mrs. Darrow noted, where the collector sought them out, and photographed them.

Mrs. Delta Boice Fromer, a Kingstonian, has a priceless collection of dolls from the 17th and 18th centuries, the speaker continued. She also told of a relative who owns 49 pieces of silver luster and mercury glass, which is displayed in special cabinets and niches.

The speaker felt that Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt collects people and countries when traveling, filing away data and impressions in her orderly mind.

China and Glass

"Collector's Choice" for Mrs. Darrow and her husband proved to be china and glass. The Darrows have notable examples on display, which the owner explained both from an artistic, and historical viewpoint. The club members were also privileged to drink tea from Chinese medallion and rose porcelain ware.

Mrs. William Ochs, program chairman, announced that the next meeting of the group would be held at the home of Mrs. A. Noble Graham February 19, instead of with Mrs. William McVey. Mrs. Graham will have the paper on "The Bible in Today's World."

Sorosis voted to buy a medical book for India through the General Foundation of Women's Clubs, with the recommendation that an American founded college be the recipient.

An urgent request from Mrs. Norman Vincent Peale was also read to the group, exhorting women to attend the World Day of Prayer services at 3 p. m. Friday.

Austerity Really Pinches

Budapest (AP)—In line with the government's advocated policy of economy here, "austerity controllers" have been appointed in thousands of Budapest industrial plants, offices and institutions. Their function is to persuade employes not to keep money in their pockets but to deposit it on "transfer-deposit books." As for housewives, they are urged to compete for the title: "Most thrifty housewife."

'Collectors' Choice' Is Subject Matter Of Sorosis Meeting

At the meeting of Sorosis Monday at the home of Mrs. Herbert Van Wyck Darrow, the hostess, a connoisseur herself, unfolded a subject with many facts, "Collectors' Choice."

Belonging to that great fellowship known as "Collectors" brings continual joy and satisfaction to the individual, declared Mrs. Darrow and it is coupled with the thrill and challenge of the distinguished company in which the collector moves.

She illustrated her statement by citing, among others, Faith Baldwin's collection of hundreds of boxes. Starting with a hat box which was delivered to her one day, Miss Baldwin built up her treasures over a period of 30 years, it was revealed, and probably the smallest piece in the collection is a box less than one eighth of an inch square.

Vanderlyn Paintings

Mrs. Emily Crane Chadbourne of Stone Ridge has made a hobby of collecting photographs of the original Vanderlyn paintings, some of which are in the Senate House Museum, while others are all over the country, Mrs. Darrow noted, where the collector sought them out, and photographed them.

Mrs. Delta Boice Fromer, a Kingstonian, has a priceless collection of dolls from the 17th and 18th centuries, the speaker continued. She also told of a relative who owns 49 pieces of silver luster and mercury glass, which is displayed in special cabinets and niches.

The speaker felt that Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt collects people and countries when traveling, filing away data and impressions in her orderly mind.

China and Glass

"Collector's Choice" for Mrs. Darrow and her husband proved to be china and glass. The Darrows have notable examples on display, which the owner explained both from an artistic, and historical viewpoint. The club members were also privileged to drink tea from Chinese medallion and rose porcelain ware.

Mrs. William Ochs, program chairman, announced that the next meeting of the group would be held at the home of Mrs. A. Noble Graham February 19, instead of with Mrs. William McVey. Mrs. Graham will have the paper on "The Bible in Today's World."

Sorosis voted to buy a medical book for India through the General Foundation of Women's Clubs, with the recommendation that an American founded college be the recipient.

An urgent request from Mrs. Norman Vincent Peale was also read to the group, exhorting women to attend the World Day of Prayer services at 3 p. m. Friday.

Receiving Miniature Brick

Major Clearwater, Captain Hickey Speak At Legion Auxiliary's Anniversary Dinner

Maj. Helena Clearwater, U.S.A., retired, and Capt. Andrew S. Hickey, U.S.N., retired, were guest speakers last night when Kingston Unit No. 150, American Legion Auxiliary, celebrated its 30th anniversary at the American Legion building. The program opened with dinner at 6:30. The tables were decorated with iris and daffodil centerpieces, and crystal candlesticks with blue and yellow candles. The centerpieces were given to the Auxiliary by Kingston Post No. 150.

Following the dinner, Mrs. Clarence Van De Mark, president, introduced Mrs. Stanley J. Matthews, past department president, who, in turn, introduced the evening's speakers. Post Commander Bernhardt Kramer brought greetings from Kingston Post, and spoke of the value of the work done by both the Post and the Auxiliary.

Speaks on Propaganda

Next on the program was Captain Hickey, who spoke on "Propaganda," explaining the various channels through which it flows. He urged the public to be alert, by listening to all radio commentators, by reading the articles written by various newspaper correspondents, and be seeing movie news and television programs. In so doing, he said, knowledge of the means used to disseminate propaganda material will give the public the opportunity to form their own opinions, and to sift out much that is unsound.

Medical Progress

Mrs. Matthews then introduced the second speaker of the evening, Maj. Helena Clearwater of the U.S. Nursing Corps, retired, who outlined the progress which has been made in medicine, sanitation, treatment, and nutrition, for the United States soldier. Telling of her experiences in three wars, in China, Hawaii, and the Philippines, she said that in China hunger made the people an easy prey to communism, when the Reds gave the people food and clothing.

Past Highlights

Following the speakers, the past presidents were called on to tell of the highlights of their year of leadership. The following past presidents attended the gathering: the Mmes. Stanley J. Matthews, Robert Hudler, R. Earl Haley, Herman DuBois, Peter Carey, Harry Witney, William McNamee, John Waterman, Joseph Sills, Christopher Roche, Ashton Hart, Ernest Jansen, Harold Sanford, Mary Dulin, Agustus Winter, Samm Mann, and the Misses Margaret McManus and Alice Scardefield.

Each guest received an artificial carnation corsage made by Mrs. Sills.

Members of the committee in charge of arranging the celebration were Mrs. Herman DuBois, chairman; Mrs Joseph Sills, Miss Margaret McManus, Mrs. Roy Jacob, Mrs. John Waterman, Mrs. William McNamee, Mrs. Michael Melano, and Miss Alice Scardefield.

Music Appreciation Group Studies Work Of Schumann, Franz

The Music Appreciation Group of the Y.W.C.A. met with Mrs. Henry Millonig for their first February meeting Thursday.

Mrs. Robert Pixley and Mrs. John Sterley reviewed the song forms of Robert Schumann and Robert Franz.

Schumann's life, and his many short works, which rose to a height during the Napoleonic era were fully described by Mrs. Pixley. Two Schumann recordings, "Nut Tree," and "Hidden Tears," interpreted by Marian Anderson, were also played.

The form in which Schumann chose to express himself flowed freely from his pen, as well as from his heart. Richard Tauber's recording of "Moonlight," as well as Blanche Thebom singing "My Soul Is Dark," "Jeptha's Daughter," "Sun of the Sleepless," and "Thy Days Are Done" made the members aware of Schumann's contributions to musical literature.

Mrs. Sterley acquainted her listerners with the genius, Robert Franz, whose style and spirit stands with Bach and Handel. The paper on Franz was prepared by Mrs. Hans Decker. Mrs. Pixley, accompanied by Mrs. C. Franklin Pierce, sang "Dreams" by Robert Franz.

Franz produced works of absolute beauty and perfection, and deserves honor among musicians, it was noted.

Tea hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. George Ross, and Miss Jessie Allan. Mrs. Robert Morris assisted by pouring.

Teen-Age Pianist Captivates Audience At Benefit Musical

A teen-age pianist from Ellenville, David Kushner, played with the deft surety of an accomplished concert pianist last night, before an almost capacity audience at the Kingston High School auditorium.

The program, planned for the benefit of the Benedictine Hosptial building fund, was essentially difficult, and ambitious. But, from the opening notes of the first movement of Beethoven's "Sonata in D Minor," with its contrasting moments of bell-like quietude through passages of thundering power, to the last chords from the third movement of Grieg's finale from "Sonata No. 1," Mr. Kushner sustained a sense of mastery, coupled with interpretive power.

Particularly interesting selections in the hour long program included "Dance Macabre" by Saint-Saens, and de Falla's ever popular "Ritual Fire Dance." In each the young pianist managed to capture mood and meaning, without becoming engulfed in technical difficulties.

Appearing on the program with Kushner was Rocco Autorino, Jr., boy soprano, who is a well known figure to Kingston audiences. The vocalist selected three sentimental and familiar songs: "When Love is Kind," by Moore; "Still as the Night" by Bohm; and Schubert's "Serenade."

The committee for the musical included Mrs. George F. Einterz, chairman; Mrs. John A. Cooke, Jr., co-chairman; Mrs. Guy Valeo, publicity; Mrs. Charles Davis, tickets; and Allen Baker and Charles Davis, door committee.

Both boys, who worked for an eight-month period preparing for the musicale, were trained by James J. Sweeney.

The delegates exchanged ideas for improvement and closed contracts with booking agents for grandstand performances, thrill shows and carnivals that feature many of the state fairs.

Particularly interesting selections in the hour long program included "Dance Macabre" by Saint-Saens, and de Falla's ever popular "Ritual Fire Dance." In each the young pianist managed to capture mood and meaning, without becoming engulfed in technical difficulties.

Appearing on the program with Kushner was Rocco Autorino, Jr., boy soprano, who is a well known figure to Kingston audiences. The vocalist selected three sentimental and familiar songs: "When Love is Kind," by Moore; "Still as the Night" by Bohm; and Schubert's "Serenade."

The committee for the musical included Mrs. George F. Einterz, chairman; Mrs. John A. Cooke, Jr., co-chairman; Mrs. Guy Valeo, publicity; Mrs. Charles Davis, tickets; and Allen Baker and Charles Davis, door committee.

Both boys, who worked for an eight-month period preparing for the musicale, were trained by James J. Sweeney.

Receiving Miniature Brick

Major Clearwater, Captain Hickey Speak At Legion Auxiliary's Anniversary Dinner

Maj. Helena Clearwater, U.S.A., retired, and Capt. Andrew S. Hickey, U.S.N., retired, were guest speakers last night when Kingston Unit No. 150, American Legion Auxiliary, celebrated its 30th anniversary at the American Legion building. The program opened with dinner at 6:30. The tables were decorated with iris and daffodil centerpieces, and crystal candlesticks with blue and yellow candles. The centerpieces were given to the Auxiliary by Kngston Post No. 150.

Following the dinner, Mrs. Clarence Van De Mark, president, introduced Mrs. Stanley J. Matthews, past department president, who, in turn, introduced the evening's speakers. Post Commander Bernhardt Kramer brought greetings from Kingston Post, and spoke of the value of the work done by both the Post and the Auxiliary.

Speaks on Propaganda

Next on the program was Captain Hickey, who spoke on "Propaganda," explaining the various channels through which it flows. He urged the public to be alert, by listening to all radio commentators, by reading the articles written by various newspaper correspondents, and be seeing movie news and television programs. In so doing, he said, knowledge of the means used to disseminate propaganda material will give the public the opportunity to form their own opinions, and to sift out much that is unsound.

Medical Progress

Mrs. Matthews then introduced the second speaker of the evening, Maj. Helena Clearwater of the U.S. Nursing Corps, retired, who outlined the progress which has been made in medicine, sanitation, treatment, and nutrition, for the United States soldier. Telling of her experiences in three wars, in China, Hawaii, and the Philippines, she said that in China hunger made the people an easy prey to communism, when the Reds gave the people food and clothing.

Past Highlights

Following the speakers, the past presidents were called on to tell of the highlights of their year of leadership. The following past presidents attended the gathering: the Mmes. Stanley J. Matthews, Robert Hudler, R. Earl Haley, Herman DuBois, Peter Carey, Harry Witney, William McNamee, John Waterman, Joseph Sills, Christopher Roche, Ashton Hart, Ernest Jansen, Harold Sanford, Mary Dulin, Agustus Winter, Samm Mann, and the Misses Margaret McManus and Alice Scardefield.

Each guest received an artificial carnation corsage made by Mrs. Sills.

Members of the committee in charge of arranging the celebration were Mrs. Herman DuBois, chairman; Mrs Joseph Sills, Miss Margaret McManus, Mrs. Roy Jacob, Mrs. John Waterman, Mrs. William McNamee, Mrs. Michael Melano, and Miss Alice Scardefield.

Teen-Age Pianist Captivates Audience At Benefit Musical

A teen-age pianist from Ellenville, David Kushner, played with the deft surety of an accomplished concert pianist last night, before an almost capacity audience at the Kingston High School auditorium.

The program, planned for the benefit of the Benedictine Hosptial building fund, was essentially difficult, and ambitious. But, from the opening notes of the first movement of Beethoven's "Sonata in D Minor," with its contrasting moments of bell-like quietude through passages of thundering power, to the last chords from the third movement of Grieg's finale from "Sonata No. 1," Mr. Kushner sustained a sense of mastery, coupled with interpretive power.

Particularly interesting selections in the hour long program included "Dance Macabre" by Saint-Saens, and de Falla's ever popular "Ritual Fire Dance." In each the young pianist managed to capture mood and meaning, without becoming engulfed in technical difficulties.

Appearing on the program with Kushner was Rocco Autorino, Jr., boy soprano, who is a well known figure to Kingston audiences. The vocalist selected three sentimental and familiar songs: "When Love is Kind," by Moore; "Still as the Night" by Bohm; and Schubert's "Serenade."

Music Appreciation Group Studies Work Of Schumann, Franz

The Music Appreciation Group of the Y.W.C.A. met with Mrs. Henry Millonig for their first February meeting Thursday.

Mrs. Robert Pixley and Mrs. John Sterley reviewed the song forms of Robert Schumann and Robert Franz.

Schumann's life, and his many short works, which rose to a height during the Napoleonic era were fully described by Mrs. Pixley. Two Schumann recordings, "Nut Tree," and "Hidden Tears," interpreted by Marian Anderson, were also played.

The form in which Schumann chose to express himself flowed freely from his pen, as well as from his heart. Richard Tauber's recording of "Moonlight," as well as Blanche Thebom singing "My Soul Is Dark," "Jeptha's Daughter," "Sun of the Sleepless," and "Thy Days Are Done" made the members aware of Schumann's contributions to musical literature.

Mrs. Sterley acquainted her listerners with the genius, Robert Franz, whose style and spirit stands with Bach and Handel. The paper on Franz was prepared by Mrs. Hans Decker. Mrs. Pixley, accompained by Mrs. C. Franklin Pierce, sang "Dreams" by Robert Franz.

Franz produced works of absolute beauty and perfection, and deserves honor among musicians, it was noted.

Tea hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. George Ross, and Miss Jessie Allan. Mrs. Robert Morris assisted by pouring.

Poughkeepsie Shades Newburgh 57-55 in Overtime Thriller

Blues Come From Behind Twice

Sam Kalloch's fighting Blues came from behind twice to shade Newburgh Academy, 57-55, in an overtime DUSO League thriller yesterday at the bandbox gym in Poughkeepsie.

The contest was a playoff of a game postponed earlier in the season and the final result tightened the DUSO race for the big showdown in Newburgh on February 16.

N.F.A. and Poughkeepsie are now tied in the lost column with two setbacks apiece. The Goldbacks have won nine games to eight for the Blues who are still a game behind the schedule.

Sub Wins Game

Johnny Ripo, a substitute guard, furnished the winning basket for the Blues with a one-hander from 15 feet out in the last 17 seconds of the first overtime period.

The regulation contest ended 50-50 when Tom Gloede hit with a one-hander with 13 seconds remaining.

Poughkeepsie's two front line stalwarts—Tom Gloede and Leroy "Eggie" Johnson—connected for 40 points between them but, in spite of this lavish display of power, the Kallochmen twice had to rally to snatch victory from defeat.

Blues Rally

With two minutes remaining in regulation, N.F.A. led 47-43. Johnson, the Negro ace who poured 22 points through the rim, hit with a layup to make it 47-45. Tom Gloede's driving shot at the 35 second mark tied it at 47-47.

Undismayed the Goldbacks went ahead on Jack Pelin's set shot at 1:05. Johnson's foul made it 49-48 with 45 seconds left and Mahar converted a singleton to put N.F.A. ahead 50-48. Wild action ensued and with 13 seconds showing on the clock Tom Gloede hit with a one-hander from sidecourt to tie the score at 50-50 and send the clubs into overtime.

Newburgh dominated the early moments of the overtime period as Richie Spreer made a foul and Big Ed Gabron's one-hander sent them ahead 53-50. Eggie Johnson's layup for the Blues was nullified by foul shots by Gabron and Pelin to leave the score 55-52 in favor of Newburgh at the 40 second mark.

Johnson scored a few seconds later from scrimmage and was fouled on the shot by Mahar. He converted to knot the count at 55-55 and 17 seconds from the buzzer substitute John Ripo swished the winning basket from past the foul line. It was a spectacular shot that sailed through the basket without touching the rim.

N.F.A. tried to move the ball upcourt but lost possession. The Blues regained it with eight seconds to go and froze it at midcourt until the clock ran out.

Big Ed Gabron and Jack Mahar were Newburgh's leading scorers with 12 points each.

The boxscore:

Rigid Screening Of Pro Athletes Urged by Hershey

Washington, Feb. 7 (AP)—The nation's draft director said yesterday that professional athletes—and any other man with "two eyes, two arms and two legs"—should go through basic training before being excused from military service.

Maj. Gen Lewis B. Hershey was testifying before the House Armed Services Committee. He said he favors putting athletes through basic training to decide whether they would be physically qualified for at least "limited service."

The House committee has been conducting public hearings on a request from the Department of Defense for a universal military service and training (UMST) law which would drop the draft age from 19 to 18, extend draft service from 21 to 27 months and set up a long-range training program. It goes into closed session today to try to iron out differences among committeemen on the bill.

Secretary of Defense Marshall and his aides have told the committee 18-year-olds must be drafted if the nation is to reach its military manpower goal of 3,500,000 without drafting family men, veterans or men 26 years or older.

Armed services committeemen in both the House and the Senate have demonstrated considerable reluctance to draft boys of 18 if any other way can be found to fill out the services. Many have centered attention on the approximately 1,000,000 men in the present 18 through 25 draft age bracket who have been deferred as mentally or physically unfit. The congressmen say many of these could and should be recovered for at least limited service under lowered standards.

Draft Director Hershey said yesterday, and in previous testimony, that he agrees deferements are running too high. As an example, he pointed to men healthy and intelligent enough to complete in professional athletics who are considered ineligible for the armed services.

He blamed too-high standards set by the services. Under present draft law provisions, illustrating his point with the case of an unidentified professional football player. Hershey said the athlete was declared fit half a dozen times by his draft board only to be rejected by the armed forces. "He was hospitalized several times to see if he really had stomach ulcers," Hershey said.

The elderly, distinguished-looking gentleman who sat alongside us in the West Point field house press box during the Army-Fordham basketball game proudly admitted that he was "Matty's father."

The old gent had reason to be proud of his famous offspring—the former St. John's Wonder Five center and a nationally recognized basketball official—Matty Begovich, who was working the game with Johnny Nucatola.

In between, Begovich has earned a law degree, served a wartime hitch with the F.B.I. and coached baseball and basketball for 16 years at John Marshall College. Next to Pat Kenedy, he is perhaps the best known college referee in the East.

● He Remembered Kingston:

Did Papa Begovich remember Kingston, N. Y.?

"Certainly I do, how can I ever forget it," he said. "My boy pitched in a special game up there many years ago for one of the town teams. Let me see, what was that name?

"Crystal Gardens?"

"Yes," he continued, "I guess that was it. I know they called Matty up and told him they had a big game in the local league up there and wanted him to pitch. They gave him a good price, too."

Papa Begovich was referring, of course, to that tremendous City League series between Harry Sill's Crystal Gardens and Jimmy Morgan's Repealers. Sills grabbed Begovich, who was a star pitcher at St. John's and might have been a major league star had he chosen baseball instead of professional basketball.

Jimmy Morgan looked longingly across the Hudson into Dutchess county and came up with Specs Ellis, the Millbrook Squire who was the greatest pitcher of that era in these parts.

Ellis beat Begovich in one of those Saturday afternoon City League classics when the twilight league was at its competitive peak. Nobody beat Ellis in the clutch in those days.

● The Understanding Trooper:

"I remember that day very well for another reason," Papa Begovich explained. "On my way up from New Jersey where we live, one of your state troopers gave me a ticket for speeding.

"I tried to talk him out of it and he kept reminding me that the New Jersey patrol was pretty tough on New York motorists. (Ed. Note: Have they changed?) He asked me where I was going and I told him I was headed toward Kingston to see my son pitch in a big game. He remembered having read something about Matty with the Wonder Five and he gave me a break."

"Matty could have been just as great in baseball as in basketball until the weight problem began to catch up with him," the old gent recalled. "But he liked basketball and you know he later played with most of his St. John's boys with that team called the Brooklyn Jewels."

"Yes," we said, "that was quite a collection of characters . . . Mac Kinsbrunner, Allie Shuckman, Matty, and that screwball, Rip Gerson.

"That Gerson was a screwball in some ways, to be sure," added Papa Begovich, "but he was a great play maker and team man."

● Game Is Running Wild:

The conversation drifted toward the inevitable comparison of the old pro style of basketball with the modern, fire house calf-skin madness.

"The whole game has gone wild," our newly found friend sighed. "Now they make as many points in a quarter as the old timers did in a whole game.

"Why, I remember one night Matty scored 40 points for his high school team and the papers played it up for a week. Now it's nothing. That big fellow, Mikan, scores that many on a bad night."

The National Sportsmen's Show opens on Saturday, Feb. 17, at Grand Central Palace and will run for eight days. There will be many excellent exhibits for outdoor lovers with daily performances by Sharkey, the wonder seal who earned his degree at Mark Huling's college in Kingston.

National Wildlife Week is March 18-24. Better take note, for human beings are becoming wilder and wilder.

Top Basketball Teams Keep Winning; Harvard Gives Columbia Big Scare

New York, Feb. 7 (AP)—Six of the top ten basketball teams in the land registered expected victories last night, but not before half of them experienced some rough going.

Columbia, Bradley and St. Louis were hard pressed while St. John's, Villanova and North Carolina State breezed past weak opposition. Basketball's "Big Four" of Kentucky, Oklahoma A. & M., Indiana and Kansas State was idle.

Seventh-ranked St. Louis had the toughest time. The Billikens withstood a determined closing rally by Wichita to eke out a 49-48 victory. At one point St. Louis had held a 45-31 lead.

Bradley, No. 5 nationally, was hard-pressed for three quarters before turning on the steam to whip Houston, 60-47. The turning point came when Houston's center, Royce Ray, fouled out with 13 minutes to go. Elmer Behnke, with 14 points, paced Bradley's attack.

Lions Pressed

Sixth-rated Columbia, the only major unbeaten team in the country, made it 13 in a row with a 60-53 victory over Harvard. Harvard battled Columbia right to the end and only some freezing tactics by the winners held off the Crimson. Harvard was ahead, 32-29, at intermission, but with three minutes to go layups by Jack Molinas and John Azary turned the tide in favor of Columbia.

St. John's of Brooklyn, No. 7 in this week's Associated Press poll, warmed up for a brief road trip by ripping Kings Point, 86-52. The Redmen play John Carroll in Cleveland tonight, then travel to Buffalo for a tilt with Canisius on Saturday.

Villanova, No. 9, whipped Muhlenberg, 67-43, and North Carolina State, No. 10, blasted Temple, 86-58. N.C. State checked Temple's Bill Mlkvy with 18 points and the rest was easy. Sam Ranzino scored 23 points for the Wolfpack.

Larry Hennessey, Villanova's sophomore sparkplug, rimmed 26 points as the Wildcats rang up their 17th victory in 18 games.

CCNY continued its comeback with a 73-63 victory over Holy Cross.

Poughkeepsie Shades Newburgh 57-55 in Overtime Thriller

Blues Come From Behind Twice

Sam Kalloch's fighting Blues came from behind twice to shade Newburgh Academy, 57-55, in an overtime DUSO League thriller yesterday at the bandbox gym in Poughkeepsie.

The contest was a playoff of a game postponed earlier in the season and the final result tightened the DUSO race for the big showdown in Newburgh on February 16.

N.F.A. and Poughkeepsie are now tied in the lost column with two setbacks apiece. The Goldbacks have won nine games to eight for the Blues who are still a game behind the schedule.

Sub Wins Game

Johnny Ripo, a substitute guard, furnished the winning basket for the Blues with a one-hander from 15 feet out in the last 17 seconds of the first overtime period.

The regulation contest ended 50-50 when Tom Gloede hit with a one-hander with 13 seconds remaining.

Poughkeepsie's two front line stalwarts—Tom Gloede and Leroy "Eggie" Johnson—connected for 40 points between them but, in spite of this lavish display of power, the Kallochmen twice had to rally to snatch victory from defeat.

Blues Rally

With two minutes remaining in regulation, N.F.A. led 47-43. Johnson, the Negro ace who poured 22 points through the rim, hit with a layup to make it 47-45. Tom Gloede's driving shot at the 35 second mark tied it at 47-47.

Undismayed the Goldbacks went ahead on Jack Pelin's set shot at 1:05. Johnson's foul made it 49-48 with 45 seconds left and Mahar converted a singleton to put N.F.A. ahead 50-48. Wild action ensued and with 13 seconds showing on the clock Tom Gloede hit with a one-hander from sidecourt to tie the score at 50-50 and send the clubs into overtime.

Newburgh dominated the early moments of the overtime period as Richie Spreer made a foul and Big Ed Gabron's one-hander sent them ahead 53-50. Eggie Johnson's layup for the Blues was nullified by foul shots by Gabron and Pelin to leave the score 55-52 in favor of Newburgh at the 40 second mark.

Johnson scored a few seconds later from scrimmage and was fouled on the shot by Mahar. He converted to knot the count at 55-55 and 17 seconds from the buzzer substitute John Ripo swished the winning basket from past the foul line. It was a spectacular shot that sailed through the basket without touching the rim.

N.F.A. tried to move the ball upcourt but lost possession. The Blues regained it with eight seconds to go and froze it at midcourt until the clock ran out.

Big Ed Gabron and Jack Mahar were Newburgh's leading scorers with 12 points each.

The boxscore:

Rigid Screening Of Pro Athletes Urged by Hershey

Washington, Feb. 7 (AP)—The nation's draft director said yesterday that professional athletes—and any other man with "two eyes, two arms and two legs"—should go through basic training before being excused from military service.

Maj. Gen Lewis B. Hershey was testifying before the House Armed Services Committee. He said he favors putting athletes through basic training to decide whether they would be physically qualified for at least "limited service."

The House committee has been conducting public hearings on a request from the Department of Defense for a universal military service and training (UMST) law which would drop the draft age from 19 to 18, extend draft service from 21 to 27 months and set up a long-range training program. It goes into closed session today to try to iron out differences among committeemen on the bill.

Secretary of Defense Marshall and his aides have told the committee 18-year-olds must be drafted if the nation is to reach its military manpower goal of 3,500,000 without drafting family men, veterans or men 26 years or older.

Armed services committeemen in both the House and the Senate have demonstrated considerable reluctance to draft boys of 18 if any other way can be found to fill out the services. Hershey said the athlete was declared fit half a dozen times by his draft board only to be rejected by the armed forces. "He was hospitalized several times to see if he really had stomach ulcers," Hershey said.

Poughkeepsie Shades Newburgh 57-55 in Overtime Thriller

Blues Come From Behind Twice

Sam Kalloch's fighting Blues came from behind twice to shade Newburgh Academy, 57-55, in an overtime DUSO League thriller yesterday at the bandbox gym in Poughkeepsie.

The contest was a playoff of a game postponed earlier in the season and the final result tightened the DUSO race for the big showdown in Newburgh on February 16.

N.F.A. and Poughkeepsie are now tied in the lost column with two setbacks apiece. The Goldbacks have won nine games to eight for the Blues who are still a game behind the schedule.

Sub Wins Game

Johnny Ripo, a substitute guard, furnished the winning basket for the Blues with a one-hander from 15 feet out in the last 17 seconds of the first overtime period.

The regulation contest ended 50-50 when Tom Gloede hit with a one-hander with 13 seconds remaining.

Poughkeepsie's two front line stalwarts—Tom Gloede and Leroy "Eggie" Johnson—connected for 40 points between them but, in spite of this lavish display of power, the Kallochmen twice had to rally to snatch victory from defeat.

Blues Rally

With two minutes remaining in regulation, N.F.A. led 47-43. Johnson, the Negro ace who poured 22 points through the rim, hit with a layup to make it 47-45. Tom Gloede's driving shot at the 35 second mark tied it at 47-47.

Undismayed the Goldbacks went ahead on Jack Pelin's set shot at 1:05. Johnson's foul made it 49-48 with 45 seconds left and Mahar converted a singleton to put N.F.A. ahead 50-48. Wild action ensued and with 13 seconds showing on the clock Tom Gloede hit with a one-hander from sidecourt to tie the score at 50-50 and send the clubs into overtime.

Newburgh dominated the early moments of the overtime period as Richie Spreer made a foul and Big Ed Gabron's one-hander sent them ahead 53-50. Eggie Johnson's layup for the Blues was nullified by foul shots by Gabron and Pelin to leave the score 55-52 in favor of Newburgh at the 40 second mark.

Johnson scored a few seconds later from scrimmage and was fouled on the shot by Mahar. He converted to knot the count at 55-55 and 17 seconds from the buzzer substitute John Ripo swished the winning basket from past the foul line. It was a spectacular shot that sailed through the basket without touching the rim.

N.F.A. tried to move the ball upcourt but lost possession. The Blues regained it with eight seconds to go and froze it at midcourt until the clock ran out.

Big Ed Gabron and Jack Mahar were Newburgh's leading scorers with 12 points each.

Rigid Screening Of Pro Athletes Urged by Hershey

Washington, Feb. 7 (AP)—The nation's draft director said yesterday that professional athletes—and any other man with "two eyes, two arms and two legs"—should go through basic training before being excused from military service.

Maj. Gen Lewis B. Hershey was testifying before the House Armed Services Committee. He said he favors putting athletes through basic training to decide whether they would be physically qualified for at least "limited service."

The House committee has been conducting public hearings on a request from the Department of Defense for a universal military service and training (UMST) law which would drop the draft age from 19 to 18, extend draft service from 21 to 27 months and set up a long-range training program. It goes into closed session today to try to iron out differences among committeemen on the bill.

Secretary of Defense Marshall and his aides have told the committee 18-year-olds must be drafted if the nation is to reach its military manpower goal of 3,500,000 without drafting family men, veterans or men 26 years or older.

Armed services committeemen in both the House and the Senate have demonstrated considerable reluctance to draft boys of 18 if any other way can be found to fill out the services. Many have centered attention on the approximately 1,000,000 men in the present 18 through 25 draft age bracket who have been deferred as mentally or physically unfit. The congressmen say many of these could and should be recovered for at least limited service under lowered standards.

Draft Director Hershey said yesterday, and in previous testimony, that he agrees deferements are running too high. As an example, he pointed to men healthy and intelligent enough to complete in professional athletics who are considered ineligible for the armed services.

He blamed too-high standards set by the services. Under present draft law provisions, illustrating his point with the case of an unidentified professional football player, Hershey said the athlete was declared fit half a dozen times by his draft board only to be rejected by the armed forces. "He was hospitalized several times to see if he really had stomach ulcers," Hershey said.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

The elderly, distinguished-looking gentleman who sat alongside us in the West Point field house press box during the Army-Fordham basketball game proudly admitted that he was "Matty's father."

The old gent had reason to be proud of his famous offspring—the former St. John's Wonder Five center and a nationally recognized basketball official—Matty Begovich, who was working the game with Johnny Nucatola.

In between, Begovich has earned a law degree, served a wartime hitch with the F.B.I. and coached baseball and basketball for 16 years at John Marshall College. Next to Pat Kenedy, he is perhaps the best known college referee in the East.

● He Remembered Kingston:

Did Papa Begovich remember Kingston, N. Y.?

"Certainly I do, how can I ever forget it," he said. "My boy pitched in a special game up there many years ago for one of the town teams. Let me see, what was that name?

"Crystal Gardens?"

"Yes," he continued, "I guess that was it. I know they called Matty up and told him they had a big game in the local league up there and wanted him to pitch. They gave him a good price, too."

Papa Begovich was referring, of course, to that tremendous City League series between Harry Sill's Crystal Gardens and Jimmy Morgan's Repealers. Sills grabbed Begovich, who was a star pitcher at St. John's and might have been a major league star had he chosen baseball instead of professional basketball.

Jimmy Morgan looked longingly across the Hudson into Dutchess county and came up with Specs Ellis, the Millbrook Squire who was the greatest pitcher of that era in these parts.

Ellis beat Begovich in one of those Saturday afternoon City League classics when the twilight league was at its competitive peak. Nobody beat Ellis in the clutch in those days.

● The Understanding Trooper:

"I remember that day very well for another reason," Papa Begovich explained. "On my way up from New Jersey where we live, one of your state troopers gave me a ticket for speeding.

"I tried to talk him out of it and he kept reminding me that the New Jersey patrol was pretty tough on New York motorists. (Ed. Note: Have they changed?) He asked me where I was going and I told him I was headed toward Kingston to see my son pitch in a big game. He remembered having read something about Matty with the Wonder Five and he gave me a break."

"Matty could have been just as great in baseball as in basketball until the weight problem began to catch up with him," the old gent recalled. "But he liked basketball and you know he later played with most of his St. John's boys with that team called the Brooklyn Jewels."

"Yes," we said, "that was quite a collection of characters . . . Mac Kinsbrunner, Allie Shuckman, Matty, and that screwball, Rip Gerson.

"That Gerson was a screwball in some ways, to be sure," added Papa Begovich, "but he was a great play maker and team man."

● Game Is Running Wild:

The conversation drifted toward the inevitable comparison of the old pro style of basketball with the modern, fire house calfskin madness.

"The whole game has gone wild," our newly found friend sighed. "Now they make as many points in a quarter as the old timers did in a whole game.

"Why, I remember one night Matty scored 40 points for his high school team and the papers played it up for a week. Now it's nothing. That big fellow, Mikan, scores that many on a bad night."

The National Sportsmen's Show opens on Saturday, Feb. 17, at Grand Central Palace and will run for eight days. There will be many excellent exhibits for outdoor lovers with daily performances by Sharkey, the wonder seal who earned his degree at Mark Huling's college in Kingston.

National Wildlife Week is March 18-24. Better take note, for human beings are becoming wilder and wilder.

How true! How true! This ditty is respectfully dedicated to our colleagues in the downtown Freeman office, who in these days of sleet and snow, know whereof we speak.

When Noah sailed the waters blue,
He had his troubles same as you.
For forty days he drove the ark,
Looking for a place to park.

Top Basketball Teams Keep Winning; Harvard Gives Columbia Big Scare

New York, Feb. 7 (AP)—Six of the top ten basketball teams in the land registered expected victories last night, but not before half of them experienced some rough going.

Columbia, Bradley and St. Louis were hard pressed while St. John's, Villanova and North Carolina State breezed past weak opposition. Basketball's "Big Four" of Kentucky, Oklahoma A. & M., Indiana and Kansas State was idle.

Seventh-ranked St. Louis had the toughest time. The Billikens withstood a determined closing rally by Wichita to eke out a 49-48 victory. At one point St. Louis had held a 45-31 lead.

Bradley, No. 5 nationally, was hard-pressed for three quarters before turning on the steam to whip Houston, 60-47. The turning point came when Houston's center, Royce Ray, fouled out with 13 minutes to go. Elmer Behnke, with 14 points, paced Bradley's attack.

Lions Pressed

Sixth-rated Columbia, the only major unbeaten team in the country, made it 13 in a row with a 60-53 victory over Harvard. Harvard battled Columbia right to the end and only some freezing tactics by the winners held off the Crimson. Harvard was ahead, 32-29, at intermission, but with three minutes to go layups by Jack Molinas and John Azary turned the tide in favor of Columbia.

St. John's of Brooklyn, No. 7 in this week's Associated Press poll, warmed up for a brief road trip by ripping Kings Point, 86-52. The Redmen play John Carroll in Cleveland tonight, then travel to Buffalo for a tilt with Canisius on Saturday.

Villanova, No. 9, whipped Muhlenberg, 67-43, and North Carolina State, No. 10, blasted Temple, 86-58. N.C. State checked Temple's Bill Mlkvy with 18 points and the rest was easy. Sam Ranzino scored 23 points for the Wolfpack.

Larry Hennessey, Villanova's sophomore sparkplug, rimmed 26 points as the Wildcats rang up their 17th victory in 18 games.

CCNY continued its comeback with a 73-63 victory over Holy Cross.

Jockey Hurt

Arcadia, Calif., Feb. 7 (AP)—Jockey Ray York today joined a lengthening list of illustrious figures of the turf who have been sidelined or hurt during the current meeting at Santa Anita Park. York broke his collarbone in a fall yesterday and is through riding for at least the remainder of the Santa Anita meeting, which ends March 10.

Pesky Signs

Boston, Feb. 7 (AP)—The Red Sox said today Johnny Pesky, regular third baseman, had returned his signed contract for this year.

Potters and Angels Score in Y League

Heavenly Ones Shade Wiltwyck

Potter Brothers thumped Chez Emile, 92-68, and Harry's Angels won a 57-56 thriller over Wiltwyck Motors in last night's bracket of Y League basketball games.

After regaining the lead with a 27-10 bulge in the third period, the Angels barely stood off a late rush by the Motormen who held a 15-4 margin for the stretch run.

Potters breezed to a 22-9 quarter lead over Chez Emile and the issue was never in doubt. They led 40-22 at the half and picked up a 28-17 edge in the third quarter. Both clubs finished with a burst of scoring power.

The principal excitement came when Danny McGrane was banished from the game for pushing an official around after a couple of borderline out-of-bounds calls. The official boxscore failed to mention names of the referees who worked the game.

Big Jack Doyle continued his excellent play with 26 points for the Potters and Irving Peck hit for 20. Graybauer and Hughes shared 33 for the winners. Holstein swished 19 points for the Chezzies, with Thomas getting 14, Clark Mains 12 and Glaser 10.

See-Saw Battle

Wiltwycks led the Angels 21-13 at the quarter and 31-26 at halftime but Bud Scheffel and Eric Goercke collaborated to spark a 27-point period splurge by the Angels. That sent them ahead 53-41 going into the stretch. The Motormen rallied and Fink McElrath's deuce narrowed the gap to a point just before the final buzzer.

Andy Juhl and Scheffel each had 11 points for the Angels, with Goercke and Dunham tossing in 10 apiece. Haggerty of Wiltwycks was the individual scoring leader with 15 points and Big Bill Kleine tossed in 10.

Louis Sharp For Agramonte

Miami, Fla., Feb. 7 (AP)—Joe Louis, as trim-looking as the fearsome Brown Bomber of a decade ago, is favored to knock out Omelio Agramonte of Cuba in an early round tonight and move a step closer to a return title match with Ezzard Charles.

It is even money here that the 36-year-old former world heavyweight champion will stop the 190-pound Cuban in four rounds or less in their scheduled ten-round fight at Miami Stadium. The bout will not be broadcast or televised.

An attendance of 15,000 and gross gate of $50,000 was forecast by the promoters.

Joe expects to enter the ring tonight weighing between 207 and 208 pounds. That's just what he weighed for the second fight with Billy Conn in 1946 and Joe says he's in the best shape since that time.

Army Officials Want Athletics

New York, Feb. 7 (AP)—Robert Patterson, former Secretary of War, and Gen. Frederick A. Irving, West Point superintendent, are in favor of organized sports in times of national emergency.

They spoke last night at the Sports Broadcasters Dinner in the presence of other sports figures, including A. B. Chandler, commissioner of baseball, and George Trautman, head of the minor leagues.

"We are determined not to curtail our athletic program in any emergency," declared Irving. "In times of stress, such as these, I feel our athletic program helps fill a much needed form of recreation. We have found sports is essential to the training of character and that athletics develops the type of combat leadership that we need in men."

"My feeling throughout the Second World War," Patterson said, "was that organized sports was a most economical form of recreation. Here you have small groups of men, mostly over 35, who entertain thousands at the scene as well as many thousands more who hear the game on radio and see it on television. How can you beat that?

"We cannot have any group getting a free ride," Patterson continued. "Men will be called up, but I feel that sports is secure and that there will be no slackening of interest."

Sawyer Doesn't Expect Repeat

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 7 (AP)—Eddie Sawyer says he will be the most surprised man in baseball if his Philadelphia Phillies win the 1951 National League pennant.

The manager of the 1950 champions said last night that if the military draft is tough on the other clubs the St. Louis Cardinals should win the flag easily.

Sawyer said he is uncertain about his own club's chances, mainly because he doesn't know how hard the draft will hit the Phillies. He pointed out that only four of his players are over 28.

He said the Brooklyn Dodgers were the best National League team at the end of last season, and the New York Giants were good because they loved to play ball.

Sawyer spoke at the annual Hot Stove League session of the Albany Elks Club.

Chartered in 1789, the University of North Carolina is the oldest state university in the United States.

Potters and Angels Score in Y League

Heavenly Ones Shade Wiltwyck

Potter Brothers thumped Chez Emile, 92-68, and Harry's Angels won a 57-56 thriller over Wiltwyck Motors in last night's bracket of Y League basketball games.

After regaining the lead with a 27-10 bulge in the third period, the Angels barely stood off a late rush by the Motormen who held a 15-4 margin for the stretch run.

Potters breezed to a 22-9 quarter lead over Chez Emile and the issue was never in doubt. They led 40-22 at the half and picked up a 28-17 edge in the third quarter. Both clubs finished with a burst of scoring power.

The principal excitement came when Danny McGrane was banished from the game for pushing an official around after a couple of borderline out-of-bounds calls. The official boxscore failed to mention names of the referees who worked the game.

Big Jack Doyle continued his excellent play with 26 points for the Potters and Irving Peck hit for 20. Graybauer and Hughes shared 33 for the winners. Holstein swished 19 points for the Chezzies, with Thomas getting 14, Clark Mains 12 and Glaser 10.

See-Saw Battle

Wiltwycks led the Angels 21-13 at the quarter and 31-26 at halftime but Bud Scheffel and Eric Goercke collaborated to spark a 27-point period splurge by the Angels. That sent them ahead 53-41 going into the stretch. The Motormen rallied and Fink McElrath's deuce narrowed the gap to a point just before the final buzzer.

Andy Juhl and Scheffel each had 11 points for the Angels, with Goercke and Dunham tossing in 10 apiece. Haggerty of Wiltwycks was the individual scoring leader with 16 points and Big Bill Kleine tossed in 10.

Louis Sharp For Agramonte

Miami, Fla., Feb. 7 (AP)—Joe Louis, as trim-looking as the fearsome Brown Bomber of a decade ago, is favored to knock out Omelio Agramonte of Cuba in an early round tonight and move a step closer to a return title match with Ezzard Charles.

It is even money here that the 36-year-old former world heavyweight champion will stop the 190-pound Cuban in four rounds or less in their scheduled ten-round fight at Miami Stadium. The bout will not be broadcast or televised.

An attendance of 15,000 and gross gate of $50,000 was forecast by the promoters.

Joe expects to enter the ring tonight weighing between 207 and 208 pounds. That's just what he weighed for the second fight with Billy Conn in 1946 and Joe says he's in the best shape since that time.

IRISH ATHLETES APPLY FOR AIR FORCE

Army Officials Want Athletics

New York, Feb. 7 (AP)—Robert Patterson, former Secretary of War, and Gen. Frederick A. Irving, West Point superintendent, are in favor of organized sports in times of national emergency.

They spoke last night at the Sports Broadcasters Dinner in the presence of other sports figures, including A. B. Chandler, commissioner of baseball, and George Trautman, head of the minor leagues.

"We are determined not to curtail our athletic program in any emergency," declared Irving. "In times of stress, such as these, I feel our athletic program helps fill a much needed form of recreation. We have found sports is essential to the training of character and that athletics develops the type of combat leadership that we need in men."

"My feeling throughout the Second World War," Patterson said, "was that organized sports was a most economical form of recreation. Here you have small groups of men, mostly over 35, who entertain thousands at the scene as well as many thousands more who hear the game on radio and see it on television. How can you beat that?

"We cannot have any group getting a free ride," Patterson continued. "Men will be called up, but I feel that sports is secure and that there will be no slackening of interest."

Sawyer Doesn't Expect Repeat

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 7 (AP)—Eddie Sawyer says he will be the most surprised man in baseball if his Philadelphia Phillies win the 1951 National League pennant.

The manager of the 1950 champions said last night that if the military draft is tough on the other clubs the St. Louis Cardinals should win the flag easily.

Sawyer said he is uncertain about his own club's chances, mainly because he doesn't know how hard the draft will hit the Phillies. He pointed out that only four of his players are over 25.

He said the Brooklyn Dodgers were the best National League team at the end of last season, and the New York Giants were good because they loved to play ball.

Sawyer spoke at the annual Hot Stove League session of the Albany Elks Club.

Chartered in 1789, the University of North Carolina is the oldest state university in the United States.

Preakness Draws 64 Eligibles

Baltimore, Feb. 7 (AP)—Sixty-four of the country's top three-year olds are eligible to enter the $50,000-added Preakness Stakes set for May 19 at Pimlico, the Maryland Jockey Club announced today.

At the top of the heap are Battlefield and Big Stretch, impressive sophomores last year. Missing from the list is Uncle Miltie, an early favorite for three-year-old honors this year, but he still can be entered as a supplementary nomination.

Battlefield stood out in last summer's campaigning with victories in the Hialeah Juvenile, the Youthful Tremont, Sapling and Hopeful Stakes as well as the Saratoga Special and the Belmont Futurity.

Big Stretch was an impressive second to Battlefield in the Belmont Futurity and drew a big following by taking the mile and a sixteenth Pimlico Futurity after encountering interference twice.

Only one filly was nominated for this running. It was Belair Stud's Vulcania, second in the Demoiselle and The Selima last fall to Duval Headley's champion two-year-old filly, Aunt Jimmy.

The Preakness, bracketed by the Kentucky Derby and the Belmont Stakes to make up the traditional triple crown, carries only half the pocket money as do its running mates.

The derby, to be run two weeks earlier on May 5, was the only $100,000 race for three-year-olds in the east last year when the Belmont was cut to $75,000. This year, however, the Belmont will be restored to the $100,000 figure when it is run about the middle of June.

Said He Was in Love

Toronto, Feb. 7 (AP)—A tall, shabbily-dressed man who said he was "madly in love" with Barbara Ann Scott tried to force his way into the former world champion skater's apartment here last night. The man, 32-year-old Joseph Maconse of Quebec, was arrested and charged with trespassing and assault. He managed to get his foot inside the Scott's door—which Barbara Ann's mother opened to a ring—but other tenants were around and held him until police arrived.

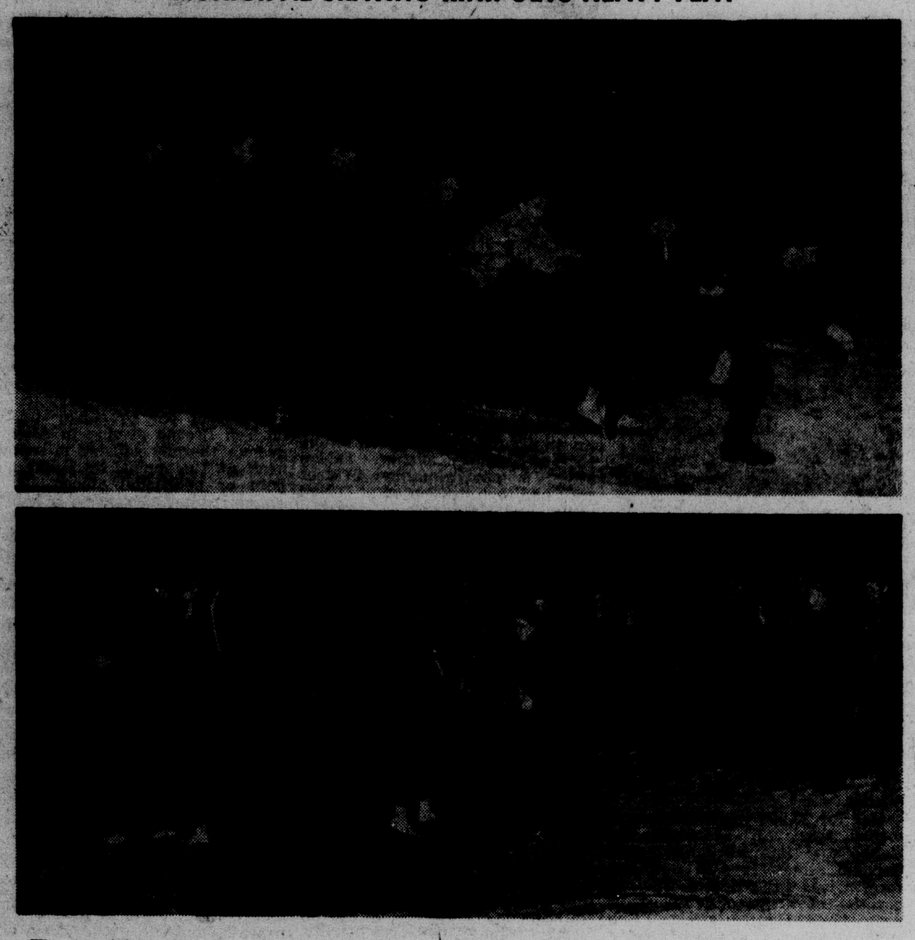
MUNICIPAL SKATING RINK GETS HEAVY PLAY



The municipal skating rink near the Myron J. Michael School on Andrew street is getting a heavy play from local skaters, young and old, the Department of Recreation reported today. The rink, operated by the department, is lighted until 10 p. m. nightly, has a heated building for changing from street shoes to skates and has an attendant present at all times. One of the photos shows a group of youngsters cutting capers with familiar dance routines on skates. (Freeman Photo)

Plans Started to Keep Control From Regents

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 7 (AP)—The Dewey administration drafted plans today to make the State University's temporary board of trustees permanent and prevent the State Board of Regents from gaining control of the 33-unit system.

Reliable sources predicted that action would come during the current session of the Legislature.

The Mahoney Legislative Commission to coordinate state activities is drafting recommendations that the Board of Regents be reorganized and its administrative powers delegated to the state education commissioner. The Regents, under this plan, would become essentially a planning and policy-making body.

The Regents, governing body of the state educational system, have bitterly resented broad powers granted the 15 temporary trustees appointed by Governor Dewey under the state university law in 1948.

During the 1949 legislative session, the Regents waged an all-out battle to gain control of the State University, but lost the fight to the Dewey administration.

The board of trustees was established as a temporary unit and all members' terms expire July 1, 1954.

Informed sources said today the administration was planning to act now to make the board permanent as an administrative unit, rather than wait until 1953 or 1954.

29 More Veterans Plead Guilty in School Fraud

New York, Feb. 7 (AP)—A second group of veterans—numbering 29—pleaded guilty yesterday before Federal Judge Irving R. Kaufman to charges of conspiracy to defraud the Veterans Administration of $200,000 in the operation of the Grow System Beauty School, 112 West 42nd street.

This brought to 59 the total of those who have pleaded guilty, out of 199 former servicemen indicted with five principals of the school. Last Thursday, 30 veterans pleaded guilty.

Irving Rader, court-appointed attorney for ten of the former servicemen, told Judge Kaufman that the defendants indicated that they wanted to make restitution.

Because most of the defendants appeared without attorneys, the court also appointed Martin Erdmann of the Legal Aid Society, along with Radar to advise those not represented.

Glenn Davis to Wed Young Film Actress

Hollywood, Feb. 7 (AP) — Football star Glenn Davis and rising young movie star Terry Moore are going to be married Friday night in Glendale.

Although they met two years ago at a party for Jane Powell, their announcement yesterday came as a surprise. They have been dating frequently only in the last three months.

Davis was an All-America halfback at West Point and starred last season with the Los Angeles Rams, national Pro Conference champions.

Miss Moore, born Helen Koford in Los Angeles, had starred in six movies at Columbia Studio, which signed her while she was a student at University of California at Los Angeles. She has been in movies since she was 11, however, and has been a cover girl model for 20 magazines.

Davis is 26, Miss Moore 21, and neither has been married before. Davis spends his time between football seasons in the oil business. He and his bride will live here.

Chapeau Troubles

Cairo (AP)—A committee designing a new statue of Mohammed Ali The Great, founder of modern Egypt, is studying historical records to see whether he wore a tarbouche or a turban while riding horseback. A turban is a wrap-around headdress. A tarbouche is similar to a fez. Results of the research have not yet been announced.

Newburgh Workers Ask Shorter Week

Employes of six city departments in Newburgh are requesting a reduction in working hours, according to the Newburgh News, at an estimated annual cost of $73,000.

Members of the police, water, street, park and recreation departments have petitioned the city council for a 40-hour week and the fire department is seeking to have its week reduced from 72 hours to 56 hours.

Brand Your Garbage Pail

It is a good idea in neighborhoods where garbage pails are set at the curb to paint them. If you pick a color which harmonizes with your house, and paint your initials inside the pail, there should be no mistake.

Preakness Draws 64 Eligibles

Baltimore, Feb. 7 (AP)—Sixty-four of the country's top three-year olds are eligible to enter the $50,000-added Preakness Stakes set for May 19 at Pimlico, the Maryland Jockey Club announced today.

At the top of the heap are Battlefield and Big Stretch, impressive sophomores last year. Missing from the list is Uncle Miltie, an early favorite for three-year-old honors this year, but he still can be entered as a supplementary nomination.

Battlefield stood out in last summer's campaigning with victories in the Hialeah Juvenile, the Youthful Tremont, Sapling and Hopeful Stakes as well as the Saratoga Special and the Belmont Futurity.

Big Stretch was an impressive second to Battlefield in the Belmont Futurity and drew a big following by taking the mile and a sixteenth Pimlico Futurity after encountering interference twice.

Only one filly was nominated for this running. It was Belair Stud's Vulcania, second in the Demoiselle and The Selima last fall to Duval Headley's champion two-year-old filly, Aunt Jimmy.

The Preakness, bracketed by the Kentucky Derby and the Belmont Stakes to make up the traditional triple crown, carries only half the pocket money as do its running mates.

The derby, to be run two weeks earlier on May 5, was the only $100,000 race for three-year-olds in the east last year when the Belmont was cut to $75,000. This year, however, the Belmont will be restored to the $100,000 figure when it is run about the middle of June.

Said He Was in Love

Toronto, Feb. 7 (AP) — A tall, shabbily-dressed man who said he was "madly in love" with Barbara Ann Scott tried to force his way into the former world champion skater's apartment here last night. The man, 32-year-old Joseph Maconse of Quebec, was arrested and charged with trespassing and assault. He managed to get his foot inside the Scott's door—which Barbara Ann's mother opened to a ring—but other tenants were around and held him until police arrived.

MUNICIPAL SKATING RINK GETS HEAVY PLAY

The municipal skating rink near the Myron J. Michael School on Andrew street is getting a heavy play from local skaters, young and old, the Department of Recreation reported today. The rink, operated by the department, is lighted until 10 p. m. nightly, has a heated building for changing from street shoes to skates and has an attendant present at all times. One of the photos shows a group of youngsters cutting capers with familiar dance routines on skates. (Freeman Photo)

Plans Started to Keep Control From Regents

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 7 (AP)—The Dewey administration drafted plans today to make the State University's temporary board of trustees permanent and prevent the State Board of Regents from gaining control of the 33-unit system.

Reliable sources predicted that action would come during the current session of the Legislature.

The move well might be the second blow in a one-two punch at the Regents from Capitol Hill.

The Mahoney Legislative Commission to coordinate state activities is drafting recommendations that the Board of Regents be reorganized and its administrative powers delegated to the state education commissioner. The Regents, under this plan, would become essentially a planning and policy-making body.

The Regents, governing body of the state educational system, have bitterly resented broad powers granted the 15 temporary trustees appointed by Governor Dewey under the state university law in 1948.

During the 1949 legislative session, the Regents waged an all-out battle to gain control of the State University, but lost the fight to the Dewey administration.

The board of trustees was established as a temporary unit and all members' terms expire July 1, 1954.

Informed sources said today the administration was planning to act now to make the board permanent as an administrative unit, rather than wait until 1953 or 1954.

29 More Veterans Plead Guilty in School Fraud

New York, Feb. 7 (AP)—A second group of veterans—numbering 29—pleaded guilty yesterday before Federal Judge Irving R. Kaufman to charges of conspiracy to defraud the Veterans Administration of $200,000 in the operation of the Grow System Beauty School, 112 West 42nd street.

This brought to 59 the total of those who have pleaded guilty, out of 199 former servicemen indicted with five principals of the school. Last Thursday, 30 veterans pleaded guilty.

Irving Rader, court-appointed attorney for ten of the former servicemen, told Judge Kaufman that the defendants indicated that they wanted to make restitution.

Because most of the defendants appeared without attorneys, the court also appointed Martin Erdmann of the Legal Aid Society, along with Radar to advise those not represented.

Judge Kaufman did not set a sentence date.

Glenn Davis to Wed Young Film Actress

Hollywood, Feb. 7 (AP) — Football star Glenn Davis and rising young movie star Terry Moore are going to be married Friday night in Glendale.

Although they met two years ago at a party for Jane Powell, their announcement yesterday came as a surprise. They have been dating frequently only in the last three months.

Davis was an All-America halfback at West Point and starred last season with the Los Angeles Rams, national Pro Conference champions.

Miss Moore, born Helen Koford in Los Angeles, had starred in six movies at Columbia Studio, which signed her while she was a student at University of California at Los Angeles. She has been in movies since she was 11, however, and has been a cover girl model for 20 magazines.

Davis is 26, Miss Moore 21, and neither has been married before. Davis spends his time between football seasons in the oil business. He and his bride will live here.

Chapeau Troubles

Cairo (AP)—A committee designing a new statue of Mohammed Ali The Great, founder of modern Egypt, is studying historical records to see whether he wore a tarbouche or a turban while riding horseback. A turban is a wrap-around headdress. A tarbouche is similar to a fez. Results of the research have not yet been announced.

Newburgh Workers Ask Shorter Week

Employes of six city departments in Newburgh are requesting a reduction in working hours, according to the Newburgh News, at an estimated annual cost of $73,000.

Members of the police, water, street, park and recreation departments have petitioned the city council for a 40-hour week and the fire department is seeking to have its week reduced from 72 hours to 56 hours.

Brand Your Garbage Pail

It is a good idea in neighborhoods where garbage pails are set at the curb to paint them. If you pick a color which harmonizes with your house, and paint your initials inside the pail, there should be no mistake.

Preakness Draws 64 Eligibles

Baltimore, Feb. 7 (AP)—Sixty-four of the country's top three-year olds are eligible to enter the $50,000-added Preakness Stakes set for May 19 at Pimlico, the Maryland Jockey Club announced today.

At the top of the heap are Battlefield and Big Stretch, impressive sophomores last year. Missing from the list is Uncle Miltie, an early favorite for three-year-old honors this year, but he still can be entered as a supplementary nomination.

Battlefield stood out in last summer's campaigning with victories in the Hialeah Juvenile, the Youthful Tremont, Sapling and Hopeful Stakes as well as the Saratoga Special and the Belmont Futurity.

Big Stretch was an impressive second to Battlefield in the Belmont Futurity and drew a big following by taking the mile and a sixteenth Pimlico Futurity after encountering interference twice.

Only one filly was nominated for this running. It was Belair Stud's Vulcania, second in the Demoiselle and The Selima last fall to Duval Headley's champion two-year-old filly, Aunt Jimmy.

The Preakness, bracketed by the Kentucky Derby and the Belmont Stakes to make up the traditional triple crown, carries only half the pocket money as do its running mates.

The derby, to be run two weeks earlier on May 5, was the only $100,000 race for three-year-olds in the east last year when the Belmont was cut to $75,000. This year, however, the Belmont will be restored to the $100,000 figure when it is run about the middle of June.

Said He Was in Love

Toronto, Feb. 7 (AP)—A tall, shabbily-dressed man who said he was "madly in love" with Barbara Ann Scott tried to force his way into the former world champion skater's apartment here last night. The man, 32-year-old Joseph Maconse of Quebec, was arrested and charged with trespassing and assault. He managed to get his foot inside the Scott's door—which Barbara Ann's mother opened to a ring—but other tenants were around and held him until police arrived.

MUNICIPAL SKATING RINK GETS HEAVY PLAY

The municipal skating rink near the Myron J. Michael School on Andrew street is getting a heavy play from local skaters, young and old, the Department of Recreation reported today. The rink, operated by the department, is lighted until 10 p. m. nightly, has a heated building for changing from street shoes to skates and has an attendant present at all times. One of the photos shows a group of youngsters cutting capers with familiar dance routines on skates. (Freeman Photo)

Plans Started to Keep Control From Regents

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 7 (AP)—The Dewey administration drafted plans today to make the State University's temporary board of trustees permanent and prevent the State Board of Regents from gaining control of the 33-unit system.

Reliable sources predicted that action would come during the current session of the Legislature.

The move well might be the second blow in a one-two punch at the Regents from Capitol Hill.

The Mahoney Legislative Commission to coordinate state activities is drafting recommendations that the Board of Regents be reorganized and its administrative powers delegated to the state education commissioner. The Regents, under this plan, would become essentially a planning and policy-making body.

The Regents, governing body of the state educational system, have bitterly resented broad powers granted the 15 temporary trustees appointed by Governor Dewey under the state university law in 1948.

During the 1949 legislative session, the Regents waged an all-out battle to gain control of the State University, but lost the fight to the Dewey administration.

The board of trustees was established as a temporary unit and all members' terms expire July 1, 1954.

Informed sources said today the administration was planning to act now to make the board permanent as an administrative unit, rather than wait until 1953 or 1954.

29 More Veterans Plead Guilty in School Fraud

New York, Feb. 7 (AP)—A second group of veterans—numbering 29—pleaded guilty yesterday before Federal Judge Irving R. Kaufman to charges of conspiracy to defraud the Veterans Administration of $200,000 in the operation of the Grow System Beauty School, 112 West 42nd street.

This brought to 59 the total of those who have pleaded guilty, out of 199 former servicemen indicted with five principals of the school. Last Thursday, 30 veterans pleaded guilty.

Irving Rader, court-appointed attorney for ten of the former servicemen, told Judge Kaufman that the defendants indicated that they wanted to make restitution.

Because most of the defendants appeared without attorneys, the court also appointed Martin Erdmann of the Legal Aid Society, along with Radar to advise those not represented.

Judge Kaufman did not set a sentence date.

Glenn Davis to Wed Young Film Actress

Hollywood, Feb. 7 (AP) — Football star Glenn Davis and rising young movie star Terry Moore are going to be married Friday night in Glendale.

Although they met two years ago at a party for Jane Powell, their announcement yesterday came as a surprise. They have been dating frequently only in the last three months.

Davis was an All-America halfback at West Point and starred last season with the Los Angeles Rams, national Pro Conference champions.

Miss Moore, born Helen Koford in Los Angeles, had starred in six movies at Columbia Studio, which signed her while she was a student at University of California at Los Angeles. She has been in movies since she was 11, however, and has been a cover girl model for 20 magazines.

Davis is 26, Miss Moore 21, and neither has been married before. Davis spends his time between football seasons in the oil business. He and his bride will live here.

Chapeau Troubles

Cairo (AP)—A committee designing a new statue of Mohammed Ali The Great, founder of modern Egypt, is studying historical records to see whether he wore a tarbouche or a turban while riding horseback. A turban is a wrap-around headdress. A tarbouche is similar to a fez. Results of the research have not yet been announced.

Newburgh Workers Ask Shorter Week

Employes of six city departments in Newburgh are requesting a reduction in working hours, according to the Newburgh News, at an estimated annual cost of $73,000.

Members of the police, water, street, park and recreation departments have petitioned the city council for a 40-hour week and the fire department is seeking to have its week reduced from 72 hours to 56 hours.

Brand Your Garbage Pail

It is a good idea in neighborhoods where garbage pails are set at the curb to paint them. If you pick a color which harmonizes with your house, and paint your initials inside the pail, there should be no mistake.

Pastor Observes 10th Anniversary

300 Pay Tribute To Gollnick at Anniversary Fete

Approximately 300 parishioners, friends and guests of Trinity Lutheran Church gathered Tuesday night in the spacious church auditorium to honor the church pastor, the Rev. Frank Lawrence Gollnick on completion of 10 years service with the church.

The Rev. Frederick R. Knubel, D.D., L.L.D., president of the United Lutheran Synod, guest speaker at the dinner, announced during his eloquent address that the Rev. Mr. Gollnick would be honored this year with the degree of doctor of divinity from Wagner College, Staten Island.

In introducing the Rev. Dr. Knubel, Oscar J. Lawatsch, council president, said tonight we have with us a great Christian Lutheran leader, who entered the ministry in our synod. Although a very busy man, pressed for time to meet the many demands placed upon him, he graciously consented to join us tonight.

We wish to congratulate him on serving 30 years in our synod and welcome here.

Invocation Given

Preceding the serving of the delicious dinner, the Rev. David C. Gaise, pastor of Redeemer Church, pronounced the invocation. During the serving of the meal, Mrs. Willard Burke led the asemblage in singing with Roger Baer at the Hammond organ.

Oscar J. Lawatsch, president of the Church Council, welcomed the gathering and read a letter from Senator Arthur H. Wicks who expressed his deep regret at being unable to be present because of official business.

The senator offered his sincere congratulations to the officers and to the members of the congregation upon their wise and gracious recognition of the faithful and loyal service of the Rev. Mr. Gollnick during his pastorate. "The dinner," he wrote, "you are planning in his honor will be a well-merited tribute given in true Christian spirit to a devoted and effective disciple of Christ."

Congratulations Extended

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk extended his congratulations to the Rev. and Mrs. Gollnick and to the congregation and spoke of the many worthwhile civic enterprises for the betterment of the entire city and its people in which the Rev. Mr. Gollnick gave so generously of his time.

President Lawatsch then introduced the guests which included Police Chief Raymond Van Buren, Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy, District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn, William Geary, captain of the fire department; Patrolman Edward Leonard, Mr. and Mrs. Ben M. Ashton, Fred Van Deusen, County Treasurer John T. Groves, Coroner Ernest Kelly and Louis R. Netter.

Paul Terpening and Fred Ahlers, past presidents, were presented and the Rev. Mr. Gaise brought congratulations from his church.

A letter of congratulations also was read from Herman LaTour, president of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church.

During the program, Philip Paradi entertained with his vibra harp and Fred Van Deusen with his tricks of magic.

On behalf of the pastor, Lawatsch acknowledged baskets of flowers from the paid fire department, baskets of flowers from the Ladies' Aid, center piece of rosebuds from Edward H. Albrecht and a 10th anniversary cake from Friedel's Bakery.

Council Gives Song

A highlight of the evening entertainment was a song by members of the church council comprised of Elmer Rylance, Herman Osmers, Fred Paulus, Charles Baxter, Ralph Finnigan, Richard Priepke, Robert Schwenk, Henry Rose, Frank Doyle, Jr., George Zellmer, Oscar J. Lawatsch and William Pieper. The theme of their song was to express how the church council felt with Pastor Gollnick as their leader. The song was "Pack Up Your Troubles in Your Old Kit Bag."

Past President Fred Ahlers briefly reviewed the record of achievements in the church since the pastorate of the Rev. Mr. Gollnick.

On behalf of the congregation, President Lawatsch presented the pastor with a handsome watch. His presentation remarks follow: Folks, you have all heard about our persistent pastor. It is his persistence and good sermons that have enriched our lives, reached down in our hearts, made us better church members, better givers to benevolences and our church, better neighbors. His persistence and genial disposition have won him many friends. Our congregation has known about his persistence for a long time, but only recently one of the newspapers thought it was front page news.

In fond remembrance of the past 10 years, on behalf of our congregation, I present to you this token of our appreciation of your good work among us.

Pastor Gollnick expressed his profound gratitude and grateful love and paid tribute to his wife.

Common Council

James to Greenkill avenue, $8,000. Most of the others are smaller projects.

Ernest A. Steuding, public works superintendent in his report on the proposed program, said not all of the streets listed, "but a substantial number," can be done during the summer construction season." He stressed also, that because "contingency cost" is included in the estimates, some of the streets will probably be done at costs less than the estimates.

Asks No Restrictions

The request asked that no restrictions be placed on the number or idenity of the streets listed, so that the department could proceed "as conditions and finances permit." The money, he said, is to be used only for reconstruction and not maintenance.

The report on equipment stressed that "increasing scarcity of strategic materials for industry and defense," makes it currently important that worn equipment be replaced and other needed equipment purchased.

Among items listed were two road graders, a sanding and scraping vehicle, a cleaning machine, machinist's shop lathe, a utility vehicle, small truck, and precision office machines.

Fire Department Funds Asked

The request for the new fire trucks, filed by Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy, as clerk of the Board of Fire Commissioners, asked for $20,000 for two trucks to replace the one at Rapid Hose Company and that at Cordts Hose Company.

The trucks are needed, the report said, "to replace worn out equipment and to enable the fire department to furnish the best possible fire protection for the City of Kingston." Repairs to the old equipment, it said, would be costly.

A report from the B.P.W. to Alderman Storms as chairman of the traffic committee, said the city "cannot convert the present two-way traffic lights into three-way lights under the present setup because of the way these lights are installed. The cost would be more than that for new lights."

Aldermen Edwin Radel and John Buboltz had asked in a November resolution that money be included in the budget for installing amber caution lights in each present traffic light and in all future lights.

Bus Service Asked

The request for consideration of bus service for the First and Third avenues and Ulster street area by Mayor Newkirk said that requests had been made to his office for the service, and he asked the council's railroad and bus committee to investigate the need and take the necessary steps to obtain bus service for the people of that area.

The Outdoor Meter Advertising Devices Inc., 19 East 48th street, which said it does business on a nationwide scale, said by letter that it was informed that it had learned that the Parking Meter Advertising Sales Co, of New York, had discontinued its operation in Kingston, and it offered a contract with a larger revenue.

Asks End of Contract

A letter dated Jan. 31, by the Parking Meter Advertising Sales Co., of New York, signed by D. J. Perlmutter, president, said the corporation had "decided to discontinue and asks that the contract with the city be abrogated."

The concern asking for the new contract said it could guarantee $1 per meter per month with use of at least one-third of the meters. (The former plan brought the city about $150 a month. There are about 700 meters in the city).

Vetoes Legislation

Mayor Newkirk informed the council by letter that he had vetoed recent legislation on the application of the DeForest Shaver bus line to operate over city streets, because a public hearing had not been held, and one would be necessary. The line operates between points in the towns of Esopus and Rosendale and the city.

A letter from the mayor announcing the reappointment for three years of Augustus S. Brinnier, 77 Linderman avenue, to the City Planning Commission, was read and filed.

Three claims filed against the city were referred to the corporation counsel and auditing committee.

One for $5,000 was filed by Attorney Chris J. Flanagan for Goldie and Samuel Jamison, 61 German street. It said that the former was injured last Dec. 11 because of a defective sidewalk near 46-48 Hunter street. She suffered injuries of the left knee and leg, back and other parts of the body, the claim said.

Another claim, for $2,000 was filed by Attorney Bernard A. Culloton for Mrs. Julia Messing, 64 Foxhall avenue, and is for injuries, which the claimant said were suffered last Jan. 11 when she fell on the sidewalk in front of the municipal barn on East O'Reilly street. She suffered back and knee injuries and broke her glasses, the claim said.

Ella Leverenz, who gave no address, mentioned no amount, but said in her letter that she fell while on her way to work recently on Locust avenue, suffering injuries of the head and other after effects.

Delegation Attends

A delegation from the College Women's Club, Mrs. Albert Kurdt, Mrs. Robert Groves and Mrs. Charles Forst, attended the session as observers and were invited by Alderman-at-large Joseph Kelly to sit on the rostrum where they could better hear the proceedings. They were introduced by 12th Ward Alderman Robert C. Cullum.

A resolution by Alderman Radel asked a study by the traffic committee and a report in March on a condition on Hasbrouck avenue, between Foxhall avenue and East O'Reilly street. The section is congested with unlimited parking, and the block contains several businesses which need access to parking facilities. Residents are also denied access to driveways because of all-day parking, he said.

Ninth Ward Alderman Paul J. Schatzel introduced three resolutions, which were referred to the traffic committee.

One asked for a study of a parking problem on Broadway between Foxhall avenue and Staples street, and said that "after consideration of the needs of business men and residents of the area, a report be made to the council recommending a suitable plan for elimination of the congestion.

Schatzel also asked for a study of the problem on West O'Reilly street near Broadway and a report to the council with a plan for eliminating a "one-way traffic situation" there, and he asked that an area of 60-feet from Broadway on the south side of Staples street be marked as a "no parking" zone.

The council recessed until Feb. 20 on motion of Alderman Bruck, chairman of the finance committee, after the committee had apparently failed to agree on immediate action on the $145,000 B.P.W. appropriation, and before adjournment, on motion of First Ward Alderman Hirschell Mayes, the council stood for a moment's silence in tribute to the late City Historian William C. DeWitt.

City Detour . . .

Intersections Considered

Consideration must be given to the number of intersections involved in any route detour. Grand street from Broadway to Smith avenue has no intersection by which traffic crosses Grand street. Traffic proceeding between Grand street and Cornell street has no intersection by which traffic crosses Smith avenue. Cornell street between Broadway and Smith avenue has no intersection by which traffic crosses Cornell street. Traffic proceeding on Smith avenue from Grand street to O'Neil street does have the intersection of Cornell street. O'Neil street between Broadway and Smith avenue has one intersection, that of Tremper avenue. O'Neil street is approximately 49 feet wide and the intersection at O'Neil street and Broadway is protcted by traffic signals which make it convenient for motorists to enter Broadway.

Consideration must also be given to keeping traffic as much as possible into business and industrial areas, thereby causing as little disturbance as possible to thickly residential areas. No detour system can completely eliminate traffic in residential areas, but the existing system does it better than any other system suggested. Traffic flowing through residential areas increases the hazard to children. The reason for the one-way street on Smith avenue between Downs street and O'Neil street is (1) to keep traffic from flowing on Smith avenue to Albany avenue over the hazardous intersections of Smith avenue and Downs street and Smith avenue and Elmendorf street and (2) to divert traffic as much as possible away from No. 6 School. Many children cross Smith avenue to go to the corner store at O'Neil street and Smith avenue and this was an additional reason for the one way street on Smith avenue between O'Neil and Downs streets.

In addition, if traffic were to flow over Smith avenue to Albany avenue, it is very probable that there would be necessitated the cost of additional police protection at one of the intersections such as Albany avenue and Smith avenue, or Downs street and Smith avenue.

Would Cross More

Under the plan of using Smith avenue and Ten Broeck avenue as one way streets, more intersections would be crossed and there would be a heavier flow of traffic through the residential areas increasing the possibility of a child being hit by a motorist.

If Ten Broeck avenue were to be used as a one way street, it would be logical to run it one-way from Foxhall avenue to Albany avenue which would involve crossing a number of bad intersections, and also make it necessary to divert all of the Broadway traffic on Ten Broeck avenue to Albany avenue thereby causing a bottleneck at this point, or additional light or additional officer. This system would also divert a heavy flow of traffic into two bad intersections, namely, East St. James street and Albany avenue and Albany avenue and Broadway.

The proposal to use Smith avenue and Ten Broeck avenue for one way traffic would increase the cost of police protection.

It is planned to improve the existing detour by traffic signals at Smith avenue and Grand street and Smith avenue and Cornell street. They have been ordered. When the light at Smith avenue and Grand street is installed the city anticipates using an officer only at peak load periods such as from 8 to 9 a. m.; 4:30 to 5:30 p. m. and when otherwise necessary.

Consideration for Business

Consideration should be given also to the overwhelming sentiment of the business men of the central business area. They desire traffic kept in their area as much as possible and not officially diverted from their places of business. The central business area must temporarily suffer because of the crossing elimination. The state does not give any compensation for business damage. A detour plan should not further drive business traffic away from the central business area.

We wish to point out also that what we are considering is the official detour, over which the main volume of traffic flows. Many of our local residents are now using Foxhall avenue, Manor avenue and Ten Broeck avenue. This they have a right to do. We urge all using these streets, however, to drive with the greatest caution.

We ask the public to consider the problem with patience and understanding. For many years the people of the city clamored for an elimination of the Broadway crossing. Now that work on the project has become a reality, we must suffer temporary inconvenience. It is a price of progress.

We recommend a continuance of the existing detour system.

Respectfully submitted,
BENJAMIN A. STORMS
Chairman

300 Pay Tribute To Gollnick at Anniversary Fete

Approximately 300 parishioners, friends and guests of Trinity Lutheran Church gathered Tuesday night in the spacious church auditorium to honor the church pastor, the Rev. Frank Lawrence Gollnick on completion of 10 years service with the church.

The Rev. Frederick R. Knubel, D.D., L.L.D., president of the United Lutheran Synod, guest speaker at the dinner, announced during his eloquent address that the Rev. Mr. Gollnick would be honored this year with the degree of doctor of divinity from Wagner College, Staten Island.

In introducing the Rev. Dr. Knubel, Oscar J. Lawatsch, council president, said tonight we have with us a great Christian Lutheran leader, who entered the ministry in our synod. Although a very busy man, pressed for time to meet the many demands placed upon him, he graciously consented to join us tonight.

We wish to congratulate him on serving 30 years in our synod and welcome here.

Invocation Given

Preceding the serving of the delicious dinner, the Rev. David C. Gaise, pastor of Redeemer Church, pronounced the invocation. During the serving of the meal, Mrs. Willard Burke led the assemblage in singing with Roger Baer at the Hammond organ.

Oscar J. Lawatsch, president of the Church Council, welcomed the gathering and read a letter from Senator Arthur H. Wicks who expressed his deep regret at being unable to be present because of official business.

The senator offered his sincere congratulations to the officers and to the members of the congregation upon their wise and gracious recognition of the faithful and loyal service of the Rev. Mr. Gollnick during his pastorate. "The dinner," he wrote, "you are planning in his honor will be a well-merited tribute given in true Christian spirit to a devoted and effective disciple of Christ."

Congratulations Extended

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk extended his congratulations to the Rev. and Mrs. Gollnick and to the congregation and spoke of the many worthwhile civic enterprises for the betterment of the entire city and its people in which the Rev. Mr. Gollnick gave so generously of his time.

President Lawatsch then introduced the guests which included Police Chief Raymond Van Buren, Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy, District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn, William Geary, captain of the fire department; Patrolman Edward Leonard, Mr. and Mrs. Ben M. Ashton, Fred Van Deusen, County Treasurer John T. Groves, Coroner Ernest Kelly and Louis R. Netter.

Paul Terpening and Fred Ahlers, past presidents, were presented and the Rev. Mr. Gaise brought congratulations from his church.

A letter of congratulations also was read from Herman LaTour, president of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church.

During the program, Philip Paradi entertained with his vibra harp and Fred Van Deusen with his tricks of magic.

On behalf of the pastor, Lawatsch acknowledged baskets of flowers from the paid fire department, baskets of flowers from the Ladies' Aid, center piece of rosebuds from Edward H. Albrecht and a 10th anniversary cake from Friedel's Bakery.

Council Gives Song

A highlight of the evening entertainment was a song by members of the church council comprised of Elmer Rylance, Herman Osmers, Fred Paulus, Charles Baxter, Ralph Finnigan, Richard Priepke, Robert Schwenk, Henry Rose, Frank Doyle, Jr., George Zellmer, Oscar J. Lawatsch and William Pieper. The theme of their song was to express how the church council felt with Pastor Gollnick as their leader. The song was "Pack Up Your Troubles in Your Old Kit Bag."

Past President Fred Ahlers briefly reviewed the record of achievements in the church since the pastorate of the Rev. Mr. Gollnick.

On behalf of the congregation, President Lawatsch presented the pastor with a handsome watch. His presentation remarks follow: Folks, you have all heard about our persistent pastor. It is his persistence and good sermons that have enriched our lives, reached down in our hearts, made us better church members, better givers to benevolences and our church, better neighbors. His persistence and genial disposition have won him many friends. Our congregation has known about his persistence for a long time, but only recently one of the newspapers thought it was front page news.

In fond remembrance of the past 10 years, on behalf of our congregation, I present to you this token of our appreciation of your good work among us.

Pastor Gollnick expressed his profound gratitude and grateful love and paid tribute to his wife.

Common Council

James to Greenkill avenue, $8,000. Most of the others are smaller projects.

Ernest A. Steuding, public works superintendent in his report on the proposed program, said not all of the streets listed, "but a substantial number," can be done during the summer construction season." He stressed also, that because "contingency cost" is included in the estimates, some of the streets will probably be done at costs less than the estimates.

Asks No Restrictions

The request asked that no restrictions be placed on the number or idenity of the streets listed, so that the department could proceed "as conditions and finances permit." The money, he said, is to be used only for reconstruction and not maintenance.

The report on equipment stressed that "increasing scarcity of strategic materials for industry and defense," makes it currently important that worn equipment be replaced and other needed equipment purchased.

Among items listed were two road graders, a sanding and scraping vehicle, a cleaning machine, machinist's shop lathe, a utility vehicle, small truck, and precision office machines.

Fire Department Funds Asked

The request for the new fire trucks, filed by Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy, as clerk of the Board of Fire Commissioners, asked for $20,000 for two trucks to replace the one at Rapid Hose Company and that at Cordts Hose Company.

The trucks are needed, the report said, "to replace worn out equipment and to enable the fire department to furnish the best possible fire protection for the City of Kingston." Repairs to the old equipment, it said, would be costly.

A report from the B.P.W. to Alderman Storms as chairman of the traffic committee, said the city "cannot convert the present two-way traffic lights into three-way lights under the present set-up because of the way these lights are installed. The cost would be more than that for new lights."

Aldermen Edwin Radel and John Buboltz had asked in a November resolution that money be included in the budget for installing amber caution lights in each present traffic light and in all future lights.

Bus Service Asked

The request for consideration of bus service for the First and Third avenues and Ulster street area by Mayor Newkirk said that requests had been made to his office for the service, and he asked the council's railroad and bus committee to investigate the need and take the necessary steps to obtain bus service for the people of that area.

The Outdoor Meter Advertising Devices Inc., 19 East 48th street, which said it does business on a nationwide scale, said by letter that it was informed that it had learned that the Parking Meter Advertising Sales Co, of New York, had discontinued its operation in Kingston, and it offered a contract with a larger revenue.

Asks End of Contract

A letter dated Jan. 31, by the Parking Meter Advertising Sales Co., of New York, signed by D. J. Perlmutter, president, said the corporation had "decided to discontinue and asks that the contract with the city be abrogated."

The concern asking for the new contract said it could guarantee $1 per meter per month with use of at least one-third of the meters. (The former plan brought the city about $150 a month. There are about 700 meters in the city).

Vetoes Legislation

Mayor Newkirk informed the council by letter that he had vetoed recent legislation on the application of the DeForest Shaver bus line to operate over city streets, because a public hearing had not been held, and one would be necessary. The line operates between points in the towns of Esopus and Rosendale and the city.

A letter from the mayor announcing the reappointment for three years of Augustus S. Brinnier, 77 Linderman avenue, to the City Planning Commission, was read and filed.

Three claims filed against the city were referred to the corporation counsel and auditing committee.

One for $5,000 was filed by Attorney Chris J. Flanagan for Goldie and Samuel Jamison, 61 German street. It said that the former was injured last Dec. 11 because of a defective sidewalk near 46-48 Hunter street. She suffered injuries of the left knee and leg, back and other parts of the body, the claim said.

Another claim, for $2,000 was filed by Attorney Bernard A. Culloton for Mrs. Julia Messing, 64 Foxhall avenue, and is for injuries, which the claimant said were suffered last Jan. 11 when she fell on the sidewalk in front of the municipal barn on East O'Reilly street. She suffered back and knee injuries and broke her glasses, the claim said.

Ella Leverenz, who gave no address, mentioned no amount, but said in her letter that she fell while on her way to work recently on Locust avenue, suffering injuries of the head and other after effects.

Delegation Attends

A delegation from the College Women's Club, Mrs. Albert Kurdt, Mrs. Robert Groves and Mrs. Charles Forst, attended the session as observers and were invited by Alderman-at-large Joseph Kelly to sit on the rostrum where they could better hear the proceedings. They were introduced by 12th Ward Alderman Robert C. Cullum.

A resolution by Alderman Radel asked a study by the traffic committee and a report in March on a condition on Hasbrouck avenue, between Foxhall avenue and East O'Reilly street. The section is congested with unlimited parking, and the block contains several businesses which need access to parking facilities. Residents are also denied access to driveways because of all-day parking, he said.

Ninth Ward Alderman Paul J. Schatzel introduced three resolutions, which were referred to the traffic committee.

One asked for a study of a parking problem on Broadway between Foxhall avenue and Staples street, and said that "after consideration of the needs of business men and residents of the area, a report be made to the council recommending a suitable plan for elimination of the congestion.

Schatzel also asked for a study of the problem on West O'Reilly street near Broadway and a report to the council with a plan for eliminating a "one-way traffic situation" there, and he asked that an area of 60-feet from Broadway on the south side of Staples street be marked as a "no parking" zone.

The council recessed until Feb. 20 on motion of Alderman Bruck, chairman of the finance committee, after the committee had apparently failed to agree on immediate action on the $145,000 B.P.W. appropriation, and before adjournment, on motion of First Ward Alderman Hirschell Mayes, the council stood for a moment's silence in tribute to the late City Historian William C. DeWitt.

City Detour . . .

Intersections Considered

Consideration must be given to the number of intersections involved in any route detour. Grand street from Broadway to Smith avenue has no intersection by which traffic crosses Grand street. Traffic proceeding between Grand street and Cornell street has no intersection by which traffic crosses Smith avenue. Cornell street between Broadway and Smith avenue has no intersection by which traffic crosses Cornell street. Traffic proceeding on Smith avenue from Grand street to O'Neil street does have the intersection of Cornell street. O'Neil street between Broadway and Smith avenue has one intersection, that of Tremper avenue. O'Neil street is approximately 49 feet wide and the intersection at O'Neil street and Broadway is protcted by traffic signals which make it convenient for motorists to enter Broadway.

Consideration must also be given to keeping traffic as much as possible into business and industrial areas, thereby causing as little disturbance as possible to thickly residential areas. No detour system can completely eliminate traffic in residential areas, but the existing system does it better than any other system suggested. Traffic flowing through residential areas increases the hazard to children. The reason for the one-way street on Smith avenue between Downs street and O'Neil street is (1) to keep traffic from flowing on Smith avenue to Albany avenue over the hazardous intersections of Smith avenue and Downs street and Smith avenue and Elmendorf street and (2) to divert traffic as much as possible away from No. 6 School. Many children cross Smith avenue to go to the corner store at O'Neil street and Smith avenue and this was an additional reason for the one way street on Smith avenue between O'Neil and Downs streets.

In addition, if traffic were to flow over Smith avenue to Albany avenue, it is very probable that there would be necessitated the cost of additional police protection at one of the intersections such as Albany avenue and Smith avenue, or Downs street and Smith avenue.

Would Cross More

Under the plan of using Smith avenue and Ten Broeck avenue as one way streets, more intersections would be crossed and there would be a heavier flow of traffic through the residential areas increasing the possibility of a child being hit by a motorist.

If Ten Broeck avenue were to be used as a one way street, it would be logical to run it one-way from Foxhall avenue to Albany avenue which would involve crossing a number of bad intersections, and also make it necessary to divert all of the Broadway traffic on Ten Broeck avenue to Albany avenue thereby causing a bottleneck at this point, or additional light or additional officer. This system would also divert a heavy flow of traffic into two bad intersections, namely, East St. James street and Albany avenue and Albany avenue and Broadway.

The proposal to use Smith avenue and Ten Broeck avenue for one way traffic would increase the cost of police protection.

It is planned to improve the existing detour by traffic signals at Smith avenue and Grand street and Smith avenue and Cornell street. They have been ordered. When the light at Smith avenue and Grand street is installed the city anticipates using an officer only at peak load periods such as from 8 to 9 a. m.; 4:30 to 5:30 p. m. and when otherwise necessary.

Consideration for Business

Consideration should be given also to the overwhelming sentiment of the business men of the central business area. They desire traffic kept in their area as much as possible and not officially diverted from their places of business. The central business area must temporarily suffer because of the crossing elimination. The state does not give any compensation for business damage. A detour plan should not further drive business traffic away from the central business area.

We wish to point out also that what we are considering is the official detour, over which the main volume of traffic flows. Many of our local residents are now using Foxhall avenue, Manor avenue and Ten Broeck avenue. This they have a right to do. We urge all using these streets, however, to drive with the greatest caution.

We ask the public to consider the problem with patience and understanding. For many years the people of the city clamored for an elimination of the Broadway crossing. Now that work on the project has become a reality, we must suffer temporary inconvenience. It is a price of progress.

We recommend a continuance of the existing detour system.

Respectfully submitted,
BENJAMIN A. STORMS

Intersections Considered

Consideration must be given to the number of intersections involved in any route detour. Grand street from Broadway to Smith avenue has no intersection by which traffic crosses Grand street. Traffic proceeding between Grand street and Cornell street has no intersection by which traffic crosses Smith avenue. Cornell street between Broadway and Smith avenue has no intersection by which traffic crosses Cornell street. Traffic proceeding on Smith avenue from Grand street to O'Neil street does have the intersection of Cornell street. O'Neil street between Broadway and Smith avenue has one intersection, that of Tremper avenue. O'Neil street is approximately 49 feet wide and the intersection at O'Neil street and Broadway is protcted by traffic signals which make it convenient for motorists to enter Broadway.

Consideration must also be given to keeping traffic as much as possible into business and industrial areas, thereby causing as little disturbance as possible to thickly residential areas. No detour system can completely eliminate traffic in residential areas, but the existing system does it better than any other system suggested. Traffic flowing through residential areas increases the hazard to children. The reason for the one-way street on Smith avenue between Downs street and O'Neil street is (1) to keep traffic from flowing on Smith avenue to Albany avenue over the hazardous intersections of Smith avenue and Downs street and Smith avenue and Elmendorf street and (2) to divert traffic as much as possible away from No. 6 School. Many children cross Smith avenue to go to the corner store at O'Neil street and Smith avenue and this was an additional reason for the one way street on Smith avenue between O'Neil and Downs streets.

In addition, if traffic were to flow over Smith avenue to Albany avenue, it is very probable that there would be necessitated the cost of additional police protection at one of the intersections such as Albany avenue and Smith avenue, or Downs street and Smith avenue.

Would Cross More

Under the plan of using Smith avenue and Ten Broeck avenue as one way streets, more intersections would be crossed and there would be a heavier flow of traffic through the residential areas increasing the possibility of a child being hit by a motorist.

If Ten Broeck avenue were to be used as a one way street, it would be logical to run it one-way from Foxhall avenue to Albany avenue which would involve crossing a number of bad intersections, and also make it necessary to divert all of the Broadway traffic on Ten Broeck avenue to Albany avenue thereby causing a bottleneck at this point, or additional light or additional officer. This system would also divert a heavy flow of traffic into two bad intersections, namely, East St. James street and Albany avenue and Albany avenue and Broadway.

The proposal to use Smith avenue and Ten Broeck avenue for one way traffic would increase the cost of police protection.

It is planned to improve the existing detour by traffic signals at Smith avenue and Grand street and Smith avenue and Cornell street. They have been ordered. When the light at Smith avenue and Grand street is installed the city anticipates using an officer only at peak load periods such as from 8 to 9 a. m.; 4:30 to 5:30 p. m. and when otherwise necessary.

Consideration for Business

Consideration should be given also to the overwhelming sentiment of the business men of the central business area. They desire traffic kept in their area as much as possible and not officially diverted from their places of business. The central business area must temporarily suffer because of the crossing elimination. The state does not give any compensation for business damage. A detour plan should not further drive business traffic away from the central business area.

We wish to point out also that what we are considering is the official detour, over which the main volume of traffic flows. Many of our local residents are now using Foxhall avenue, Manor avenue and Ten Broeck avenue. This they have a right to do. We urge all using these streets, however, to drive with the greatest caution.

We ask the public to consider the problem with patience and understanding. For many years the people of the city clamored for an elimination of the Broadway crossing. Now that work on the project has become a reality, we must suffer temporary inconvenience. It is a price of progress.

We recommend a continuance of the existing detour system.

Respectfully submitted,
